The supreme court of New Brunswick will be opened pro forma tomorrow, and will then adjourn until next Tuesday, February 5th, out of respect to the memory of the late Queen.

Died in England.

Miss Amelia Swin received last week the sad news of the death in London on Jan. 10th of her only remaining sister, Emma. Miss Emma Swin has resided for some years past in England, and was purposing to come out to this country in the spring. The family have many friends in this city and neighborhood, who will deeply sympathize with Miss Swin in her sad bereavement.

A Straight Deal.

We are glad to find the following in the Telegraph:—"Neither the Telegraph, its manager or anyone connected with the paper has any knowledge whatever of the facts in connection with the making up of the Rothery non-resident list. The published statement that the list was mailed by the gentleman who has since become manager of this paper is equally untrue; nor, so far as can be learned, was the list mailed by anyone connected with him."

MRS. SHUTE'S DEATH.

Succumbed to an Attack of Pneumonia on Sunday Morning.

Mrs. Jean P. Shute, widow of the late S. F. Shute died at her residence, St. John street, at eight o'clock Sunday morning. Her death was due to an attack of pneumonia and was quite sudden and unexpected, her illness being of only two days duration. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late John W. Moore of St. Stephen and was 49 years of age. She was the second wife of the late Mr. Shute and leaves three step-sons viz, Arthur A. Shute, of Shute & Co. and Frank, of the Royal Bank, both of this city and Dr. James Shute of Philadelphia. One brother, Edward Moore, and three sisters, Mrs. Nash, of Harrington, Me., Mrs. Strange and Miss Moore, of St. Stephen, survive her.

The circumstances connected with Mrs. Shute's demise are particularly sad. Her sister, Miss Moore, while on a visit here contracted pneumonia, and her youngest stepson, Frank, was attacked by the same disease. It was while nursing them that Mrs. Shute herself was stricken down. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 2 o'clock with services at the Cathedral. Interment will be made in the old burying ground with Undertaker John G. Adams in charge.

The King's Thanks.

Lieut. Governor McClellan on Saturday received the following despatch:

Ottawa, 26th Jan., 1901.

Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick:

I have been commanded by the King to transmit his warmest thanks to you and the people of your province for your loyal and sympathetic message, which was much appreciated by His Majesty. (Signed) MINTO.

Col. Buchan Dined.

Lieut. Col. Buchan was entertained to dinner by the officers and attached officers of the R. C. R. L., at the mess on Saturday evening. On account of the death of Her Majesty there were no invited guests and the affair passed off very quietly.

AT THE CHURCHES.

Memorial Services Held in Honor of Our Late Queen.

ELOQUENT TRIBUTES PAID TO THE MEMORY

Of the Noblest Woman that Ever Lived.

THE CHURCHES WERE DRAPED IN BLACK FOR THE OCCASION.

Sunday was a day of mourning in Fredericton for our late Sovereign Queen Victoria. In all the places of worship special memorial services were held and eloquent and touching tributes of respect were paid to her deceased Majesty. The churches were all draped in mourning and many of those who composed the large congregations were attired in black.

St. Paul's Church.

At the morning service at St. Paul's church Sunday, the pastor Rev. Willard Macdonald, preached an eloquent sermon on the life and reign of Queen Victoria. At the onset he made a touching allusion to Her Majesty's death and the sorrow felt in all parts of the world over the sad event. The affairs of the empire he said had undoubtedly been a great strain upon Her Majesty, and in addition she had been called upon to bear the loss of relatives and friends near and dear to her. Notwithstanding her own troubles, she knew how to drop silent tears of sorrow and sympathy for the victims of disaster, such as famine and war. He pointed out that the father of Her Majesty, the late Duke of Kent, had resided in Nova Scotia for several years; three of her sons had visited Canada at different times, and her daughter, the Princess Louise occupied Rideau Hall for a term. The preacher also reminded his audience that one who had frequently preached to Her Majesty and enjoyed her personal friendship, had in times past occupied the pulpit of the And York. He referred to the late Rev. Norman MacLeod. Her Majesty's diamond jubilee celebration in London, witnessed by several citizens of Fredericton, and the recent visit of the Canadian contingent to Windsor (attle were also alluded to by the preacher as some of the links in the chain which bound Canadians to the throne and person of our late Queen.

Referring to an utterance of the late Queen made in the presence of an African prince, that the Bible was the secret of England's greatness, the pastor expressed the hope that this great empire would never lose or depart from the secret of her greatness. He thought that a word of praise was due the late Duchess of Kent, mother of the late Queen, for the admirable home training given to her daughter. The preacher here related some interesting anecdotes in connection with the Queen's early life and reign to illustrate her noble qualities and goodness of heart. Said he: "Her womanly virtues are known to all and the appellation 'The Widow of Windsor' bears in its bosom the deepest respect. She was a woman first, a queen second, a woman of womanhood in character, and a Queen in office. Had she not been a good woman she would not have been a good Queen. Let us write her mistakes in sand, but let her virtues be chalked in our hearts—her womanhood, her motherhood, her integrity, her principled, her devotion to her God, and to her subjects." In conclusion he said: "And untidily this morning we lay our tributes of respect, a wreath of forget me nots, upon her casket in grateful remembrance, and to the bereaved family we express our sympathy as those who have passed through the deep waters of loved ones separation."

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Macdonald preached a powerful sermon from 1st Samuel 10-24. "God Save the King."

The Methodist Church.

A very large congregation attended the memorial service in the Methodist Church Sunday evening. The pulpit, the organ and altar rail and furniture were draped with black and purple, the effectiveness of which was most impressive. The drapery was the work of Mrs. G. M. Campbell, Mrs. Ristren, Miss Quennie Edgcombe and Miss Albright Sampson. Rev. G. M. Campbell, pastor, was the preacher on the occasion and the exercises were of a deeply interesting character. His text was Judges IV. 4—"And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time." "Our good Queen alive for evermore—God Save the King," said the preacher as he opened up his theme before the congregation. A description of Deborah's influence over the Israelites was followed by tracing the history and influence upon the world of Queen Victoria from her birth down through more than fourscore years, until last week, when her spirit left its temple of clay. No greater proof of the love of the subject for the Queen is needed than the universal mourning over her death. The building of the colonies into a compact empire is the result of her beneficent reign, and newspapers and magazine writers and poets have been vying with each other to proclaim her love. The preacher claimed that woman is competent to reign over a people, or to undertake any responsibility attempted by man. She has more faith, more courage, and is always ready to make greater personal sacrifice than is the sterner sex. The achievements of Deborah and of Joan of Arc as well as hosts of others might be adduced to prove the capacity of women for any position of responsibility. Our Queen had a will of her own, and her personal influence extended to rulers of foreign nations as was shown by incidents. Mr. Campbell most eloquently depicted many scenes in the public life of the Queen and took his congregation tenderly into the death chamber from where the spirit took its sceptre and crown and laid them at the Saviour's feet. Her subjects now sing—

Oh that with yonder sacred throng
We at his feet may fall;
Join in the everlasting song
And crown him Lord of all!

Appropriate hymns and anthems were rendered during the exercises and the deep tones of the organ under the touch of Mrs. Hogg were supported on the concert by Mr. Webb.

Free Baptist Church.

The platform and pulpit of the Free Baptist church are heavily draped in black and purple. In front of the pulpit hang the Queen's picture. The service Sunday night was in memory of the late lamented Queen. The pastor, Rev. F. C. Hartley, preached from Prov. 31st chap. 30th verse: "A woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised." He said that for more than sixty-three years the British nation had been ruled by a good, great, woman. No wonder the people praised her, for she ruled as in the fear of God. Now that she is dead, what more natural than that a band of deeper mourning should circle the nation. No other death has so moved the world. On every hand are to be seen evidences of sincere sympathy and heartfelt grief.

Our good Queen was worthy of all the good things that are being said of her, no eulogy can possibly be too magnificent. As was said of David so say we of Victoria the Good. She has served her generation by the will of God and now has fallen on sleep.

The true vocation of man is to serve his generation. The Queen has been one of the few to recognize the Divine right of kings, not to rule the people with a rod of iron but to serve them with the sceptre of love. From the day when receiving the crown she promised to be good until the day when the crown passed from her hand, she has been most faithful and true.

Victoria ruler by the will of God. The beautiful young Jewess Esther was connected by her uncle "Who knoweth whether thou art brought to the kingdom for such a time as this." So we believe God brought Victoria to the highest summit of human greatness, that her wisdom and gentleness might bless the world, and at critical periods help to avoid calamity. One wonders what might sometimes have happened in the great crises of our national life, if instead of a good, peace-loving, God-fearing woman, some obstinate impulsive man had been in the head of the way.

The Queen lived in the hearts of her people, and there will her memory live for many years.

In her life are to be found the essentials of every good life a good purpose, a good principle and a good place.

She has laid aside for ever the crown of earthly greatness but in its place rests one of brighter. Instead of richer hue, a crown of life that fadeeth not away. May God bless her son our King, and help him to be worthy to walk in the footsteps of his good woman and to fear the Lord as did she.

Baptist Church.

On account of the illness of Pastor Freeman there was no special memorial service at the Baptist church yesterday. The morning services were conducted by Rev. S. Sykes and Rev. J. J. Colter preaching in the evening. Both referred in feeling terms to the great event which has put the Empire in mourning.

At the Cathedral.

A special memorial service was held at the Cathedral yesterday morning, when the Lord Bishop of Fredericton occupied the pulpit, and preached an eloquent and scholarly sermon. He reviewed the great events of the Victorian era, and paid a glowing tribute to the late Queen. His remarks were listened to with breathless interest. The Bishop also conducted in the evening a confirmation service at the Cathedral.

A memorial service was conducted at St. Ann's church by Rev. Canon Roberts, who preached an eloquent sermon dealing with the life of the late Sovereign.

At St. Dunstan's.

At both services at St. Dunstan's church yesterday morning His Lordship Bishop Casey referred in feeling terms to the death of Queen Victoria. He said it was the duty of all true Catholics to be loyal to their country, and their legally constituted authority. His Lordship referred to the noble character and endearing qualities of Queen Victoria as a Queen and woman, and cited incidents to show why our late Sovereign's memory should be revered by Catholics. He stated that the liberty enjoyed by the Catholic subjects of the Empire today was ever greater than in Catholic France and that in no country did the subjects generally enjoy more liberty than that in which we live. In conclusion His Lordship hoped the memory of Queen Victoria's goodness would long be cherished by her subjects, and hoped that his hearers would ask God, from whom all Kings and Princes have their power, to watch over and guide our present sovereign, King Edward VII.

DEATH OF COL. ROBINSON.

Passed Peacefully Away at the Residence of Bishop Kingston—Sketch of His Career.

It is our painful duty today to chronicle the death of Colonel Beverley Adon Robinson, which sad event occurred at ten o'clock this morning, at the residence of his son-in-law, Bishop Kingston. The Colonel had been ill for about six weeks, suffering from the infirmities of age, and news of his demise will therefore not greatly surprise his relatives and friends. He was one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of York county and by many old friends in different parts of the province his death will be regarded in the light of a personal loss.

The deceased gentleman was born at Nashwaakais, in the parish of Douglas, 84 years ago. He was a son of the late Frederick Phillip Robinson, at one time auditor general of New Brunswick and a grand-son of Colonel Beverley Robinson of the Royal American Regiment, and a united Empire loyalist, who came to New Brunswick at the close of the revolutionary war and settled at Nashwaakais on his farm which has ever since been the Robinson homestead. The estate which the first Col. Robinson abandoned to come to New Brunswick was located on the Hudson river and was George Washington's headquarters during part of the war.

The subject of this sketch was married at St. John on May 31st, 1848, to Miss Annie Maria Thurgur, a daughter of Col. John R. Thurgur, at one time a prominent banker, of St. John. They were said to be the finest looking couple in the province of New Brunswick, and undoubtedly had a strong claim to that distinction. They made their home at Nashwaakais up to a few years ago when they removed to the city to reside with their daughter.

Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Robinson celebrated their golden wedding, and received the hearty congratulations of friends living in all parts of the country.

The late Col. Robinson took an active interest in military affairs and was for a number of years Colonel of the Reserve Militia in New Brunswick. As above stated Col. Robinson resided nearly his whole life on the homestead at Nashwaakais, which is now occupied by a member of the fourth generation of Robinsons, and it was a source of pride to the Colonel in his declining years to know that there was no encumbrance on the estate.

The Colonel was endowed with an excellent memory, and could recall events of long ago as vividly as if they had only happened a few weeks before. He was of a kindly and genial disposition and was held in the highest respect by all who knew him.

In addition to a sorrowing widow the deceased gentleman leaves a family of two daughters, Mrs. H. T. Kingston, wife of the Lord Bishop of Fredericton, and Mrs. W. Bruce Heath of North Crois, Manitoba, and one son Frederick Phillip Robinson of Nashwaakais.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock from the residence of Bishop Kingston. The remains will be taken to St. John's church at Nashwaakais, where services will be conducted by Rev. Benson Bellis, and interment will be made in the Church of England burying ground at that place. John G. Adams has charge of the funeral arrangements.

HIS FATHER DEAD.

Sad News Received by Mr. Norton Taylor of the Bank of Montreal.

W. H. Norton-Taylor, accountant of the Bank of Montreal, received a telegram this morning from Kingston, Ont. conveying to him the sad intelligence of the death of his father, Colonel D. Norton-Taylor, at that place. The deceased gentleman was formerly an officer in the Royal Artillery and retired on half pay about twelve years ago with the rank of full colonel. During his military career he saw service at Gibraltar, Malta, Dover and other European Naval stations, and for several years he was inspector of warlike stores at Halifax. He had resided with his family at Kingston for the last eight years. The deceased was 59 years of age and leaves a family of three sons and three daughters.

Mr. Norton-Taylor left by this afternoon's train for Kingston, to attend the funeral.
