Col. Wadmore directed the several movements from the back of his spirited bay charger. A rather noticeable feature of the parade was that the subordinate officers and staff sergeants carried rifles instead of swords.

The Horse Case.

The case of Golding vs. Clark, known as the stud horse case, is still engaging the attention of Judge Wilson and a jury at the county court. The trial of this suit was commenced on Friday last, so that it has occupied four days. Among the witnesses who testified on behalf of the defence today were Alonzo Staples and Dr. E. W. Henry. Counsel are addressing the jury this afternoon and a verdict will be reached either this evening or tomorrow morning.

MR. NEILL'S PROMOTION.

Popular Fredericton Boy Appointed Chief Inspector of Royal Bank.

A Montreal telegram says: "General Manager Pease of the Royal Bank today confirmed the report of the appointment of C. E. Neill, supervisor of the British Columbia branches of the bank, to the chief inspectorship, with headquarters at Montreal. The change will not be made for some time yet."

Some weeks ago the Herald intimated that Mr. Neill would be promoted, and we are glad to be able to publish official confirmation of the report then current. Mr. Neill, in whom the Royal bank management exhibits such confidence, is the eldest son of Mr. James S. Neill, one of Fredericton's leading business men, and enjoys a large degree of popularity in his native city. He entered the service of the Royal Bank here some years ago as junior clerk, and rapidly rose to the tellership. He was afterwards removed to the Vancouver branch of which he shortly became manager, with the additional duties connected with the general supervision of all the British Columbia branches. The position of chief inspector for the bank with headquarters at Montreal, is one of the best plums in the service, and the Herald very heartily congratulates Mr. Neill on his well deserved preferment. To have achieved such a position while still on the sunny side of thirty, is most creditable, and an eloquent tribute to Mr. Neill's ability as a banker and devotion to his duties.

THE WESTON DISASTER.

Verdict of Coroner's Jury Exonerates Steamer's Management.

The inquiry into the David Weston disaster was concluded at Brown's Flats Monday afternoon. In the morning three witnesses were examined and that concluded the evidence. In the afternoon addresses of counsel and of the coroner were made. The jury retired at ten minutes to three o'clock and returned two hours later with a verdict exonerating the officers of the steamer of all negligence at the time of the accident. It was also stated in the verdict that the equipment was complete and in working order according to law, and that the beaching of the steamer was the only thing to do under the circumstances to save life. They recommended that in the future the crews on river steamers should at no time absent themselves in a body from the main deck; that life preservers be kept in several places on the saloon deck; that legislation be enacted prohibiting the carrying of hay and straw on all passenger steamers; and that a passenger list be kept on each trip.

AGED LADY'S DEATH.

Mrs. David Currier Passes Away After a Brief Illness.

The death occurred last night at Miss Russell's boarding house, George street, of Mrs. Marjorie W. Currier, widow of the late Capt. David Currier. Her death was due to an attack of heart trouble and occurred after only one week's illness. The deceased lady was in her 80th year and is survived by a family of one daughter, Mrs. John Cameron of this city, and one son, Mr. Chalmers Currier of Philadelphia. She was a daughter of the late Enoch Barker of Sheffield and a sister of Justice Barker of the Supreme Court bench. She was widely known and generally esteemed for her many good qualities, and her death will occasion much regret. Mrs. Currier has for a number of years made her home with Miss Russell. The funeral will take place from the residence of John Cameron at four p. m. on Thursday.

Band Festival.

Don't forget that the Fredericton Brass Band will hold a grand festival at the Curling rink this evening. There will be all the usual games and amusements and a good time is guaranteed all who attend. There will also be an excellent program of music and a chance to trip the light fantastic. The band boys are deserving of every encouragement, and it is to be hoped that they will have a liberal patronage.
