Deceased was fifty four years of age, and came here from St. John, his native place when fifteen years of age. He was employed by H. & S. Cullinan with whom he remained until the firm of Cameron & McTavish was formed.

He was a member of the Canadian Foresters, Frontier Lodge, Knights of Pythias, devoting much time to the interest of the uniform rank in this connection, being quarter-master of the first maritime regiment, and was an attendant of Trinity Episcopal church.

BOARD OF HEALTH CASE.

Argued Pro and Con Before the Full Bench.

THE FORESTER WILL CASE.

In the matter of the Cushing Sulphite Fibre Company—H. A. Powell, K. C., argued on an appeal that the order of Judge McLeod was bad because it proposed to wind up the company, and not the company's business. Attorney General Pugsley contra. Court considers.

The King vs. Byron, commissioner of the Parish of Campbell, civil court—M. N. Cockburn, K. C., shows cause against an order nisi to quash a conviction made by Judge McLeod. A. T. Trueman, K. C., contra. Court considers.

The case of the York County Board of Health vs. the Municipality of York was argued in the Supreme Court this morning. Mr. F. St. John Bliss showed cause against an order made by Chief Justice Tuck in August last calling upon the secretary-treasurer of the Municipality of York to pay $300 unconditionally to the chairman of the Board of Health. He explained that at the last meeting of the County Council the Board had asked for $300 to discharge outstanding liabilities, and enable them to carry on the work for the balance of the year. The accounts were examined by the council, and payment ordered less the sum of $55. The chairman refused to accept the reduced amount, and instituted legal proceedings to compel the county to pay the full amount. Mr. Bliss contended that under the Public Health Act the chairman had no authority to act upon his own responsibility, but should have referred the matter to the Board of Health. Mr. Bliss produced an affidavit to show that no meeting of the Board of Health had been held at the time.

Mr. R. W. McLellan, who argued contra, contended that the chairman of the Board of Health had acted under Section 73 of the Public Health Act, which gave him power to apply for a judge's order. Mr. McLellan showed by affidavit that Mr. George T. Green, one of two other members of the Board, endorsed the action taken by the chairman.

The chief justice expressed the opinion that he did not think at the time he made the order that the chairman's bill of expenses was an unreasonable one.

Judge Gregory remarked that the expenses meant a profit to the chairman himself.

The chief justice said that the only point involved in the case was whether or not the chairman had power to take legal proceedings against the municipality without first calling a meeting of the board.

On this point the court reserved judgment.

The Mispec Sulphite Company ex parte White—A. I. Friedman, K. C., supports appeal from the order of Chief Justice Tuck refusing damages to the late Mrs. Forester, on account of the company's action in erecting dams and destroying the fisheries of the Mispec River. Coster, K. C., contra.

FORESTER WILL CASE.

The probate appeal case in re the estate of the late Vesta E. Forester is to be taken up this afternoon. Mr. McAlpine, K. C., will support an appeal from a decision of Judge Darry of the York County probate court, appointing H. F. Grosvenor of Meductic, administrator of the estate of the late Mrs. Forester, instead of the Eastern Trusts Company. Mr. McAlpine's clients who reside in England, contend that the estate should be administered in New Brunswick, as the deceased administrator was domiciled here prior to his joining the Canadian permanent corps. Mrs. Forester's next of kin, contend, on the other hand, that the Major at the time of his death was a resident of Ontario, and therefore the estate must be administered in that province. Should the court decide that the estate must be administered in Ontario, Mrs. Forester's next of kin, will under the laws of that province, be entitled to one half of the property. Should Mr. McAlpine get the decision the whole of the property will go to Major Forester's relatives in the old country. Mr. F. B. Carvill, M. P., of Woodstock, is counsel for Mrs. Forester's next of kin.

JAPAN GAINS POINTS.

Has Established Virtual Government of Korea.

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—A conference lasting nearly a week between Japanese envoys headed by Marquis Ito, and the Korean Cabinet, ended yesterday and was followed this morning by a nine hours sitting at the palace with the Emperor.

At the beginning of today's session, Baron Hayashi, declared his determination not to withdraw until the demands made by Marquis Ito were signed.

The suspense ended at 1.30 this morning, when the cabinet, with the exception of the Minister of Agriculture and Minister of Foreign Affairs Paxchism, having yielded sent forth imperial seals and signed the desired agreement.

The four Japanese demands follow: 1. The appointment of a Japanese administrative government for Korea, under the emperor.

2. The appointment of Japanese administrators and the transfer of Korea diplomatic affairs to Tokio.

No arrangement is to be made with other powers without the consent of Japan.

AN IMPERTINENT ECHO.

Echoes are reported as doing some wonderful things, but one in the Mammoth Cave seems to have eclipsed all rivals, according to the report of a Knoxville man.

A girl among the party with which he went through the cave met a friend on the train, and was explaining underground wonders.

"Did you see Echo River?" she was asked.

"Yeth," she replied, "it wath grand."

"Did you hear the echo?"
"Oh, yeth; I said, 'Who is that over there?' and the echo saith, 'None of your buthineth.'"

At a meeting of the clergy of Minneapolis held recently it was decided to unite the parishes in the holding of a mission in the city from November 5 to 12, inclusive. The meetings are to be evangelistic at that time, and they invited the city clergy to unite with them.

A GLASGOW HOLOCAUST.

Thirty-nine Persons Burned to Death and Many Others Injured.

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 20.—The most terrible fire that has occurred in Great Britain for many years broke out here yesterday in a cheap lodging house for men in Watson street, and resulted in the loss of 39 lives and the severe injury of many others.

The flames were first noticed at 6 o'clock on the fourth floor of the building, which was occupied by 330 men. An alarm was raised and the firemen were speedily in attendance, but flames and smoke were then issuing from most of the windows of the fourth floor.

An extraordinary scene was created by the procession of almost naked men issuing from the door of the building, and against their frantic efforts to escape the firemen had actually to fight for admission.

Reaching the upper floor the firemen found that the narrow passages were becoming congested with men who dropped to the floor overcome by smoke.

Fortunately the fire was confined to the fourth floor, and as soon as the firemen were able to work it was speedily extinguished. The flames had been fed by the wooden partitions of the cubicles, which threw off volumes of smoke, resulting in the suffocation of the inmates. Many on being brought to the street rallied in a few minutes, but others had to be taken to the hospitals. The dead were mostly workmen in the prime of life. They presented a horrible spectacle, their blackened faces bearing evidence of terrible struggles to escape.

Many men were sleeping in the attic floor above the burning fourth floor and these had narrow escapes. The flames burst through the floor and it was impossible for the men to descend. The windows were securely fastened and the men had to break them so that they could climb through to neighboring roofs.

By ten o'clock a search of the building was made and a complete list of the victims obtained, which showed that thirty-nine were dead and thirty-two injured.

It appears to be the custom of these lodgers to sleep in a nude condition and the march of the survivors to the police station was a fantastic one. Some had snatched the covers of the beds and others their trousers, while many wore nothing. The local authorities had to be called upon to supply the men with clothing and warm meals. Owing to their migratory habits and the absence of permanent homes, many of the dead will never be identified. Identification of others is rendered difficult by the absence of clothing.

LOST IN THE WOODS.

Boston Hunter in Maine Had an Exciting Experience.

Ashland, Me., Nov. 20.—Disdaining the services of a guide for an afternoon's tramp through the woods near Masardis, a Boston business man essayed last week to find a deer without assistance, and because of his experience and the resultant amusement of his companions he now frequently wishes that he had taken the advice of the friends camping with him and had taken a woodsman.

After tramping through the snow for several hours the huntsman made up his mind to return to his comfortable quarters, but found that he was wandering aimlessly about and became convinced that he was lost. Having heard many stories of the strange mental affliction which overtakes lost persons, he determined to keep his wits and follow all the rules of woodcraft to find the direction in which he should go.

He established north and south by moss on trees and by the thicker limbs on the southerly side, and then climbed several giants of the forest in an effort to get his bearings. Every attempt to locate himself seemed to be of no avail. He searched for a flowing brook that he could follow to a stream, but only disappointment resulted. Finally as night was coming on, he gave up in despair and determined to make the best of his situation.

Selecting a favorable spot he cut down several saplings and arranged a sort of lean to, which would afford him protection. Before the sun disappeared entirely he cut a notch in a tree trunk in the direction where it was last seen, so that, if the following day proved cloudy, he should have something to indicate the compass points besides the moss on the trees. He gathered wood for a fire, and sat down to meditate on the possibilities of danger from wild animals.

Hardly had he got settled, with the flames from his fire leaping high in the air, than he was startled by a loud shout, and in response to the welcome sound he yelled "Halloo," with all his might. In five minutes he was surrounded by a group of friends and guides.

"Where am I?" he asked nervously, after the greetings were over.

"About two minutes walk from camp; come up and have supper," answered one of his friends, and right cheerfully the man responded.

The explanation of the situation was simple. He had almost reached "home" when he decided to give up the search. Earlier in the evening, when his companions feared that he was lost, they started out to find him, and, travelling some distance from camp, they did not hear his gun, nor he theirs. They returned to quarters and were eating supper, when the reflection of his fire showed in the darkness. An investigation the next day proved that the man had not been a mile from camp during his afternoon's walk.

DIFFERENT FROM N. B.

Supreme Court Judges of Australia Admitted a Lady to the Bar.

Accounts of the admission of Australia's first lady barrister are to hand. The name in full is Miss Greta Flos Matilda Greig. The novelty drew a crowded court, many ladies being present. Chief Justice Sir John Madden and his colleagues of the supreme court in Melbourne signified the occasion by smiling as they took their seats on the bench. The chief justice, addressing Miss Greig, who had been duly admitted with a number of male candidates, conveyed the congratulations of the bench and expressed the hope that she would be as successful at the bar as she had been as a student. Miss Greig rose and bowed. Later in the day she made her first professional appearance in an application on behalf of a branch of the Australian Women's Association.

Interviewed as to the position and prospects of a lady barrister in Australia, Chief Justice Madden said that ladies entering the legal profession were certainly handicapped by nature and sex. Women were naturally more sympathetic than judicial, more emotional than logical. Besides knowledge of the world was as essential to success at the bar as knowledge of the law. Asked whether he had contemplated the possibility of a lady barrister becoming a judge, Sir John replied:

"I see no reason why they should be denied the right to go as far as they can, even on the bench. That is the logical outcome of their admission to the bar if they display there the qualities necessary to win such promotion."

A SURE CURE.

"My husband is so poetic," said one lady to another in a car the other day. "Have you ever tried rubbin' his jints with hartshorn liniment, mum?" interrupted a beefy-looking woman with a market basket at her feet, who was sitting at the lady's elbow, and overheard the remark. "That'll straighten him out as quick as anything I know of, if he ain't got it too bad."

Ragman—Is there anything you don't need that I might take?
Housecleaner—Yes, a bath.
