

THEIR BURDEN HEAVY.

British Government Has Decided to

TAX SOUTH AFRICAN MINES $250,000,000

To Help Pay the Cost of the War.

(Special to the Daily Herald.)

New York, June 13.—A despatch to the World from London says: "The British government has decided to levy $250,000,000 on the Transvaal gold mines to help pay the cost of the war."

Sir Edward Barbour, formerly finance minister for India, who was commissioned to report upon the taxable capacity of the mines, advised Colonial Secretary Chamberlain to levy $175,000,000, but Mr Chamberlain, after consultation with Lord Milner, increased the maximum to the amount stated.

This action when it becomes law, is certain to cause consternation among the stockholders who fancied that the idea of taxing the mines which are mostly owned by Englishmen, had been abandoned.

As these very gold mines were held by some to be the real underlying cause of the war, many have maintained that the owners should be made to bear a large share at least of its heavy burden.
