W. G. McFarlane, of Toronto is in the city and last evening, held a conference with the Tourist Association regarding a new illustrated pamphlet, discriptive of Fredericton and the St John River, shortly to be issued by a Toronto house which he represents. Mr. McFarlane is anxious to have the Association purchase a number of the pamphlets for distribution.

Death at Rusagornish.

John Phillip's of Rusagornish died at his home at that place last evening, from lagrippe. The deceased was 71 years of age, and leaves four sons and nine daughtere. His wife died eight months ago. Joseph Phillips of this city, is a brother of the deceased. The funeral will take place at one o'clock Thursday, services at the Baptist church Rusagornish. R. B. Adams will have charge of the arrangements.

County Court.

The County court met this morning pursuant to adjournment, Judge Wilson presiding. The case of Percy Gunn vs Fred A Jones, an action of trover to recover possession of a wagon, set of harness, and other articles which the plaintiff claims were wrongfully taken from him by defendant, was taken up. R. W. McLellan is counsel for plaintiff and A. George Blair for defendant. When the court reassembled this afternoon the death of the Queen was announced, and out of respect to Her Majesty, His Honor adjourned the court until tomorrow morning, and intimated that a further adjournment unt l Tuesday next would follow.

Daughters of the Empire.

A general meeting of the Daughters of the Empire will be held at Church Hall, Thursday evening at 7 30 o'clock. The first half hour will be devoted to business, after which the following program will be carried out: A series of evening's with English Literature, beginning with the earliest known literature by Mrs. Colter; solo by Mrs. Black; selection from Chaucer by Mrs. Davidson; solo, Mrs. C. H. B. Fisher. Members are requested to read up the subject of the paper, and be prepared to take part in the discussion or to take part in the discussion or to give quotations or short sketches of writers of that time. The Soldiers Wives League are cordially invited to be present, and the society will be pleased to welcome new members.

Aged Lady's Death

Miss Charlotte Barker an aged and esteemed resident of Lower St. Mary's, died at her home at that place yesterday afternoon, aged 81 years. Her death was due to a general breaking down caused by the infirmities of age and was not unexpected. The deceased was a sister of the late Thomas F. Barker, ex-M. P. P., whose tragic death a few years ago is still fresh in the public memory. She was an aunt of Messrs. A. A. and G. M. Barker of the White store, and also of George Y. Dibblee, the well known druggist. The funeral will take place at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Barker homestead. Revs. Benson Balliss and Canon Roberts will conduct the services, and John G. Adams will be the officiating undertaker.

THE EMPIRE MOURNS.

Our Beloved Sovereign, Queen Victoria, Has Passed from Earth.

HER LONG, GLORIOUS REIGN BROUGHT TO A CLOSE.

The End Came Peacefully at Osborne House Today---Surrounded by the Royal Family Her Majesty Passed into Eternity.

THE SAD ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY THE PRINCE OF WALES IN A MESSAGE TO THE LORD MAYOR.

Cowes, Jan. 22, 1901, 6.55 p. m.—
The Queen is dead.

(Special to the Daily Herald.)

Cowes, Isle of Wright Jan. 22.—Noon the Bishop of Winchester has just left Osburn house. He says the end is not immediately expected.

The Queen Sleeping.

London, Jan. 22.—The offi ial bulletin issued at Osborne house at noon today says, there has been no change for the worse in the Queen's condition. This morning Her Majesty has recognized several members of the royal family who were there. The Queen is now sleeping.

Today at Osborne.

Cowes, Jan. 22, noon.—The news from Osborne house confirms the belief of every one that the death of Her Majesty is imminent and it's announcement at any moment would not be a surprise. The weather is cold and rainy.

Beyond the newspaper correspondents few persons are allowed within the gates of the royal residence. Mounted messengers from Osborne ride through Cowes at intervals at breakneck speed, sending off the latest despatches to officials and foreign courts. The rector of Whippingham church remained at Osborne throughout the morning. None of the royal personages have gone driving or walking. It is understood that Emperor William of Germany will not leave today.

Enshrouded in Gloom.

London, Jan. 22, 1.30 p. m.—The gloomy faces of the crowds incessantly approaching the bulletin board at the Mansion House, indicate how little the public hopes to receive better news of the condition of the Queen. Men of all stages and condition, women and children were content to spend a long time in awaiting their turn to come within reading distance of the board.

As the throng moves slowly past the notice board. Those who were unable to get there personally are sending messenger boys with note books and pencils to bring the text of every bulletin there. The grief of all is evident and the relapse announced at 6 o'clock was only too generally anticipated.

Never were there so many black ties in the city before the actual arrival of a time of general mourning and nobody in mingling with the crowds can doubt for a moment that every body in them has a keen personal interest in the Queen's condition.

The Duchess of Connaughts children and Mr. A. J. Balfour, the first Lord of the treasury started for Osborne this afternoon. Mr. Balfour, it is said, goes as the representative of the Premier Lord Salisbury. The summoning of Mr. Balfour with the Connaught children is egarded as indicating that the end of Queen Victoria is fast approaching.

London, Jan. 22.—An official bulletin from Osborne, 4 p m., says the Queen is slowly sinking.

London, Jan. 22, 4.30, p.m.—A bulletin posted at the Mansion House read as follows: "Osborne House, 4, p. m.—My painful duty obliges me to inform you that the life of our beloved Queen is in the greatest danger.

(Signed) ALBERT EDWARD."

Cowes, Jan. 22, 4 p m.—The end i very near. The Prince of Wales has not left the vicinity of the Queen's bedroom since 9 a. m. Emperor William and all the royal family are near Her Majesty's bedside.

Cowes, Jan. 22, 6.55 p. m.—The Queen is dead.

London, Jan. 22, 7.03 p. m.—A telegram from the Prince of Wales to the Lord Mayor is as follows: "Osborne, 6.45 p. m.—My beloved mother has just passed away, surrounded by her children and grandchildren.

(Signed) ALBERT EDWARD."

The Deathbed Scene.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 22.—With members of the royal family gathered at the Queen's bedside, the Bishop of Winchester and the Rector of Whippingham read the prayers for the dead. Happily the Queen was able to recognize those around her. They came to her bedside but the physicians warned them against any attempt to speak to her.

Naturally the family, while recognizing the claim for public information, insist that the details of the events around the death bed shall be secret for the present, and they have imposed the strictest secrecy on the whole household

SORROW IN CANADA.

How the Sad News Was Received in Quebec and Montreal.

Montreal, Jan 22.—Throngs besieged newspaper bulletin boards since very early this morning. When Her Majesty's death was announced the throng as if by a common impulse bared their heads and mutely read the dispatch. Immediately the great bell of Notre Dame cathedral and and Christs church Cathedral as well as all other churches of the city tolled b solemn gong that Britain's beleived sovereign was no more. Tolling will continue till 4.30 p. m.

Since morning everywhere business offices, stock and mining exchanges, boards of trade and other public institutions suspended at once. Flags are at half mast throughout the city.

Mayor Prefontaine cabled a message through Lord Strathcona, Canada's high commissioner, expressing the city's sympathy with members of royal family and telling of the sorrow of Canadian people over the demise of their wise and model Queen.

At Quebec city the parliament buildings have put flags half mast as did the city hall and Archbishop's palace.

The Lieut Governor is now preparing a message of sympathy which he is to cable late this afternoon. The week of sports which were to take place in the city and the Snowshoe Clubs ball and other social functions have been cancelled. Twenty one guns were fired at the citadel which announces the new king's accession to the throne.

At the Mansion House.

London, Jan. 22.—There were remarkable scenes overcast the mansion house this afternoon. On the receipt of the alarming report something resembling a groan was uttered by the hundreds of people and some one started singing the national anthem. All heads were bared and in a moment the crowds were singing God Save the Queen with fervor proving how earnestly they wished for her recovery. The passengers in passing cars, cabs and omnibusses joined in the singing, the drivers reverently doffing their hats.

London, Jan. 22, 4 p. m.—In reply to the Prince of Wale's telegram the Lord Mayor, Mr. Frank Green, despatched the following: "I have received your Royal Highness' sad intimation with profound grief which is shared by the citizens of London, who still pray that under Divine Providence the irreparable loss to Her Majesty's devoted family and loyal subjects throughout the empire may still be averted. Will your Royal Highness be pleased to accept this heartfelt expression of my deep and sincere sympathy."

Recognized the Kaiser.

Berlin, Jan. 22, 3 30 p.m.—The correspondent of the Associated Press here learns from an official source that Queen Victoria recognized Emperor William when the latter went to her bedside yesterday, giving a sign of joy She was unable to converse with him. It is not known how long the Emperor will stay in England.

The Last Farewell.

Dowes Isle of Wight, Jan. 22.—The Queen is said to have bid farewell at midday in a feeble monosylable to her family assembled at her bed side. She first recognized the Prince of Wales to whom she spoke a few words of great moment, then Emperor William and the others present filed past and heard a whispered good bye. All those in the bednoon were in tears.

PARLIAMENT MUST MEET

And Sanction the Assession to the Throne of the Prince of Wales.

New York, Jan. 22.— In discussing the critical illness of the Queen and the accession of the Prince of Wales the London correspondent of the Tribune says: "Precedents have closely engaged the attention of the law officers of the crown with a view to the emergency. The reform act of 1887 has an explicit provision that if parliament at the time of the Sovereigns death be separated by adjournment or prorogation it must assemble immediately. As there is an adjourned session of the new parliament the two houses must meet at least the day after the Queen's death. The object of this statue is clearly to bring in parliamentary privileges in regulating and sanctioning the accession to the throne.

In this emergency it would be a short formal session for administering the oath of allegiance to the new King and there would be probably an immediate adjournment or progation until some period in the spring.

London, Jan. 22.—The arrangements are already practically complete for a meeting of the Privy Council and Parliament, the statutes providing that they shall assemble immediately on the death of a sovereign. The privy councillors could gather together within a few hours. The ministers will at the end give up their seats of office, be resworn, receive the proclamation of the new king, pass votes of condolence and congratulation, and adjourn.

After giving up their seats the Ministers will receive them back by the new rulers. The Privy councillors will also be sworn afresh. Parliament will assemble within twenty-four hours of the death of the Queen, in accordance with the precedent in the case of George III. Emperor William's yacht Hosenzollen has been ordered to leave Kiel immediately. She is expected to arrive at Cowes Friday. No arrangements have yet been made for Emperor William's return to Germany, which is dependent upon eventualities.

The News in Fredericton.

The news of the death of our beloved sovereign reached here at 1.55 o'clock and the public were made aware of the sad event by the tolling of the fire alarm and church bells. Five minutes later the Union Jack was flying at half-mast from nearly every flag staff in the city, including those on the public buildings, hotels, officers quarters and U. S. Consul's office The public were quite prepared for the sad announcement and it created but little surprise, although expressions of sorrow and regret are heard on every side.
