W. H. MURRAY DEAD.

Distinguished Native of Kingsclear Who Won Fame and Fortune as a Lumberman.

PASSAWAY AT HIS HOME IN ST. JOHN.

St. John, Oct. 2.—(Special)—William H. Murray, the well known lumberman, head of the firm of Murray and Gregory, Limited, died at his home here this morning of jaundice and heart trouble, after an illness of some ten days.

Mr. Murray spent his entire business life in lumbering and amassed much wealth, and is estimated to be a millionaire.

In addition to his lumber business Mr. Murray was president of the James Pender Wire & Nail Co. He was also connected with the St. John River Log Driving Company, a stockholder in Hart's Boot and Shoe Company, Limited, a director of the Cushing White Fibre Company, and of the Fredericton Boom Company.

He was never in public life to any extent but was very widely known and held in high esteem. The funeral will be on Wednesday. The body will be taken to Fredericton, thence to Springhill for interment.

The first news of the death of Mr. W. H. Murray, was received here this morning in a telegram to Mr. A. J. Gregory, K. C., and spread quickly about the city. On all sides it was received with expressions of the deepest regret. The late Mr. Murray, was probably better known in this city than he was in St. John, and his death is regarded as a distinct loss to the community. His immense lumbering interests made it necessary for him to spend a great deal of his time here, and his circle of acquaintances was a very large one. For fifty years he has been closely identified with the lumbering industry on the St. John River, and he was probably known by reputation at least to every man, woman and child from River du Loup to St. John.

The late Mr. Murray was a native of Kingsclear, his father being the late Mr. Isaac Murray, who resided on the farm, now occupied by Mr. Thomas Murray. He was educated at the public schools in this city, and at the University of New Brunswick, from which he graduated with the degree of B. A. in 1892. Soon after graduating he was appointed school inspector, and filled the office for about a year. The work was not to his liking and he abandoned it and engaged in the lumbering business with his uncle the late Mr. Thomas Murray, who for many years owned and operated a large saw mill at Springhill. Under his skillful management the business steadily expanded, and for years he has been regarded as the most successful and wealthiest lumberman on the St. John River. He was the owner of extensive lumber limits in Quebec and Northern Maine, and each year controlled perhaps one third of the total lumber cut of the St. John River and tributaries. He was a man possessed of great industry and capacity for work. He never the lumber thoroughly from A to Z. He could use a peevy or hand dog, as well as the next one and frequently took exercise of this kind during his numerous visits to Springhill in the spring of the year.

Mr. Murray has for the past twenty-five years made his home in St. John, where he carried on a large mill business. A few years ago, Mr. J. Fraser Gregory, who had long acted as secretary for Mr. Murray, was admitted to partnership by him and afterwards the business was formed into a joint stock company, under the name and style of Murray & Gregory, Limited.

Had he lived until November Mr. Murray would have been seventy-three years of age. He lived all his life a bachelor, his nearest relatives being one brother, E. S. Ramsay, the Misses Maria, Margaret and Louise Murray, also of St. John, and other brother Mr. Charles Murray, was killed in a runaway accident at Springhill, thirteen years ago. His Honor Judge Gregory and A. J. Gregory, K. C., of this city, and Coun. John C. Murray and Mr. Thomas Murray and the aged age cousins of the deceased.

Among the late Mr. Murray's most intimate friends was Mr. John Kilburn of this city, who has carried on extensive operations for him for the past twenty-five years. When seen this morning by a Herald representative Mr. Kilburn had just been informed of Mr. Murray's death, and seemed to be very much broken up over the sad news. "The death of Mr. Murray," said he, "is a great loss to New Brunswick, particularly to the St. John river district. He was one of the best men this province ever produced and it will be hard to find a man to take his place. I have enjoyed his acquaintance and intimate friendship for many years, and I want to tell you that a better man never lived. New Brunswick will miss W. H. Murray."

Mr. A. J. Gregory, who has acted as solicitor for the late Mr. Murray for many years, was also deeply affected by the sad news. "New Brunswick has lost one of its greatest captains of industry," he said, "in the death of W. H. Murray."

The late Mr. Murray was easily one of the wealthiest men in the province. His heaviest investments are, of course, in connection with the lumbering industry, but he was also a large stockholder in several banks and private corporations. Those in a position to form an estimate say that a million dollars would be a conservative estimate of his wealth.

Upon receipt of the sad news this morning Messrs. Gregory and Kilburn drove to Springhill to make arrangements for the funeral.

The deceased professed the Church of England faith and his remains will be interred in the family lot in Peter's cemetery at Springhill.

A gentleman who knew the late Mr. Murray very intimately said this morning that by his death the province had lost one of its foremost business men. He spoke of the late Mr. Murray as being a man who had performed many kindly acts during his life time. "Why," said he, "the lumber operators along the St. John river who have been helped out of tight places by him could be counted by the score. He always treated those who worked for him with the greatest liberality, and thought nothing of wiping out an adverse balance of five or ten thousand dollars against an operator at the close of a season's work. He also lent a financial assistance to many people not in the lumbering business and was very considerate and generous in his treatment of relatives. Mr. Murray also gave a great deal to charitable objects, but he was not the kind of man to parade his acts before the public. Many people in all walks of life in this province will greatly miss Mr. Murray now that he is gone."

A special train with the remains on board will leave St. John for this city at 10.30 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The train is expected here about one o'clock and the body will be taken direct to Springhill from the train. The funeral will take place at 3.30 o'clock with services at St. Peter's church by Rev. H. Montgomery. It is expected that a large number of friends will accompany the remains from St. John.

There will be no funeral procession from the train, only relatives accompanying the remains to Springhill. Coaches for the accommodation of visitors will leave here at 2.30 p. m. The casket is to be opened in the church and the service will begin at 3.30 o'clock.

FATAL GUNNING ACCIDENTS.

One Lad Accidentally Shot Near Woodstock—Man's Careless Handling of Weapon Killed Boy Near Moncton.

Woodstock, N. B., Oct. 1.—A shooting accident happened Saturday afternoon by which the bright thirteen year old son of Mrs. James B. McRae, a widow, lost his life.

The inquest was held by Coroner W. W. Hay Saturday night and the verdict was that deceased was accidentally killed by a shot gun in the hands of Willie Blake. The evidence of Master Blake follows:

"I am 14 years of age, and know deceased, Jimmie McRae. We went shooting partridge this afternoon, back of Col. Dibble's, in the parish of Northampton. My brother, Jasper and John Kyle, about the same age as myself, were with us. We had dinner at Newburg. Jasper and John Kyle left for home at 2.30. Deceased and myself remained.

"We could not find any partridge, but we saw a squirrel. Each of us were watching for the squirrel as it came down the tree. The bushes were quite thick and I did not see deceased. When the squirrel was near the ground I fired. I don't know what became of the squirrel but I saw my friend fall. I thought he was fooling and went to him and turned him over. I saw he was hurt, asked him to speak, but he only said, 'mother, pray for me.' I noticed he was breathing hard and I left to get help but when I returned with help I could not find the body."

The search lasted for two hours before finding the deceased, but he was dead.

Dr. Nelson Grant sworn said: When he arrived in the woods life was extinct, death was caused by a gunshot wound in the upper part of the chest and left side, extending across the front in the region of the heart, more especially the shot was found in the back wall. Death was instantaneous, the left arm was badly lacerated with shot, and there was evidence of external hemorrhage. Deceased had been dead an hour. George Camber and Stanley Hamilton gave evidence as to the finding of the body.

THE MONCTON TRAGEDY.

Moncton, Oct. 1.—Alfred Howarth, the ten year-old son of Matthew Howarth, weaver in the Moncton cotton mill, was the victim of a fatal shooting accident that occurred a short distance from town Saturday afternoon.

Matthew Howarth, accompanied by his son and Charles Banks and young son, Charlie, all went out the M. and B. railway track Saturday afternoon shooting. A short distance beyond the L. C. R. crossing the party overtook Everett Blacklock, who was also going hunting. He carried a breech loading shot gun on his shoulder and in passing, the elder Howarth asked him if he was aware his gun was cocked.

Blacklock swung the gun over his right arm, pointing the muzzle behind him and struck the hammer with his other hand. The gun was discharged and young Howarth, who was a few feet behind Blacklock, received the full charge of shot in the left side of the face, tearing away his ear and leaving a gaping wound in the cheek.

Blacklock did not see the boy and was not aware of his presence until alarmed by his terrifying scream as he fell to the ground in awful agony.

The wounded boy was conveyed to the hospital as quickly as possible but he was very weak from loss of blood and died a few hours later from his injuries. Blacklock, who was responsible for the shooting, gave himself up to the police Saturday night but was released next morning upon representations of the boy's father, who was an eye witness of the accident, and was satisfied it was purely accidental.

A CRIMINAL CONFESSES.

New York, Oct. 2.—(Special)—The young man who got $360,000 worth of securities from the National City Bank by a forged check is said at police headquarters today to be Henry Ambrose. Sometimes called Henry Leonard. He lived at 583 W. 136th street in this city. The police said he confessed the fraud.

Ambrose was employed as a messenger by Halle & Steiglitz, brokers of Broad street.

He is 24 years old and had been regarded by his employers and his friends as a model of perfect honesty. His position was one of trust. His engagement to a young woman well known in society was recently announced and they were to have been married soon.

According to a confession which he signed yesterday, the crime was all his own, from conception to execution. He made arrangements to dispose of the stocks and bonds which he had stolen, but at the time of his arrest not one had been hypothecated.

After he had finished his admission of wrong doing he said that until the moment of his arrest he did not deem it possible he could be detected.
