SUMMER NOVELTIES.

Dainty Petticoats—Novel Tulle Evening Gowns.

A pretty novelty in petticoats has white muslin flounces trimmed with insertion or frillings of lace set on a foundation of silk. The flounces may be procured ready made at some stores and are intended to be tacked on to the silk slips, from which they can be removed from time to time for washing.

A white tulle dancing frock recently seen at a summer resort was lavishly trimmed with tiny coral velvet ribbons. The skirt was made with a long yoke of cluny lace describing vandyke points. On this the tulle was plaited at intervals, so that its flare was quite extensive. The lower part of the skirt was trimmed with narrow coral velvet ribbon wrought into a scalloped border.

Another pretty tulle gown was made of simple black and white, with tiny chenille dots powdered all over it.

A very smart evening gown is here shown. It is made of ecru lace and pink chiffon. The lace is cut in a vandyke bolero over a full underblouse of the accordion plaited chiffon. This chiffon is banded with narrow black lace. The sleeves, which reach exactly to the elbow, are mainly of the chiffon banded with the lace and partly covered with two diamonds of lace joined to form an upper sleeve.

The skirt is plain, with the exception of a front and a wide flounce of chiffon. A spray of artificial roses decorates the left shoulder.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Every Man Has His Master.

No man is completely free. Every man has his master. The supremest despot is a thrall, for there is somebody whom he fears and must court. If he does not dread the plebs, he dreads the patricians; if he is not afraid of the people, he is afraid of the army with which he cowers the people; if there is danger in neither the rabble nor the pretorian guard, there is a minister, a major domo, a foreign nation, a jester, a satirist, a dynamiter or a woman who worries and frightens him and in a measure controls his actions.

Put two human beings together, and each will acquire mastery in some respect over the other. The human race is a social body. Men are interdependent. Absolute freedom and splendid isolation are alike impossible. Every one must obey orders or suffer.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Dry.

Invalid—I understand it is quite dry out here?

Broncho William—Dry? Why, stranger, it's so dry here that the rain is wet only on one side.—New York Times.

EVENING HAIR DECORATIONS

Empire Half Wreaths and Coronets of Flowers.

For evening wear as a hair decoration a full wreath or an empire half wreath of tiny pink roses, with a few leaves in either the delicate green of the rose foliage or the darker green of the ivy, is very becoming to a young wearer.

There are also coronets of larger roses or of lilies of the valley combined with maidenhair ferns. Frequently worn with such a hair ornament there will be a similar spray of flowers on the waist or skirt.

A bertha of tiny drooping blossoms such as lilies of the valley or field daisies can appear on a girl's looking gown of airy chiffon or tulle. A princess gown of white lace was seen recently decorated with three lilies near the left bosom, and from this to the bottom of the gown extended a spray of the lilies intermingled with black velvet ribbon.

A smart foulard is the subject of the illustration. The waist is made with a yoke of white mousseline de soie, and the sleeves have undersleeves of the same. The skirt has a wide gored ruffle trimmed with three bands of lace. With this is worn a big black hat with a feather and a pale rosette.

The Smallpox Germ.

"One reason why the smallpox germ is so hard to conquer is that he can assume so many different forms," says C. F. Scott in Ainslee's. "He can transform himself from Dr. Jekyll into Mr. Hyde and into two other distinct persons at will. One can never tell which metamorphosis he may assume. As Mr. Hyde, he is known to the medical profession as Hemorrhagic, a murderous, deadly fellow that covers his antagonist with wounds that bleed so copiously the afflicted one rarely survives more than a few hours, or, at most, a few days. In one of his other characters he bears the name of Confluent, as which he raises poisonous welts on the skin of the victim very thickly, and they have a tendency to coalesce. In this character he inflicts wounds more painful, but less fatal. The Discrete type manifests himself in fewer papules and is less vigorous in his assaults. The Varioloid is the gentlemanly Dr. Jekyll held in check by vaccination, and although there is no mistaking his identity he is mild mannered and well disposed to the sufferer. A victim may be exposed to the Hemorrhagic type and yet the disease which develops in his own system may be any of the other varieties, and similarly through all the combinations. In which form the disease will make its appearance can never be predicted with certainty."

Her Profest.

"Darling," said Edwin, "your eyes are like diamonds, your teeth like pearls, your lips resemble the most glorious rubies, and your hair!"

"Edwin," said Angelina sternly, "remember that you work in a jewelry warehouse and that it's disgusting to talk shop."

Well Made.

Pure flour and pure yeast do not necessarily mean good bread. It may be spoiled in the making. Just so: material is not everything. Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, after a number of analyses, reports that "Sunlight Soap is a pure and well-made soap." "Well made" means more than you think. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will enjoy the benefits of a "well-made" soap, and will see that Prof. Ellis is right. No one should know better than he.
