They Make You Feel Good.

The pleasant purgative effect experienced by all who use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the healthy condition of the body and mind which they create makes one feel joyful. For sale by all druggists.

The Worm Turns.

They were almost ready to start, and, like a good husband, Mr. Smoker waited patiently for his wife to put the finishing touches to her toilet. She was adjusting her hat and took a hat pin from a big cushion. Suddenly she exclaimed:

"I think it's a shame!"

"Yes, my dear," nervously assented Mr. Smoker.

"I mean the way these writers say that women sharpen lead pencils and open cans with their husbands' razors."

"Yes, my dear."

"Yes. Now, I never do such things with your razor, and I don't believe any woman does as the writers allege. I looked at your razor once when I had a box of sardines to open, but it was so sharp and so wabby in the handle that I was afraid to use it. Besides, when I want to sharpen a pencil and have no knife I nibble a point on it."

"Yes, my dear."

"But if the writers wish to put something true in the papers why don't they go for the men who use their wives' hat pins for pipe cleaners? Ugh, you nasty brutes!"

Mr. Smoker forgot to say "Yes, my dear."

John Wesley's Shrewish Wife.

One of his biographers declares that if he had searched the whole kingdom the evangelist John Wesley would hardly have found a woman more unsuitable than she whom he married. She did not even confine herself to her tongue in her attacks. More than once she laid violent hands on him. "Jack," said John Hampson to his son, "I was once on the point of committing murder. It was when I was in the north of Ireland and I went into a room and found Mrs. Wesley foaming with fury. Her husband was on the floor, where she had been trailing him by the hair of his head, and she herself was still holding in her hand venerable locks which she had plucked out by the roots. I felt," continued Hampson, who was a giant of a man, though not one of Wesley's warmest friends—"I felt as though I could have knocked the soul out of her."—Everybody's Magazine.

Two Views.

"Oh, yes!" he said. "I'm quite expert with my automobile now. What I know about road racing would fill an interesting book."

"What you don't know about it," replied the candid friend, "may fill a grave for you soon."—Philadelphia Press.

Did You Ever Notice It?

Miss Doveys—We girls are just wild about Victor Pretty.

Mrs. Binthair—Now, I simply can't endure him. I like strong, stern browed men of indomitable will.

"Gracious! What for?"

"They are so easy to manage."—Life.

With Mitigation.

Jenkins—Then you mean to tell me I have told a lie?

Chambers—Well, no. I don't wish to be quite so rude as that, but I will say this: You'd make a very good weather prophet.—Chicago Journal.

Amusing and Otherwise.

Bacon—When a fly gets on a man's bald head it seems to tickle the man.

Egbert—Yes, and when a fly gets on the sticky fly paper it seems to tickle the man with the bald head also.—Yonkers Statesman.

He Knew.

"He didn't know a thing."

"I have noticed," said the man with mental strabismus, "that there are a great many quacks that are outside the duck trust."—Baltimore American.

Light.

Now Stella goes to church and kneels in attitude devotional:
The scene indeed would stir the heart
Of one who is emotional.

She steals a glance at Bella's gown—
Oh, Lord, forgive the sin of it—
Then promptly faints, poor girl, because
She wears the very twin of it.

The Proper Treatment for Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.
