

KITCHENER WOUNDED.

Unconfirmed Rumor Circulated in London to that Effect.

TRAIN DROPPED THROUGH A BRIDGE.

And was Buried Almost Out of Sight in Guch.

VON KETTLER'S REMAINS REACH GERMANY.

A STARTLING REPORT.
(Special to the Daily Herald.)

London, Aug. 9.—There is an unconfirmed rumor current that Kitchener has been wounded in a skirmish outside of Pretoria.

HOME FOR BURIAL.
(Special to Daily Herald.)

Bremer Haven, Aug. 9.—The remains of Baron Von Kettler, the German minister murdered at Peking, reached here this morning.

STEYN TO JOIN KRUGER.
(Special to the Daily Herald.)

Paris, Aug. 9.—It is reported on the bourse today that ex-president Steyn will shortly join Kruger in Holland with a view to reaching a definite understanding regarding peace overtures.

MAKES NO DIFFERENCE
(Special to Daily Herald.)

London, Aug. 9.—It was officially announced yesterday that the tour of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York will not be curtailed on account of the death of the Dowager Empress of Germany.

DISASTER TO A TRAIN.
(Special to the Daily Herald.)

Galveston, Texas, Aug. 8.—Advices from Sabine state that a Southern Pacific passenger train fell through the bridge over the Keith lake bayou.

The entire train was precipitated into the bayou almost sinking out of sight. The thirty passengers were all rescued and only two were slightly injured.

SURPRISED HIS FRIENDS.

Cape Breton Man Aged 73 Suddenly Falls in Love and Marries.

Sydney, N.S., August 8.—When Angus Smith left his home at North Fork on Saturday, marriage was a far from his mind as it was at the time of his first wife's death ten years ago. Ever since 1891, Angus Smith has been free from marriage vows and obligations. He lived unostentatiously, worked hard and ate heartily, and although he is now seventy-three years of age he feels "like a fighting cock," as he expressed it today. On Saturday afternoon he went to Glace Bay to visit some friends.

Shortly after his arrival, in the black diamond city he met Margaret McNeil, a spinster about his own age and a native of Boulardevie. It was the same old story of love at first sight. Margaret coquetted with Angus while Angus just fingered his gray beard and gazed with admiring eyes at the lady before him.

Well, he "popped the question" and was accepted and yesterday Rev. James Gillis made the aged couple man and wife. The newly married couple came to Sydney to-day and received the congratulations of their numerous friends. This afternoon they started for the groom's home at North Folk, where a rousing reception awaits them.

Manitoba Wheat Crop.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—Harvesting has begun in the Canadian West, and the indications are that the crop will be up to the enthusiastic predictions made for it in most respect at least. The alarmist reports sent out of damage by rust and heat, were denied by those in a position to know—and the denials would seem to be substantiated by the threshing results so far. In short it is now conceded that 50,000,000 bushels is not an extravagant estimate for the Manitoba wheat crop, exclusive of that of the Territories. Even making all allowances, this should leave 30,000,000 bushels of wheat for export.

An Editor's Order.
(Montreal Herald.)

Said the foreman to the editor;
"We haven't near enough
Of news 'to fill'; we're needing still
A half a page of stuff"
Then the editor he shouted
To the slaves who make the news:
"Find Blondin for four columns a ore
In any town you choose."

A Wise Woman.

At the Opera House on Monday next this sparkling farce will be presented. The freshness and unconventionality of the play makes it an interesting comedy, and the various roles are filled by competent people. Seats on sale at W. J. Kees'—d.

Swells With Swell Chests.

"I had occasion to examine two brothers who had applied for policies in our company the other day," said the medical examiner of a life insurance company. "One was 35 years old and the other was 33. They are both unmarried and are known about town as pretty gay boys. Usually there is considerable attached to writing policies for men who are known as 'rounders,' but these two proved to be perfect specimens of physical manhood."

"I was particularly impressed by their chest developments. They both had the same measurement and also the same expansion—from 39 to 43. When I found that they had smoked cigarettes from boyhood, I wondered all the more at the four inch expansion. Then they told me that when they were youngsters they used to delight in seeing how long they could hold their breath under water. Every time they took a bath in the tub one would take a deep breath, duck under, and the other would time him with a watch. A minute and a half, I believe, was the limit of their endurance. They said it was all their mother could do to get them out of the bath and drive them to bed."

Both Expert in Logic.

"Tom," said a father to his son whose school report showed him to have been an idle young scamp, "what have you been studying this term?" "Logic, father," replied Tom. "I can prove you are not here now."

"Indeed! How so?" "Well, you must be either at Rome or elsewhere?" "Certainly." "You are not at Rome?" "No." "Then you must be elsewhere." "Just so."

"And if you are elsewhere you clearly can't be here."

For answer the father took up a cane that lay near and laid it smartly across his son's back.

"Don't!" cried Tom. "You are hurting me." "Not at all. You have just proved conclusively that I am not here, so I can't be hurting you."

Before his stern parent had quite done with him Tom felt that there must be after all a flaw somewhere in his logic.—London Tit-Bits.

Anticipatory.

"Hiram, I am considering a proposal of marriage, and as you have been coming to see me for nearly six years I thought it would be no more than right to tell you of it."

"Why, Bella, I—I have always wanted to ask you myself!"

"Why haven't you done so?"

"I—I haven't dared to. Will you marry me, Bella?"

"Yes."

"You dear girl! (Pause, properly filled up.) Tell me, now, Bella, whose proposal of marriage you were considering."

"Yours, Hiram."—Chicago Tribune.
