

M.P.'S WHO ARE DOUBLES.

Several Couples in the Dominion Parliament Who Bear a Very Strong Resemblance to Each Other.

Though nature never repeats a human face or figure, absolutely line for line, it would be strange indeed if there were not some startling resemblances. The House of Commons contains two hundred and thirteen members, and at least eight pairs of likenesses striking enough to be noted by the most casual observer.

First on the list is the likeness between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Talbot, M.P., who sits for Bellechasse. It cannot be said that they are as like as two peas, for they are not. Seen together they have many points of difference. The Premier is cast in a large mold; Talbot in a small one. The Premier's proportions are heroic; Talbot's are what artists call academic.

Looks Like the King.

In a loyal colony there must be somebody of course who looks like His Gracious Majesty King Edward VII. This honor in the House of Commons goes by general consent to Ross of South Ontario. Ross, M.P., has the same pointed beard sprinkled with grey, the same contour of head, and arrangement of hair, the same eul blue eye what we associate with pictures of the King. He is a bit taller, but seen in his seat in the House, the resemblance is close enough to arouse lively feelings of homage. Ross, M.P., however, says that people take him often for Joseph Seagram than for King Edward, the reason being, of course, that Mr. Seagram is known to be doing business in this country, while His Majesty's business confines him chiefly to Great Britain. Mr. Ross has become so accustomed to compliments on his whiskers that he takes them as if they belonged to him. He has also given many anxious enquirers valuable tips as to what his horses may be expected to do at the spring meeting. Another representative of Royalty in the House is the Minister of Agriculture. Since the Royal visit last summer it has been generally recognized that Mr. Fisher is a "ringer" for the present Prince of Wales.

Pretty Nearly Dromios.

Another case, not of two Dromios, but pretty near it, is the likeness between the Minister of Militia and Harty of Kingston. Dr. Borden is a tall man, with a clean shaven upper lip and chin, and flowing whiskers. Mr. Harty is not so tall, more florid, but his arrangement of whiskers is the same, with the exception that his are more of the mutton-chop variety.

McCreary of Selkirk would pass for Dr. Montague before the ex-member for Haldimand shaved off his moustache. Mr. McCreary brings to the House the same fluency in debate and the same acquisition of general information that made Dr. Montague a prominent figure. The difference is that the member for Selkirk is "wid the Government, not agin' it."

The likeness between Emmerson of Westmorland and the late Clarke Wallace has often been noticed. The ex-Premier of New Brunswick, however, goes in for soft hats, while the late member for West York largely affected the silk tie. Like Clarke Wallace, Emmerson, M.P., is a dark-avised man, with a thick tangle of hair and a triste moustache.

Wright and Snettinger.

Wright, who sits for South Renfrew, is such a good second for Snettinger, who sat in the last Parliament for Stormont, that even the attendants of the House were deceived by the likeness. Mr. Wright has the flowing beard that went with the member for Stormont, and to complete the confusion he sits at the same desk that his prototype occupied two years ago. He has been taken, he says, at least a hundred times for Snettinger of Stormont. He relates with a great deal of gusto the story of a commercial traveler who interviewed him one afternoon at the Windsor in Ottawa as Mr. Snettinger, and called on him the next afternoon at his office in Renfrew, and addressed him as Wright.

"You're wrong," said the member for South Renfrew.

"But you're Wright, aren't you?" asked the puzzled drummer.

"Don't you think I'm the wrong Mr. Wright? You know I was Snettinger yesterday."

Then the explanations followed.

Ontario people who have seen the Minister of Finance have been pleased to detect a likeness between him and Sir William Ralph Meredith. Mr. Fielding is, of course, not as tall a man as the Chief Justice, but now that he is putting on flesh the resemblance is more marked than ever.

Like Joe Chamberlain.

They do say that W. F. Maclean affects a general likeness to Joseph Chamberlain, but until the member for East York is willing to admit the monodic likeness will not take anybody's breath away.

Fraser of Guysboro, the biggest man in the House next to Mackie of North Renfrew, is telling this story at the expense of the Red Chamber. In all fairness it must be said that the story refers to a period when the Senate didn't have as much young, new blood as it has now. It was some years ago that the member for Guysboro was showing an American visitor over the Parliament Buildings. The stranger had been introduced to No. 16, the smoking room, and other places of resort, and had seen the Commons in session from the Speaker's gallery.

"Now," said Fraser of Guysboro, "we will go and see the wax works."

The American was taken to the gallery of the Red Chamber, and for some time looked down on the decorous but deliberate proceedings there. He was a sharp Yankee, and fell in with Fraser's joke.

"I say," he said, as they prepared to leave, "if you hadn't told me I'd have almost believed some of those fellows were alive."—H. F. G., in Toronto Star.

Furnished a Dinner.

The monkey lost his hold and fell into the crocodile's waiting jaws. Even then his wits did not desert him. "I just dropped in for dinner," he said, with an engaging smile.

The Marks of Genius.

"He has the stamp of genius on his brow."

"Yes. Also the gloss of genius on his coat."

The Success of Paine's Celery Compound Has Astonished and Gratified Medical Men Everywhere.

It Is The Only Remedy That Positively Bestows Health and Lasting Strength.

Years ago when a great public demand arose for a remedy for nervous ailments as well as a reliable blood purifier, Dr. Edward E. Phelps, Professor of Materia Medica and Medical Botany, of Dartmouth Medical College, gave to diseased and suffering men and women his great discovery Paine's Celery Compound. The success of this wonderful prescription has been phenomenal. No other remedy known to medical science enjoys such a widespread reputation today.

In this month of May when so many are sick, Paine's Celery Compound makes people well. It is the one true specific prescribed by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system; it is a positive cure for sleeplessness, wasting strength, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles and all blood diseases. Mr. S. Hanna, a respected resident of Manvers, Ont., writes thus:

"After severe sickness and suffering for a length of time, I am happy to state that I was made well by Paine's Celery Compound. To be raised up from a low and weak state, inside of two weeks, is a marvellous work, which nothing else but Paine's Celery Compound could have accomplished. After using the first half bottle of the compound I was able to dig the holes for a forty rod fence, and help to build it. Before using Paine's Celery Compound I could not sleep, and had no appetite; now I enjoy good sleep and a healthful appetite. Paine's Celery Compound is worth its weight in gold to any sufferer; it is the best medicine in the world."
