DEADLY KIDNEY TROUBLE
MORE COMMON THAN EVER BEFORE.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

A True Cure for the Terrible Disease.

Kidney trouble the most insidious and deceptive of all diseases is on the increase, and cutting down its thousands every year. It works for many months on its victims before they are properly aware of their true condition. Then there is fear and dread alarm, and the physician is hurriedly consulted. Experimenting on the suffering one is then proceeded with,—but soon—too soon—the victim is pronounced incurable, and left to die.

Dr. Paine's world-famed medical prescription, Paine's Celery Compound is the one great and positive cure for kidney ailments such as Bright's disease and diabetes. It is the only medicine that reaches the seat of the awful and dreaded malady. After a brief use of Paine's Celery Compound the sufferer from kidney trouble gets rid of backache, headache, constipation, bloating and that constant call to urinate. The wonderful and curing compound acts gently on the kidneys, the liver, the stomach, and of all the organs of digestion, and brings them into perfect harmony with each other.

No case of kidney trouble is too difficult for the life-giving virtues of Paine's Celery Compound. See that you get "PAINE'S."

Macaroni is taken from a Greek derivation which means "the blessed dead," in allusion to the ancient custom of eating it at feasts for the dead.

Estate

The count only laughed. "I still have left," he gayly exclaimed, "enough of my patrimonial estates with which to do a neat song and dance." Saying which he drew a paper of Westmoreland sand from his bosom and scattered it over the stage. "Oh, Bevis!" faltered the deceived girl, taking heart.—Detroit Journal.

A Helpful Hint.

"Sir," began the beggar at the restaurant door, "won't you help me to get a square meal?" "No," snapped the man who had just come out. "But stay. Yes, I will. Here's a tip for you. If you succeed in raising the price of a square meal, don't go in that joint for it, for you won't get it."—Philadelphia Press.

Why Monarchs Were Insane.

Pathologists have often pointed out the fact that physical and mental enervation are apt to go hand in hand, and the intellectual degeneracy of etiquette monarchs may have a good deal to do with the Sybaritism of their palace life.

The plebeian functions which mediaeval sovereigns were obliged to perform by proxy included the adjustment of their gala gloves. They had funkies to remove their cravats and warm their nightshirts, unplat their pigtails and tuck up their bedclothes around their shoulders. In the morning courtiers competed for the honor of holding their washbasin. Peers of the realm waited on bended knees to buckle their shoes. If the inheritor of a legitimate throne lifted a spoon to break an egg, lynx eyed lackeys anticipated his needs with the agility of trained conjurers. Like his food, his information on current topics was served ready dressed and cooked, till he turned into a masticating machine and repeater of conventional twaddle.

Saved Each Other.

A short time ago a guard on one of the Northern expresses while at a big station in the midlands had been talking to the engine driver. Presently he stepped aside and gave his "Right away!" when a gentleman who was late sprang on to the footboard while the train was in motion and tried to obtain admission to one of the compartments.

As the carriage came along the guard seized him by the coat and pulled him off, remarking that he must think himself lucky, for he had practically saved his life.

As this conversation was going on the guard's van came by, and the guard, with that gracefulness acquired by constant practice, sailed majestically on to his van.

The gentleman, who had taken in the situation, thereupon seized him by the coat and pulled him off, saying as the train sped away:

"One good turn deserves another. You saved my life; I have saved yours. Now we are quits."—London Telegraph.
