

The Price of Pleasure.

It is hard for a lovely woman to forego the pleasures of the life which she was created to enjoy and adorn. She may have to be busy all day in office or in store, yet she cannot deny herself the social pleasures which are offered her.

But the fatigue is often too great for her, and she suffers from headache and backache as a consequence of over-exertion.

Women who are tired and worn out will find a perfect tonic and nerve in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures headache, backache and the other aches and pains to which women are subject. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I am so pleased with your instructions, I hardly know what thanks to give you for your kind favors," writes Mrs. Milo Bryant, of Lota, Thomas Co., Ga. "I suffered so much with great pains in my back and the lower part of my stomach and palpitation of the heart, that at times I could hardly lie down. Could hardly get up in the morning, but after using three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, I am like a new woman."

Sick women, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE NATIONAL SENTIMENT.

Extracts From Recent Speech of Hon. Clifford Sifton in London, Eng.

There is in the Dominion a distinctly national sentiment of its own. We have a Canadian sentiment, but if I could express the idea correctly, I should say while it is a Canadian sentiment, it is also a British sentiment. It is the sentiment that we are engaged in overcoming a great many natural difficulties for the purpose of building up what we believe will be, outside of England, perhaps, the greatest British community in the world. I had occasion to say a few words at Montreal when some delegates from the London Chamber of Commerce were being entertained. I told them it was my duty to look after the subject of emigration, and that owing to our efforts a great many substantial and desirable people were going from the Western States to the Northwest. I said we desired to carry on the work so as to settle one or two Britishers alongside every man that came from the United States, and I am delighted to know the result of our efforts has been such that immigration from Great Britain has been largely stimulated, and I think I may safely predict that on the Western plains of Canada there will in time be one of the greatest and most prosperous communities of Britishers in any part of the civilized world.

For myself I have serious doubts about the effectiveness of any attempt to more closely unite the different members of the Empire by anything in the nature of a paper constitution. You who come from the colonies well know the number of local circumstances you have to deal with, and that it could be, perhaps, more likely that a paper union would result in dis-union and discontent than in greater union or in greater feeling on the part of the colonies for the Mother Country, and if that result should come about, surely it would appear that such a paper union would be a mistake. During the late trouble in South Africa it was the wonder of the world that the British colonies came forth as one man—not so much that they sent troops, but that they sent them spontaneously. That is a very satisfactory condition of affairs, and I think we should think frequently and carefully before attempting to make any radical change in the position.—From London speech of Hon. Clifford Sifton before Royal Canadian Institute on May Day.

THE SEA GULLS.

How They Follow the Boats From Seattle to Victoria, B.C.

To the traveler on Puget Sound there is nothing that so holds the interest on the day's trip from Seattle to Victoria, or Vancouver Island, as do the sea gulls. These birds distinctly are the feature of the trip.

The sea gulls of Puget Sound are an institution, and as an institution are protected by the governments of the State of Washington and of British Columbia. To kill a gull is a crime, and punishment is swift and sure to any one who is caught committing such a deed. The gulls are the scavengers of the Sound and are faithful to their self-appointed task, always on hand and ever ready to swoop down and remove all refuse from the surface of the water or from beneath the surface if it is within range of their acute vision. Despite the protection accorded by the law many of the gulls are shot and others are trapped by taxidermists and curio seekers, or by men working in the interests of these two classes.

Take the boat from Seattle, leaving the port at 9 in the morning and arriving at Victoria in the afternoon some time after 4 o'clock according to the weather, and the first thing to greet the eye as the boat leaves the dock is a flock of from 200 to 500 of these gulls. Watch them well, for with few variations they will be your companions until you tie up at Victoria that night. There are some five or six different varieties in the flock, some white all over, some nearly all brown, others marked in various ways with brown, and also showing a decided difference in the proportionate size of their wings to their bodies. The bodies appear to be full and plump, but any one who has seen one of the birds plucked will tell you there is little if anything to one of these bodies when the feathers are removed.

As the steamer sails out into the Sound for its northward trip the gulls take up their position. From the outset of the trip they start their apparently tireless circling about the steamer, always going north on the eastern side of it until twenty to fifty feet ahead and then turning and pressing back on the western side.

Why He Celebrated.

One of the professors at Cornell University was born in Canada. He has, however, been for a long time a resident of the United States, and his children were born there. The New York Times relates an amusing anecdote, which the professor himself is fond of telling.

One Fourth of July the professor's eldest son had exploded, early in the afternoon, all the firecrackers that he had provided for the day. The youngster and his little friends wanted more, so the boy found his father, and asked for some money with which to buy a new stock of fireworks.

"I will give you the money, my son, if you can tell me what it is that you are celebrating with all these fireworks," replied the father. "I can do that easy enough," said the boy. "This is the anniversary of the day we licked you fellows."—From a New York Paper.

An Advantage of Khaki.

One definite advantage in substituting khaki for blue cloth uniforms for the army in the tropics and in summer was not considered when the change was discussed in the War Department, the anopheles mosquito not having at that time been exhaustively studied. The malaria breeding mosquitoes will not light upon substances having a yellow color, but swarm about blue fabrics.

The Island of Crete.

The island of Crete was referred to by Homer as having "a hundred cities." Its population according to the last census was only 310,303.

Pancakes.

Pancakes baked on a soapstone griddle are much more digestible than those cooked on iron. A soapstone griddle should be heated very slowly to avoid the danger of cracking. It is never greased, but is rubbed thoroughly with dry salt.

Paper Money.

Paper money developed from the bills of exchange or certificates of the banks and was probably first issued by the Italian bankers of the fourteenth century.

Wrote Sermons While Asleep.

It is reported that a young French clergyman frequently arose in the middle of the night, while asleep, and wrote several sermons. Not only did he compose them, but he spent much time in making profuse grammatical and other corrections on his manuscript, which he would find perfectly legible the next morning.

The Women Rebelled.

In 1549 Henry II. of France interdicted trimmings, borders, gold lace, gold and silver cloth and satins. Great lamentations from the women ensued, and the edict was modified.

The Alhambra Palace.

The most curious palace in the world is the Alhambra, in Spain. It was originally a fortress so great in extent as to be capable of holding 40,000 men. It was begun in 1248 and finished in 1314. It contains numerous halls and courts, all decorated in the highest style of Moorish art.

Indigo.

Indigo was first used as a dye in Europe in 1570. Cochineal came into use about the same time.

Water and Earth.

The amount of water within the crust of the earth is enormous, amounting to 565,000 million million cubic yards. This vast accumulation, if placed upon the earth, would cover its entire surface to a uniform depth of over half a mile.

Some men are known by the company they are unable to get into.

SHOT GUN - PRESCRIPTION -

We suppose we are not revealing any trade secrets when we say that many medicines are made up on the principle of the so-called "Shot Gun" Prescriptions, which were formerly somewhat in vogue. The idea of the Shot Gun Prescriptions was to put into a medicine a large number of different drugs, each useful for different purposes, in the hope that some of them might hit the case.

The most successful physicians we know use a more direct method. The medicine we sell over our own name, and guarantee, does the same. This medicine is called Staples' Dyspepsia Remedy.

It is the best remedy we know of for Dyspepsia in all forms, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Bilioussness, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Water Brach, Sick Headache and all the terrible diseases caused by Dyspepsia. It is not a scattering "Shot Gun" Prescription but it goes straight to the mark, and has cured so many people right here in town, that it gives us confidence to sell it on an absolute guarantee, as follows: If you use a bottle and it does not help you, we will give you your money back without a word of complaint. We could not afford to guarantee it so boldly if we had not seen it succeed ninety-eight out of every one hundred cases.
