

LOST HIS LIFE.

In a Gallant Attempt to Save a Young Lady From Drowning.

Augusta, Me., June 17.—A special to the Kennebec Journal from Belgrade Lakes, says:

One of the saddest drowning accidents in the history of our state occurred here last night, when Dr. R. J. Martin, of Augusta, lost his life in trying to save Miss Teresa Dolan, also of Augusta, and who also perished. Miss Dolan was a waitress at a hotel and with a party of friends was at the shore of Long Pond. They had intended to go owing to the high wind. Miss Dolan however, started out alone in a boat, in spite of all protests.

Dr Martin and C H Cunningham were at the shore, tying up some fish in readiness to start for Augusta, and soon heard cries. Dr Martin thought it meant trouble for the young woman, though Mr Cunningham thought it nothing serious. Dr Martin was so impressed that he started out in a boat to learn the cause of the cries. As he did not return Mr Cunningham took another boat to search for the other people, but finding no trace gave the alarm at the hotel and a systematic search was kept up all night. At 5 a. m. next day the boats, one bottom up, were found, and the doctor's hat floating nearby. Just what occurred after Dr. Martin passed from sight behind the point will never be known. The general idea is, however, that in some way Miss Dolan was pitched from her boat and that in endeavoring to pull her from the water the doctor's boat was overturned. Grappling irons were secured and the bodies recovered about the middle of the forenoon. The doctor's watch had stopped at 9.10. The remains were taken to Augusta.

Presque Isle and vicinity was visited Saturday night by one of the heaviest frosts ever known during the month of June. Those who had gardens and vines and beans up took the precaution to cover them up, but in numerous instances reported the cold was so great that beans were frozen under heavy coverings of quilts and old carpets. Potatoes, especially those planted on the low lands, suffered the worst, and many an acre was frozen, killing them dead, and in other places putting them back about even with tubers just planted.

Couldn't Follow Him.

At a small country church in England a newly married couple were just receiving some advice from the elderly vicar as to how they were to conduct themselves and so always live happily.

"You must never both get cross at once; it is the husband's duty to protect his wife whenever an occasion arises, and a wife must love, honor and obey her husband and follow him wherever he goes."

"But, sir"—pleaded the young bride. "I haven't yet finished," remarked the clergyman, annoyed at the interruption.

"She must"—

"But, please, sir (in desperation), can't you alter that last part? My husband is going to be a postman."

A Question.

Jack's father and mother were having a very heated discussion at the table one day. They entirely forgot him, and as the argument waxed fiercer he looked from one to the other with real concern on his chubby face. Presently during a lull he cleared the air by asking, pointedly:

"Papa, did you marry mamma or did mamma marry you?"

It Is Written.

"So," said Mr. Upjohn in his most witheringly sarcastic manner, "Johnny gets all his good qualities from you, and all his bad ones from me, does he?"

"Certainly," answered Mrs. Upjohn, triumphant but calm. "Doesn't the Bible expressly say that the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children?"—Chicago Tribune.

Anxious to Be His Friend.

"There are plenty of men in this world," said the head of the firm, addressing the clerk he had summoned into the private office, "who can trace their successes directly to what they at first considered failures. I knew a man who 20 years ago was a clerk in a clothing store. His employer discharged him for incompetency. He hunted through all the clothing stores in town trying to get another job, but couldn't find one, and at last, almost starved, he got a place as a brakeman on one of the railroads. Today he is practically the head of that road, draws a salary of $25,000 a year and regards the man who discharged him long ago as the best friend he ever had. Now, he is only one of hundreds of men who have had similar experiences. So you see what at first seems a misfortune may often be a real blessing in disguise."

The young man hid a yawn behind his hand and, thinking of the live broiled lobster he had the night before helped a certain soft eyed creature to remove from the scene, languidly replied:

"Yes; I know that has frequently happened. Did you want to speak to me about anything in particular this morning, Mr. Yamsley?"

"Oh, no; nothing of special importance," the old gentleman replied, "only I'm going to give you a chance to look back some day and regard me as your best friend. Goodbye. I hope you'll have all kinds of success at whatever you decide to go at."

Panics and Religious Books.

There is one kind of business, according to a New York man prominent in it, that does not enjoy easy financial conditions. It is that of publishing devotional and religious literature. This publisher explained this anomalous condition as follows:

"When everybody is prosperous, there is no very great demand for our publications. People are happy, and they do not go to church to any great extent. Preachers will tell you that church attendance is never so good in prosperous times as it is in periods of financial straits."

"Let a panic come on, however. At first our business feels it as keenly as any other line. People suddenly cease buying everything except what they are obliged to have. As times fail to improve, people take more to going to church. Attendance increases very perceptibly. In a few weeks we can tell it in our business. There is a greatly increased demand for devotional books of all kinds. The business increases, and at the very height of the financial troubles we do the largest business. As times get better you can see our trade in this line of publications gradually drop off until, when prosperity again comes round, we settle down to a normal business quite different from the boom we had been enjoying."

Life Aboard an Arctic Boat.

The days and weeks pass without our taking any account of them. We get up at 6:30 in the morning. At 7 we feed the dogs. At 8 we have breakfast, and at 12 we dine. Then we work till 6:30, when we have supper, after which we smoke and play cards or chess till bedtime. It is not at all cold. Rarely does the thermometer descend below zero. Yesterday the sun shone gloriously. The ice reflected it with a blinding glare and in brilliant colors.

The ship has withstood all the assaults of the ice. It is splendid to see how it breaks up ice that is sometimes three or four feet thick. At other times, when it is even thicker, the ship is rushed against it at full steam. The shock splits and breaks it very often for a distance of 40 or 50 yards. The Duke of Abruzzi is always on the bridge and loses no opportunity of getting ahead. Sometimes he does not even come down to his meals. Whenever we get the smallest opening, he orders us to go on, and we are glad of it, because the more we advance at the present time the less we shall have to do next year.
