DIMLOW GOES TO MARKET.

Fails, However, to Sustain Assertion that Man's Housekeeping Makes Family Income More Productive to Household.

(From Puck.)

Mrs. Dimlow was reading the pipe-dream section of the Sabbath newspaper.

"John," she remarked, "it says here that "to make a small income go further let the man do the housekeeping."

"Just what I always claimed," replied John triumphantly.

"I know you did," said Mrs. Domlow, serenely; and she read further: "A man lays down certain rules for for the conduct of his business and sticks to them. He calculates to the fraction of a cent his profits and losses and systematizes every department so it will at least pay for itself if it does not yield a profit,for if he can't do this, or neglects to do it, sooner or later failure will stare him in the face.'"

"True as preaching," declared Mr. Dimlow.

"Suppose," his wife said gently, "we try it for a week. You can stop at the butcher's on your way to the train."

"All right, my love, I suggest a steak for dinner tomorrow night."

Mrs. Dimlow acquiesced, and the following morning John stopped at the butcher's.

"Cut me off a good steak," he ordered; "none of your wafer steak, but a chunky one."

The butcher sawed off a steak as thick as a three-layer strawberry shortcake. "Anything else today?" he inquired.

"Those lamb chops look good to me," said Mr. Dimlow. "Better put in about a dozen of them, frenched. We'll need some of that asparagus, too. Is it grass?"

"California extra, sir."

"About three bunches will do, Oh, to save my coming in tomorrow you might add a prime roast to the meat order. Yes, about 15 pounds will do; only two of us, you know. Send 'em around. Good morning."

When Mr. Dimlow arrived at the dinner table that evening he surveyed the repast complacently.

"Pretty fair steak, eh, my dear?"

"How much was it?" asked Mrs. Dimlow, quietly.

"Usual price for steak, I guess," her spouse answered vaguely.

"I happen to know—I 'phoned the butcher; it cost a dollar and thirty cents. I never paid more than 60 myself."

"But you can't get * * *"

"And what are we going to do with all these chops and that roast? We have nearly all of a turkey left over from yesterday."

"Well, why in Sam Hill * * *"

"And asparagus at a dollar a bunch. I never paid more than 50 cents in my life."

"It was California extra," said Mr. Dimlow, meekly.

"A man," quoted his wife, dreamily, "lays down certain rules for the conduct of his business * * *"

Mr. Dimlow rose, carving set in hand, and fell upon the steak.

"He calculates to the fraction of a cent his profits and losses * * *"

"Ellen, do you wish the tenderloin, or would you prefer the east side?"

Storms.

"Allbone says he can foretell storms."

"He can not only tell them. He can cause them."

"How?"

"By staying out till midnight."

Tree Nursery at Guelph.

Considerable progress has been made with the tree nursery at the Ontario Agricultural College. Hon. John Dryden stated recently that in the spring of 1906 he expected they would be in a position to distribute to the farmers of the Province at least 200,000 trees of various classes.

"We have during the past ten days transplanted about 50,000 two-year-old evergreens—pine, Norway spruce, larch, etc.—and we have sown enough seed to give us 30,000 more," said Mr. Dryden. "We have also gathered enough acorns for at least 100,000 red and white oak trees, a variety of commercial timber which cannot be very well transplanted, but which grows somewhat rapidly from seed. Besides these we have several other varieties, such as maple, beech, birch, ash, and so on."

The trees are planted apart from two to four inches one way, and from twelve to fourteen inches the other way.

Autos and Overshoes.

Automobiles have raised the price of overshoes and rubber boots. Para rubber, which a year ago could be bought for less than a dollar a pound, is now worth $1.30. Before bicycles were popular the same grade of rubber could be had for 50 cents.

The demand for rubber tires for bicycles increased the price of rubber 50 per cent. The automobiles with their heavy weight require proportionately more rubber for their tires, and rubber shoes correspondingly go up in price.

The luxuries of the rich thus pinch the toes of the poor.

The Next Congress.

The next congress, according to complete but unofficial returns, will have in the house of representatives 134 Democrats in a total of 386 members. This gives the Republicans a majority of 118. All but twenty-six of the Democratic members are from the southern states. Three states, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas, send solid Democratic delegations. Ten states, California, Colorado, Kansas, Maine, New Hampshire, Oregon, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington and West Virginia, have solid Republican delegations.

THE LITTLE WEEKLY PAPER.

Folks may prize the city dailies with their editorial views,
With their boasted circulation and their telegraphic news,
With their parliamentary speeches and the same old party song,
And their so-called brainy essays which are always dry and long,
They may prize the great trade journals or the classic magazine,
With its illustrated stories and the science in between—
But the one I hail with gladness, which I long so for to come,
Is that little village weekly which they send me down from home.

Taint no twenty-page edition for it has but only four,
But they breathe the breath of comfort and I always long for more;
'Taint what folks would call artistic, for at times it's dim and blurred,
But it only serves to interest and I make out every word.
It is mostly bright and cheery, though sometimes my heart is bled,
As I read a black-lined notice that some old-time friend is dead,
But there's far more joy than sorrow in the messages so sweet,
Of that little village weekly, that away back country sheet.

How it fills my heart with gladness as I open to peruse,
Through the briefly written columns of the local district news,
There ain't no big lettered headlines nor no colored pictured shows,
Nor the editor ain't trying for to tell folks all he knows,
It don't take up space in telling what has happened o'er the sea,
But it speaks of things and people of great interest to me,
Never fills up half its columns with what daft extremists say,
But it tells me that the farmers all are busy with their hay.

Never prints about four columns of French words I can't pronounce,
To describe some maiden's debut and her costly jewelled flounce,
But it tells me that the neighbors made a bee and got up wood,
For the cripple Sammy Johnson and the poor old widow Hood,
It don't make no lengthy comment on some swell-head potentate,
But it tells me Taylor's filly is a-striking quite a gait,
That their baseball team is beating nearly everything in sight,
That the Rev'rend Simmons lectured in the Baptist Church last night.

It don't deal with wordy matters which professors call profound,
But it tells me Uncle Wriley is in health and pegging 'round,
That Uriah Pratt has traded off his team with Cyrus Howe,
And that Uncle Silas Hamblin sold his famous Jersey cow,
Tells me Sarah Smith is better, that she sat up yesterday,
That a welcome little stranger came to Thomas Dunn's to stay,
That Joe Bowers had built a silo, and Bill Jones had roofed his shed,
That the widow Westbrook's boy came home, the one she thought was dead.

Folks may prize the city dailies with their essays and reviews,
With their parliamentary comments and their latest foreign news,
As for me, well I read at 'em and to grasp their meaning try,
But when comes that 'way-back weekly, then I put the dailies by,
For it brings to me glad tidings of the village I love so,
And it seems just running over with the things I want to know,
It's a little beam of sunshine on life's dark and trackless sea,
That away back country paper which they send from home to me.

Unique Public House.

In a busy thoroughfare in Glasgow there is a fully licensed public house, which is probably the smallest establishment of its kind in the kingdom. When full it can just accommodate eight customers. It is nicknamed the "Coffin," and the regular habitues give the various drinks, etc., names to correspond. A whisky is a "nail," a pint of beer a "lid," and brandy and soda is a "monument." The sandwiches are dubbed "gravestones" and the cigarettes "worms."

A Drawback.

"Every time you speak," said the good fairy, "pearls and diamonds will drop from your lips."

"But," faltered the gentle maid, "don't you think that, under such circumstances, pearls and diamonds may become too dreadfully common?"

Progressive.

A man who had kept a hog in his pen for a year and a half was asked why he didn't kill it and begin to raise another pig, and he replied that he supposed he must keep a hog all the time anyway and he might as well keep that one as any other.

Self Respect.

Maintain your self respect as the most precious jewel of all and the only true way to win the respect of others, and then remember what Emerson says, for what he says here is true: "No young man can be cheated out of an honorable career in life unless he cheats himself."

Why is it that some people think that

Royal Household Flour

won't make pastry and others say it makes the BEST PASTRY they ever ate?

THE reason is not hard to find. It's entirely due to PREJUDICE in the first case and to INTELLIGENT EXPERIMENTIING in the second

THERE are people who believe that it is absolutely impossible to make good pastry from any hard wheat flour. They got this idea a long time ago and they hold to it more

THERE are others of an enquiring mind, not willing to remain in a rut all their lives, who have tested ROYAL HOUSEHOLD for pastry making, and would not now go back to soft wheat flour if they got it for half the price of HOUSEHOLD. They have learned the real delight of a good pie crust as they never knew it before, and nothing henceforth will ever change them.

IT is a remarkable fact that wherever you find a baker to-day who is right up in the front rank of his profession, you will almost invariably find that he is using ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR for both bread and pastry. The Inference is Clear.
