

TORONTO'S NEW SKY SCRAPER.

New Trader's Bank Building will be Twice as High as King Edward Hotel.

Two Million Bricks to be Used In its Construction.

Toronto Globe.—Cast a glance at King Edward as you pass and imagine another King Edward set on the top of it, and you will get a rough idea of the height to which the new Trader's Bank building on Yonge Street will rise. It will be almost double the elevation of the big hotel. It will, moreover, be the tallest commercial building in the British Empire, and will make a respectable eye for the great American Eagle when he soars abroad from his skyscraper. The City Hall Tower will not be outvalued, nor St. James' Cathedral spire, with its tradition of being the highest on the continent, though it lacks fifteen feet of St. Patrick's 325 in New York. The flagpole of the new building will reach 200 feet above the sidewalk, and its elevators will have a run of 187 feet. Laid on its side the building would make, including its basement storage, an imposing block 100 feet high and covering the greater part of five fifty foot lots. When completed the big block, it is expected, will have a population of 1,500 people.

The construction, is being carried on at a rapid rate, about a story each week having been added to the steel structure since the foundation was finished. The great steel skeleton, is really the great building, and while the stone and brick and terra cotta work will give it the appearance of strength and solidity, relatively they bear not much more than relation to the steel than the paper does to the frame of a kite.

1,700 TONS OF STEEL.

Seventeen hundred tons of steel beams are riveted together in this gigantic bird cage, the rivets used running into the millions. The workmen toss the glowing rivets, white hot from the little forges used by each gang, as dexterously and coolly as though they were candles, and when inserted in place a compressed air automatic riveter, with a noise like a giant woodpecker, hammers them home. Over a hundred men are at work at present, and as fast as the riveting and painting can be done concreting is carried on.

The floors are all made of cement concrete, and 10,000 barrels of native Canadian Portland cement are being incorporated in the structure. The outside casting of limestone is already several feet high and rising every day.

TWO MILLION BRICKS.

About two million bricks are required, and fifteen carloads of terra cotta for the exterior of the three storeys above the ground floor have already arrived from Perth Amboy. Practically all the material required for the building is now on hand. The masonry will be completed by spring, and the building should be ready by Dominion Day, but three months longer may be necessary.

In appearance the building will resemble the American Surety building New York a well known twenty story building on a similar corner. The Blair building, Broad Street, is also similar. The color will be a grey stone like that of the big Flatiron building.

There will be seventeen storeys, but instead of counting the ground floor the first, as is usual in Toronto, the basement and ground floor will be known as such, and the others numbered up to fourteen, the extra top story not being reckoned. A prominence on the roof will give a large space, but the policy of the owners as to admitting the public there has not yet been settled.

MORE FLOOR AREA THAN CITY HALL.

A much greater floor area than the city hall contains will be available, the building being almost 100 feet square, actually 89 feet 9 inches on Yonge and 100 feet 8 1/2 inches on Colborne Streets. Nearly all the floors are 10 feet 3 inches high, the second (third) being 15 feet 6 inches, and the thirteenth 8 feet 6 inches. The first two storeys above the street are to be devoted to the bank, the banking room extending the full height of both.

The construction is fireproof, the only wood being in the window frames and sashes, the door frames and doors and the office floors. Everything else will be non-combustible material, and the steel work will be entirely protected from fire by that means. Automatic fire doors cutting off the elevators and stairways from the corridors will be installed, and two large fire escapes in the rear. A pumping system with standpipes and hose will afford protection. An open court in the rear rises from the fourth floor.

Four high speed elevators will run from dawn until midnight, and through service to the eighth floor will be a feature. Steam heating on the vacuum system, of regulation, which obviates hammering in the pipes, will also be a feature. The lighting throughout is to be electric, and cables are being laid for telephone service, so that tenants will merely have to tap a cable when they rent a phone.

THE INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY PRAISED.

The Irish Guards Band Delighted with Their Trip Over the "People's Railway."

(From the Moncton Daily Transcript, Nov. 16th.)

The following letter from Doctor J. O. Orr, Secretary of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, who managed the concerts of the Irish Guards Band, an their recent tour of the provinces, shows how the bandsmen and all connected with the company appreciated the courtesy of the I. C. R. officials and the excellence of their train arrangements.

Canadian National Exhibition, of Toronto,
Toronto, Ont., Oct. 30, 1905.
J. M. Lyons, Esq.,
Intercolonial Railway,
Moncton, N. B.
Dear Sir,—I feel it my duty to write to you to say how much the Irish Guards Band and their associates enjoyed their trip over the Intercolonial railway. From the commencement at St. John, to our leaving your road at St. John, we received nothing but courtesy from all your employees, more especially in Moncton and in Halifax, where we were well looked after. I may also say the band was most comfortable in your splendid sleeping cars and were permitted to sleep by the excellent character of your roadbed.

Thanking you for your kindness, and through you those who contributed to our comfort, I am,

Yours very truly,
(Sgd) J. O. ODD.

TAYMOUTH.

Nov. 16.—It is again beginning to look like winter. We had a fall of about three inches of snow to warn us what is to follow.

All of the men around here have gone to the lumber woods.

Robert Macdonald passed through this settlement to commence his winter's operations on the Cain's River, Messrs. H. London and J. McConnell also passed through.

We are sorry to report that Peter Woodworth, of this place, is again confined to his home.

J. Machum is busy hauling lumber to the mills.

Ernest and Mrs. R. Woodworth made a visit to the clysters the other day.

Mrs. W. Fraser was in this place the guest of Mrs. P. Woodworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDonald, of Covered Bridge, were recently visiting their daughter, Mrs. P. Woodworth.

Quite a number of the young people attended the Halloween party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Densmore, and all wish to thank the host and hostess for the pleasant time that was spent.

L. Inch, of Marysville, was in this place last week purchasing beef cattle.

Miss A. E. Macdonald, of Covered Bridge, is visiting at her sister's at Laungville.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. P. Waitman, who has been ill for some time, is no better.

Misses Katie and Nellie Summer-ville made a flying trip to Nashwaak one day recently.

Wm. and John McDonald passed through this place last week en route to Cain's River to visit.

Miss Mary J. Evans, who left for Boston some days ago, was greatly missed by the people of this place.

Thomas Evans has returned to Boston, after spending a few weeks at his old home in this place.

Mrs. A. Nicholls and Miss Esther Cass were guests of Mrs. J. Waltman last week.

Mr. Malone was in this place last week running off lines for the lumber woods parties.

Miss Lizzie McLean, our school teacher, spent Sunday at her home at Nashwaak Village.

We are sorry to report the illness of Mrs. E. Bell. Also of Wm. Young. We all wish them a speedy recovery.

We are sorry to report that Rev. and Mrs. Sabies and family, of Nashwaak Village have moved to Matigville. We hope that they will be as well liked and as highly esteemed by the people of Matigville as they were by the people of this place.

The new members of the church at Glenora wish to thank Mr. Sabies for his tender care and kindness shown to them while he was pastor of this field. They also wish he may labor as hard in his new field as he has when with us, and also that he may do as much good. We all wish that good luck and success may follow.

THE HERALD'S FASHION PLATE.

THE MONTE CARLO BOX COAT.

Any of the materials that will prove heavy enough to be worn and comfortable for the cold winter days will make up well in this smart design. The original is in a dark blue melton of smooth finish and glossy surface. The yoke that extends across the shoulders of the coat is applied with rather deep pleats. Double inverted ones occupy the centre back, and the front is arranged with a plain panel in the centre, the pleats occupying the space to the armhole. A shawl collar, hair-cloth lined, is high at the back and rolls prettily down to the front fastening. The sleeve is the usual tail or coat pattern, with a flat cuff at the wrist. Machine stitching with heavy silk and horn buttons make the finish.

low them as they leave for their new field of labor. Our prayers and best wishes follow them.

Miss Gertrude Buchanan is spending the winter in Fredericton with her aunt, Mrs. P. M. MacDonald. James Summerville purchased four fine beef cattle from Chas. McConnell, William McConnell, of Boiestown, who is to scale the lumber on the Cain's River this winter, visited around the camps, accompanied by H. Freese, last week.

N. Hanson and S. Eisey passed through this place looking for cattle.

Misses Lena and Etta McDonald drove to this place with their little gray driver recently. They were the guests of their sister, Mrs. P. Woodworth.

Misses Emma Woodworth and Lizzie McLean were the guests of Miss Annie E. McDonald one evening last week.

William McDonald is busily engaged hauling his car load of hay which he purchased in Florenceville.

Lynne Merrithew and T. McPherson were in this place recently.

There is to be a party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Somerville on Saturday evening, the 18th inst.

LETTERS LOOTED.

Unique Method of Mail Theft Unearthed in Boston.

Boston, Nov. 18.—Charged with rifling the mails Monday by one of the cleverest devices yet to come to the attention of the postoffice inspectors, William G. McCarthy of 183 Kinnaird street, Cambridgeport, a night clerk at the North station postal office, was arrested yesterday morning by United States Deputy Marshal Waters on a complaint made by Postoffice Inspector Perkins.

McCarthy has been employed as a mail clerk since February, 1904, and about seven months ago was transferred to the North station, where he handled all the registered letters and mail for eastern Massachusetts. For a long time complaints have been made to the post-office authorities that letters addressed to persons in that part of the state had never been delivered. In some instances such letters had been mutilated.

Postoffice Inspector Perkins spent considerable time watching the clerks at the North station. Last Tuesday night, while watching McCarthy, he noticed that a registered letter addressed to a party in Lynn was handled by McCarthy. He also noticed that the clerk threw the letter into the case marked "Lynn," but later, when the pouch containing mail for that section of the country was ready for delivery, Inspector Perkins opened it and found this one letter missing. He then went to McCarthy's corner and found the letter was not in its proper place, but had instead been placed in the case marked "Franklin Park."

By tearing across the middle of an envelope, it is possible to ascertain whether or not it contains money.

This envelope in question had been so torn. On searching McCarthy it is alleged a number of bills were found torn in the middle like the envelopes. Inspector Perkins also found a heap of scraps in the water closet, hidden behind the waste pipes and also scraps in the bowl, which, when pasted together, plainly showed that they were mutilated letters. In McCarthy's shoe was found a torn five dollar bill.

On further investigation Inspector Perkins learned that McCarthy had deposited fifty dollars in a Cambridge bank on the day previous and went there. He secured the money and found that nearly every bill had been torn in the middle, just like the letters that had passed through McCarthy's hands.

McCarthy was at once suspended, although he indignantly denies having committed any crime. Inspector Perkins feels confident that he has a good case against him. McCarthy is about twenty-six years old, is married, and lives in a pretty home on Kinnaird street.

Yesterday morning he appeared before Commissioner Fiske, who held him in $2000 bail until next Tuesday.

MOTHER ABDUCTED CHILDREN.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 17.—F. J. L. Tyler, civil engineer, today reported to the police that his wife, assisted by John Boyer, her brother, abducted his two children, Muriel, aged 13, and Eric, aged 5, on Friday, and escaped with them by steamer across the border.

The mother became insane about two years ago, and recovering, went to her parents' home in Ontario, whence she wrote to her husband that she would not return. Two weeks ago she and her brother came from Ontario, and her husband permitted her to see the children almost daily. During his absence on Friday, they abducted the children, who were dragged from their home struggling, and taken on board a launch, whence they were taken on board a steamer at Seattle. Mrs. Tyler subsequently telegraphed to her husband from a way station on the Great Northern Railway that the children were well and happy with her.

The TERRIBLE PANGS OF DYSPEPSIA CAN BE CURED

To be dyspeptic is to be miserable, hopeless, confused and depressed in mind, forgetful, irresolute, drowsy, languid and useless.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic.

Dyspepsia is a disease that in one way or another resembles nearly every other disease, and the only way to get rid of it is to tone up the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. This will be quickly done by the use of

It regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juices to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. M. A. McNeil, Brook Village, N.S., writes: "Last winter I was very thin and was fast losing flesh owing to the run down state of my system. I suffered from dyspepsia, loss of appetite and had blood. I tried everything I could get but to no purpose. I finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters, and from the first day I felt the good effects of the medicine and am strong and well again. I can eat anything now without any ill after effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for I feel it saved my life."
