MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 25 1905.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.

On his return to Ottawa Saturday, after a month spent inspecting the Intercolonial railway, Hon. Mr. Emerson said that the road bed and equipment were never in better condition than at the present time. He said that the Canada Eastern was in a splendid condition. The government paid for that road something less than six thousand dollars a mile, and it was one of the best bargains ever negotiated by a government or company.

He was in a position to say that political interference was not the cause of the I. C. R. deficit, as some alleged. Indeed, he wished to give that statement an emphatic contradiction. If the railway were operated by a commission, as some desired, the government would still be responsible.

The causes which contributed to the increasing expenditure were entirely outside political considerations. One drawback was that boards of trade along the line of railway endeavored to direct and control the running of the road. Much more mischief had arisen from this than from any alleged political interference.

"The great question is," said Mr. Emerson, "can the I. C. R. be operated by the government without an annual loss? I am prepared to say that I believe it can. I do not wish to go into all the details at present, but I have seen enough during my trip to satisfy me as to the correctness of my statement. The deputy minister is preparing a report on the subject, which I intend laying before my colleagues along with my own recommendations."

"I would just say here that if the passenger and freight rates on the I. C. R. were as high as on the G. T. R. in eastern Canada, there would be no deficit in the operation of the road."

"I cannot give any assurance as to there being no deficit for the current year, but when the reforms which we contemplate are instituted and established, the whole aspect of the financial position of the I. C. R. will have been changed."

Mr. Emerson pointed out that in the item of coal alone a saving of $100,000 a year could be effected through a better system of handling it. There was a considerable loss in connection with water tanks. Anything that caused detention meant a big loss in operation. The expenses in connection with the management was one that was closely analyzed. Dispatching of trains was also being looked into.

Asked if the road was not overmanned, the minister replied that there were many officials along the line who were on the old Nova Scotia railways and the European and North American railways in ante-confederation days, who are worthy and deserving men, although the work would be more expeditiously done by younger men.

From the minister's remarks the deficits of the Intercolonial will disappear by increasing the revenue and decreasing the expenditure.

Fredericton after all is to be honored by a visit from Prince Louis of Battenburg, the gallant admiral of the British Squadron now at Halifax. As at present planned His Serene Highness will be here on Monday, Oct. 30, and no doubt will receive a very hearty welcome from the people. Although of German birth, the prince since a mere youth has been a naturalized British subject, and has won his way to his present position by energy and merit. Thirty years ago he visited Canada as a midshipman.

A prominent horseman from Nova Scotia at present in Fredericton, expressed his high appreciation of the streets of Fredericton, declaring they were the best of any town or city in the maritime provinces and he is familiar with all of them. He must have reference to the back streets from King to Charlotte, and they are certainly in fine condition. Of Queen street, however, the less said the better. Its surface is very uneven and very little effort has been made this year to improve it.

The Herald was issued earlier today than usual so that all the members of its staff might have opportunity to inspect the exhibition in the daylight hours and take in the races.

Even the wild animals of New Brunswick have heard of Fredericton's great exhibition and have sent a delegate to visit it. The moose which reported at Boiestown, and refused to be sent back to the forest, seemed greatly pleased when he learned that nothing would be put in his way to prevent him seeing the great show, and he is now on the grounds.

The Halifax exhibition deficit reaches $15,000, and it will be made good by the local government and the city of Halifax in equal shares. Neither gave any grant to the show, but they arranged to become responsible for any deficit, and the charge this year is a heavy one. Bad weather was largely responsible for the poor showing, no doubt.

We fancy that there is at last one good Conservative in Fredericton, who, in view of the recent appointment of a very near relative to the permanent force, is not unwilling to acknowledge that political considerations are not always predominant in the administration of the militia department.

In the course of his able sermon at St. Paul's Church last night, Rev. Willard Macdonald said: "I wish the exhibition now being held in this city all possible success in all the purposes for which it is held, agriculturally, industrially, socially and financially."

DEATH OF MRS. E. C. FREEZE.

Mrs. Freeze, widow of the late E. C. Freeze, at one time inspector of weights and measures, died at Sumnerfield, Carleton County, on Saturday. She is survived by one son, Mr. J. Arthur Freeze, barrister of Sussex. The remains will arrive here this evening and the funeral will be held from the Free Baptist church at ten o'clock tomorrow morning, with interment at Forest Hill. Rev. Dr. McLeod will conduct the services. Undertaker John G. Adams has charge of the arrangements.

Commodore Stewart, of the Chatham World, is here attending the exhibition.

Hon. L. P. Farris returned to the city by boat this morning to attend the exhibition.

No Apologies There.

A Story of Beck and Everts.
Senator Everts once unwittingly gave deep offense to bluff Senator Beck. He was discussing the latter's bill forbidding members of congress to practice before the supreme court, and, having occasion to refer to lawyers whose practice was limited to specialties and who never had occasion to appear before the highest judicial tribunal in the land, he called them "unilateral" lawyers.

The professional dignity of Senator Beck was wounded. He had been fairly successful at the bar in Kentucky, but he had early laid aside the law for politics, and there were even some of his colleagues who did not know he was a lawyer. Daniel O'Connell's war of epithets with the fisherman in which he finally triumphed by calling her a "contumelious parallelopipedon" was nothing to the Scotch epithets which Senator Beck began hurling at Senator Everts. He finally satisfied his wounded amour propre by assuring the senate that a unilateral lawyer in Kentucky was more respected than a quadrilateral pettifogger in New York. Senator Everts had not been in the senate long enough then to understand Senator Beck's peculiarities, but he finally succeeded in pacifying the sturdy Kentuckian, and their relations became quite friendly.
