KING READS MANY NEWSPAPERS.

Watches the English and Continental
Press Closely

FOR REFERENCES TO HIMSELF.

As no morning paper is ever printed in this country without containing a reference in one form or another to the doings of King Edward—evening and weekly newspapers very rarely, while periodicals and magazines of all sorts, week by week and month by month, systematically print paragraphs and articles about him—one might imagine that it is the easiest thing in the world to write things about His Majesty which he will never see, says the London Answers. But the truth is that if there is any real occasion for him, for any reason, to see them, the chances are heavily in favor of his doing so.

The King watches the English and continental press very closely, and glances through at least one daily paper, and very often more, every morning. Special articles concerning himself usually attract his attention; and when he is abroad he has a huge batch of English papers sent to him every day, and invariably reads "what they are saying about him at home."

Obviously it is impossible, however for His Majesty personally to discover all that is written concerning him, and he does not desire to do so. His secretaries, therefore, carefully watch the papers, and if anything is found which it is thought will interest him, or which it is considered necessary he should see, it is laid before him.

To facilitate this process being thoroughly carried out, His Majesty subscribes to two of the best press cutting agencies, who forward every day every line of printed matter that appears in any paper concerning him, each paragraph being pasted on a separate slip of paper, with the name of the journal in which it appeared, and the date of publication.

All these are carefully gone through, and the less important items weeded out. Then anything which His Majesty desires to preserve is pasted up in a cutting album. On special occasions, when the King particularly desires to keep a watch on any series of current events, as sometimes happens, he issues orders for a close scrutiny to be made—for all details concerning them which are printed—and for all the items which are thus discovered to be brought to his notice. This happens frequently in connection with the various charitable objects with which His Majesty personally concerns himself.

Two instances will show how keen is His Majesty's scrutiny of the papers in the way. Shortly after his accession there appeared in one or two journals personal paragraphs of a kind which were not in the least offensive, but which the King did not consider under the circumstances, in the best of taste, and which he did not like. Forthwith a command—sent as a "request"—was sent round to the offices to refrain in the future from the publication of such matters.

Again, quite recently, while he was on the continent, a portrait of one of His Majesty's friends was published in a sixpenny illustrated weekly, with the wrong name underneath. Immediately the King had a letter written by one of his secretaries and despatched to the editor in London, in which he expressed his surprise and regret that so usually accurate a journal should have permitted itself to fall into such an error. His interest in the press was most conspicuously displayed in this instance, inasmuch as the matter had no direct reference to himself in any way, and his name was not even mentioned.

Though the King does not encourage the publication of tittle-tattle paragraphs about his doings, he recognizes the importance and necessity of having them properly chronicled when he is engaged on any state or semi-state tour at home or abroad, and has expressed his desire that on such occasions all possible facilities for the obtaining of information should be afforded to the special correspondents who are told off by the more important newspapers to follow him.

Most of the articles written by these correspondents on such occasions he reads or glances through; and when they please him by their accuracy and general excellence, he sometimes takes steps to acquaint the writers of his satisfaction.

New Zealand's Tariff.

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 21.—The preferential trade bill adopted November 18 by the House of Representatives places a duty of 20 per cent. on the following goods, now free from duty, when from countries outside the British empire:—Bicycle parts, gas engines, gum boots, iron and steel cordage, sheet, bolt and bar iron, printing paper, railroad and tramway rails, sail cloth, canvas and duck and surgical and dental instruments.

The bill doubles the present duty on cement, and adds 50 per cent. to the duties on the following goods, when from non-British territory:—Basketware, bicycles, boots, candles, carriages, china-ware, stoneware, fancy goods, toys, firearms, potted flat, furniture, cabinetware, glass and glassware, hardware, ironmongery, hops, nails, lamps, pianos, paper hangings, paper, plated ware and pumps.

The duty on tea grown within the British dominions is removed.

The bill comes into force immediately after it passes the Upper House (Legislative Council), which, it is expected, will be today.

Besides providing increased duties on foreign goods stated, the bill provides for reciprocity with foreign countries making concessions to New Zealand products. It is estimated that the increased duties will yield $350,000 to $400,000, against which is remission of the tea duty amounting to $200,000. The public is little interested in the measure. The opposition in parliament is mainly on the ground of the rushing through of important proposals during the last hours of the session.

DANGER OF LIVING WITH CONSUMPTIVES

Is real danger because the sputum of affected persons diffuses itself through the air and finds lodgment in the system of others. If exposed to consumption use fragrant healing Catarrhzone, the most efficient germicide known. No case of Catarrh can withstand Catarrhzone which cures this loathsome disease thoroughly. Cold in the head is cured in a few minutes and bronchitis, asthma and lung trouble are cured to stay cured if Catarrhzone is employed. "I don't know any remedy so good for catarrh and bronchitis as Catarrhzone," writes N. T. Eton of Knowlton. "It cured me after years of suffering and saved me from consumption." Two months' treatment, $1.00; trial size, 25c.

Woodstock Notes.

[Special Correspondence to the Herald]

Nov. 21.—One of the most successful tea meetings ever held in the town came off in the opera house last Thursday evening. A very capable staff of young ladies were kept good and busy serving the crowd of nearly 600 people who thronged the tables from 5 to 8 o'clock. The fine band of the 67th Rgt. rendered a choice programme of music. The proceeds, which amounted to $285 will be devoted to paying the deficit of the County Hospital.

The citizens of this county were painfully surprised to hear of the sudden death of S. R. Boyer, one of its best known young men, last Friday night. He will be greatly missed in political circles by his Conservative associates. He was one of the wealthiest men of the county, and left about $12,000 in life insurance to his wife and child.

The adjourned session of the supreme court came to an end on Friday evening. It was necessary to hold some night sessions to bring about the desired end. This session will be a notable one from the number of important cases brought before it, and for its extreme length.

Herbert E. Dickenson, a well known young man of the town, has bought the silver plating business, lately conducted by A. W. Fields, and having installed a new plant is in a position to supply a long felt want.

Stephen Vanwart, a well known citizen, passed away after a lengthy illness of consumption at his residence last week. One of the saddest features of the case is the fact that his only son, Staff Sergeant Guy Vanwart, of the Army Pay Corps at Malta, in the Mediterranean, has made strenuous efforts during the last year to get away in time to see his father again on this earth, but his efforts were unavailing. He obtained his leave and sailed for home the day before his father died. Sergt. Vanwart is a graduate of the Fredericton Business College.

Our post office after years of poor service resulting from old and worn out boxes seems in a fair way to have a new system installed at once. The most notable change is in the size of the boxes, whereas we have had 360 boxes, after the change is effected we will only have 327.

With the prospect of an early election staring them in the face the Tory managers are now casting around for some suitable mottoes to use in their coming campaign against the perfidious Grits. This is rendered necessary owing to the present attitude of the Conservative leader, Mr. R. L. Borden, towards Mr. Tarte, and our own Woodstock Press who 'gladly welcomes the Prodigal' rendering such useful and ornamental mottoes as "Tarte the Traitor," "Tarte and Drg Bie air," "No Tarte For Us" now stored away under lock and key, rather of the nature of a white elephant on their hands. No more will the faithful remnant of a once great party burn the dapper Frenchman in effigy, but with shouts of joy and gladness he is welcomed back again to his former love.

Scenes in Judea.

At Castle Memorial Hall, Toronto, Thursday night Chancellor Wallace of McMaster University, told a large audience about some of the interesting things he had seen during his recent visit to the Holy Land. The lecture was under the auspices of the Theological Society of McMaster, and was illustrated by many fine light views from photographs taken by Dr. Wallace himself. Many of the towns and cities mentioned in the Bible were visited, including Jerusalem, Jericho, Bethlehem, Bethel and Bethany. At Bethany Dr. Wallace was distressed with the great filth of the place, but he was in a measure recompensed by being shown the place where Lazarus was buried. At Bethel, the few people who live there seem to exist for no other purpose than to sell things to tourists, and their persistency is something wonderful. Dr. Wallace bathed in the Dead Sea, and described it as a very beautiful sheet of water. The water is very salty. He saw a party of lepers during a trip out from Jerusalem. The horrible condition of the men gave him a shudder, and impressed him more deeply with the miracles Christ performed in curing the disease.

Between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, the time when womanhood begins and motherhood ends, it is estimated that the aggregate term of woman's suffering is ten years. Ten years out of thirty! One third of the best part of a woman's life sacrificed! Think of the enormous loss of time! But time is not all that is lost. Those years of suffering steal the bloom from the cheeks, the brightness from the eyes, the fairness from the form. They write their record in many a crease and wrinkle. What a boon then to woman, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It promotes perfect regularity, drives up debilitating drains, heals ulceration, cures female weakness, and establishes the delicate womanly organs in vigorous and permanent health. No other medicine can do for woman what is done by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

THE SMALLPOX QUESTION.

Any intelligent physician will admit that you don't catch smallpox because someone else has it, but because your condition favors it. Low vitality always encourages sickness and at this season especially, everyone should take Ferrozone which destroys disease germs and makes the system so strong and healthy that sickness can't exist. Ferrozone is a vitalizing tonic that makes rich, red blood, builds up the nerves, cures nervousness and drives away tired languid feelings. To get strong and keep strong use Ferrozone; it assures health and costs but 50c. at all druggists.

PHYSICIANS FAIL

To Resuscitate a Dead Man.

PROOF THAT WHERE THERE IS NO DELAY

Revival and Consciousness Can be Accomplished.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 21.—An unsuccessful attempt was made last night to bring life back to the body of a man who had been shocked to death by coming into contact with a broken telephone wire that had fallen across a trolley wire.

The experiment proved a failure because the three physicians who performed it arrived on the scene fully one and one half hours after life had fled from the body. The physicians who conducted the intensely interesting experiment in the undertaking establishment of the Wagner Company, on Woodland Avenue, were rather pleased with the meagre results obtained, for it convinced them that a person who meets apparent death by shock can be resuscitated if the experiment is performed immediately after the accident which produces the shock. The three physicians after an hour's work succeeded in causing the heart to again begin beating, but the action was feeble and soon ceased altogether. The blood was started coursing through the veins again, but in an imperfect manner, due to coagulation.

That wonderful drug, adrenalin, first used by Dr. George W. Crile in such experiments, was used in an effort to reanimate the man.

About 5:30 o'clock last evening Jos. Toth, of No. 1219 Oakdale Street, while returning home from work ran against a broken telephone wire at the corner of Woodland and Bolton avenues. The rain was coming down in torrents at the time, and a number of persons were standing on the corner waiting for cars. Suddenly a shriek was heard and the next moment a man's body was hurled from the middle of the street to the sidewalk. The man lay motionless upon the sidewalk while a thin wreath of smoke arose from his clothing, which soon burst into flames. Persons near by rushed to the aid of the stricken man and the flames in his clothing were extinguished. It was seen that the man was dead, having been killed instantly by the contact with the heavily charged wire. An ambulance was called and the body was taken to Wagner's undertaking establishment on Woodland Avenue.

The body of the unfortunate young man had been at the undertaking establishment about an hour and a half when three physicians rushed in and asked to be allowed to perform an experiment in the hope of bringing back life. The physicians were permitted to go ahead. Finally after about fifteen minutes of incessant work the heart began to beat very slightly and in a short time the throbbing became more distinct. The blood in the veins began again to course through the body, and the physicians were elated, beginning to believe that their experiment would prove a success. However, after a short time the heart ceased to beat and the blood stagnated in the body.

They kept at their work for nearly an hour, but were at last forced to give up the attempt to resuscitate the man. The spark of life had fled, and there was no way known to man to bring it back.

The physicians declared that if they had been informed immediately of the death of the man by shock they might have been successful in bringing him back to consciousness. In death by shock physicians declare they do not know the exact moment that the spark of life leaves the body, and it is their intention that in such instances if they can reach the victim of the shock immediately they can revive him.

Toth, the dead man, was thirty-nine years old. He was a molder employed by the National Malleable Casting Company, on Woodland Avenue near the Cleveland & Pittsburg Railroad. He leaves a widow and six children.

IS YOUR DOCTOR BILL LARGE?

Best way to keep it small is not to call the doctor, but use Nerviline instead. For minor ailments like colds, coughs, chills, cramps, headache and stomach trouble Nerviline is just as good as any doctor. It breaks up a cold in one night, cures soreness in the chest, and for neuralgia, toothache and rheumatism you can't get anything half so good as Nerviline. The fame of Nerviline for cramps, colic and pain in the stomach extends far and wide. Good for everything a liniment can be good for and costs but 25c. for a large bottle.

New Hope for the Democratic Party.

The result of the recent New York election will probably have an effect on national politics, and indeed the knowledge that this will be the case probably helped to bring it about. If the Democrats divided can win New York city in November, 1903, they may reasonably expect to make a good fight for the state in the presidential contest of November, 1904. This is a question of more than passing interest. The Democratic party are pledged to tariff reform, and if they succeed in carrying the country and afterwards offer Canada reciprocity in natural products, what an immense market will be thrown open to Ogilvie's flour and other Canadian high grade products. The United States should consume millions of barrels of Ogilvie's flour in the next decade providing tariff conditions are satisfactorily amended.

Provincial Lunatic Asylum.

The commissioners of the Provincial Lunatic Asylum were in session at St. John Saturday. The tenders received for the supplies required at the institution were considered and the following offers accepted: Meats, Kane & McGrath; groceries, T. Collins & Co.; coal, bituminous, the New Brunswick Co., named by King & Co., and the Joggios Co.; drugs, W. C. R. Allan.

The matter of naming a new superintendent for the asylum was discussed at considerable length. There are no less than 20 applicants of medical men in the maritime provinces, Ontario, and the United States. No decision was reached. One of the commissioners said the asylum was at present being managed in a manner satisfactory to everybody.

Spent Over $2,000 Doctoring.

Mr. Joseph Pominville, of Stillwater, Minn., after having spent over $2,000 with the best doctors for stomach trouble, without relief, was advised to try a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He did so, and is a well man today. For sale by all druggists.

Swore in Wrong Place.

Washington, Nov. 21.—William H. Young, thirty-six years old, an artilleryman attached to the Fourth Battery of Field Artillery stationed at Fort Myer, Va., was convicted here in the Police Court today for using profanity in the presence of Mrs. Roosevelt. He was sentenced by Judge Ivory G. Kimball to pay a fine of $20 or spend two months in the workhouse as an equivalent. He went to the workhouse.

Young, who is a teamster, was in charge of the Government team in front of the Pennsylvania depot when the President's carriage, containing Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Cowles, drove up to the shed in front of the station.

The heavy wagon in charge of the soldier was in the path of the conveyance from the White House, and the artilleryman was requested to drive on a few feet by Policeman Whalen.

Instead of complying Young began to swear and was arrested.
