MAY BE THREE

MAJOR LEAGUES.

Louisville, Sept. 13.—If the plans of Manager George Tebeau, W. H. Watkins of Minneapolis, known as "Watty the silent", and two or three other minor league magnates of equally pronounced eminence do not miscarry, there will be a third big league in 1906, in which one and possibly two of the big league teams are expected to form a part.

As at present planned the cities included in the circuit are Louisville, Columbus, Minneapolis and either Indianapolis, Toledo or Cincinnati, in the West, and Baltimore, Washington and Brooklyn in the East. The fourth city not having yet been determined on.

At this time Tebeau declines to talk about the new league, but contents himself with the simple statement that Louisville and the American Association will be found at the top of the heap, whatever this may mean.

FOOTBALL.

Haven, Sept. 13.—Captain Shevlin of the Yale eleven dons football togs for the first time this season. Shevlin has been since last June and this was his first work he had done since he was training with the Yale track team.

The practice Shevlin said that he decided to take the squad out tomorrow. By this move he will get in three practice at the field before the Yale team opens the fall season which is September 18. Football managers announced that Kineon, the substitute tackle of last fall, has sent a word that he will try for the team this year. Kineon is coming from the post graduate course.

THE RING.

McGOVERN COMES TO LIFE.

McGovern has come to life this morning. He is anxious to fight some time ago it was his coxswain's usefulness as a pugilist. However, according to Humphreys, McGovern's manager, Terry is in good condition and prepared to meet any man who cares to take him on. He is especially anxious to meet Nelson. Humphreys said that McGovern is the only fighter who has a good understanding of the fighting game and who has a good understanding of the fighting game and who has a good understanding of the fighting game.

PROBABLE UNDERGO ANY KIND OF SEVERE AGONY. Nelson is willing to talk to him. Nelson is a wonderful fighter. I admit, but I feel that he will try for the team this year. Kineon is coming from the post graduate course.

McGovern is the only fighter who has a good understanding of the fighting game and who has a good understanding of the fighting game and who has a good understanding of the fighting game.

ers should bear Irish names. Of the pugilists of the present time few are Irish, the great majority of them being now young Italian-Americans, who, for convenience or other reasons, have taken Celtic names. Immigrants from Italy coming into New York have had the name of being inclined to use knives when they fought, instead of their fists. This was true of the Italian immigrants, but it does not apply to the second generation of Italians, born and reared in the city of New York. Unlike the older Italians, they have developed here a strong partiality for American athletics, and the number of amateur boxers and professional fighters among the children of Italian parents residing here is very large. It is increasing, too, so much so that a special designation for them has become current. Daps, which is a combination of dago and yap.

In the same way that there has been a change in the fighting proclivities of Italians, the style of one generation being succeeded by the hard knuckles of the next, the Russian Jews who came to this country as immigrants and who are known as peaceable and inoffensive, have in some parts of town been succeeded by a generation of turbulent young men from whose ranks have been graduated a number of professional pugilists and boxers.

WILLING TO FIGHT NELSON.

Technical Champion is in the Curious Position of Asking for a Fight.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 12.—Joe Gans, the lightweight champion, is perfectly willing, even anxious, to meet Battling Nelson. Gans, his manager, Al Herford, and Maurice Herford, who looks after this end, all declare that the result of the battle in Frisco was not what they had expected it to be.

Gans said tonight that had Britt gone on his usual clever style he would have won. "Britt is not a rugged fighter," said the champion, "and he was never known to score a knockout. I believe it would have been impossible for him to have knocked out Nelson, but I believe the bout would have gone the limit and Britt would have won the decision on points. Nelson could never have beaten Britt had not the latter fought him at his own game."

"Nelson at the start probably made Britt angry by punching him on the nose or some other irritating place, and the Frisco had must have lost his temper. He waded into Nelson to the latter's liking and the latter took advantage of this and kept forcing matters with him. Nelson scored a clean and decisive knockout. I'll admit, but he could never have done so had Britt kept his senses and stood him off."

"It would have been a good bet that Britt would have worried Nelson, but he resorted to his hit-and-get-away tactics, that Nelson would have gone down on a chance blow from Britt."

"Now that Nelson has defeated Britt I would like to have a chance with the victor. Nelson may claim the lightweight championship all he pleases, but he will have to beat me to be sure he holds it. I won the title fairly and squarely from Frank Erne in May, 1901, at Fort Erie, Canada, and I have never been defeated. It sounds ridiculous to call a man a white lightweight champion. There was no color line until after I won the title legitimately from a white man."

"I believe that I am Nelson's master. When Sullivan fought Jimmy Britt on the coast only a few months ago I tried to get on a match with Nelson, but the latter would not talk business with my manager. I will fight Nelson under any conditions he wants, but he will have to square with me in the selection of the referee."

Manager Al Herford, speaking for Gans, said that he would be five thousand dollars to four thousand dollars that Gans can beat Nelson.

"I tried every way to induce Nelson to give Gans a match with Nelson," said Manager Herford, "when Sullivan fought Britt, but there was nothing doing. When I tried to talk business with Nelson's manager he side-stepped me and said that Nelson has defeated Britt I am going to keep after him until he gives Gans a match. He and Gans have never fought simply because Nelson never wanted any of the champion's game, but to hold the lightweight title squarely he will have to whip Gans for it."

MISCELLANEOUS.

WORLD'S ROD-FISHING RECORD BROKEN.

Vancouver World.—For the second time the world's rod-fishing record has been broken on the Campbell river. Mr. L. Layard, of Budleigh-Salterton, Devonshire, England, caught 688 salmon, weighing two tons, 1254 pounds, during 44 days spent on the Campbell river and adjacent waters. This is the world's record for one rod in one outing, the best previous catch, also made on the Campbell river, being under two tons, as noted in the Field, the well-known English sporting journal.

Mr. Layard is a gentleman who would be called old anywhere but in England where a man is not old until he is dead. After over thirty years spent in the British consular service he now amuses himself by fishing throughout Canada every summer, collecting views and information, and lecturing for English charities in the winter with a view to promoting emigration to the Dominion.

ion from the Mother Country. Soon at the Hotel Vancouver after his return, he was full of enthusiasm over his experience at Lund. Many salmon were caught on the Campbell river itself, but the bulk of the catch was made on the nine miles of salt water between Seymour Narrows and Cape Mudge, at the mouth of the river.

Mr. Layard expressed the opinion that had he used handlines he could have caught five times as many fish, but he stuck to rod-fishing, using a small spoon. He was full of his experience in the real wild and woolly west. A logging camp and an Indian reserve provided him with as much local color as the most ardent lecturer could desire and the trip he took through the Campbell river canyon in a canoe compressed some years of experience into the space of three minutes. The Campbell river flows through its canyon as the Yukon flows through the famous Whitehorse rapids. Mr. Layard's boat-puller hauled the canoe up the rapids, a distance of over a mile, by main strength, and he had lots of it. Coming back they let the canoe go and the journey that had taken two hours going up took three minutes coming down.

At Quathiaski Cove, Mr. Layard saw a small cannery run entirely by hand-lines. There was no net fishing, all the salmon being caught by trawling. The Piddock Bros. are the proprietors, and one of them caught over six hundred salmon in one day by trawling.

BRITON AND BOER.

Member from Cape Town Thinks They Will Pull Together.

Ottawa Free Press.—Capt. P. C. Van Blommestein, B.A., member for Cape Town in the Legislative Assembly of Cape Colony, and one of the four Dutch members who support Dr. Jameson's administration, called today upon Hon. R. W. Scott, secretary of state, and had an interesting conference of about an hour upon matters relating to the British Colonies. The captain is now thirty-five years of age, and as he fought on the British side during the recent Boer war, his position in the public life of the distant colony is a most interesting one. He has very independent views on public questions, and expresses them with a freedom that is refreshing. He wants the empire made indelible, yet he strongly objects to undue interference from Downing Street in matters of local concern.

He believes the Chamberlain policy would draw the outlying portions of the empire together, and that trade would thus be fostered. If South Africa has to purchase abroad, let her custom go to sister colonies instead of a foreign state, he says. The captain declares, however, that the present government of the cape is taking steps to foster production, for at the present time their breakfast table shows ninety per cent. of outside products.

Although a young man, Captain Bani's political career has been an eventful one. He first contested as an independent candidate one of the Cape Town seats, and was defeated, and his second attempt was to oppose the leader of the opposition in Victoria, that being a forlorn hope. Although he had contested the seat at the request of the premier. When, however, the redistribution bill became law the captain headed the poll in Cape Town. Speaking of his fellow countrymen, he said:

"I have naturally the greatest veneration for my Dutch compatriots in South Africa. I was obliged to fight against them, because I am a Britisher, but I do not share the views of those who talk about disloyalty. I believe that they will be all right, and they will come to proud as I am proud, to be a British citizen. Over here in Canada I also feel at home, because it is a part of the imperial structure."

"What is your opinion of Paul Kruger?"

"Well, I presume that Kruger acted for what he considered the best. He was badly advised and surrounded by people who got all they could out of the country."

"I see here British and French living side by side," he went on, "and why in the world can't Briton and Boer get along in the same harmonious manner? So they can, but to bring this about we do not want to be made the football of English politicians. We will settle the race and religious difficulties in South Africa, just as you settle them here in Canada, without outside interference. I will not say that Dr. Jameson has the confidence of the Dutch people, because I do not think that he has, but time will change all this. He has, as you know, a great deal to live down, but for all this he was giving fair play to all, and I am quite convinced that he will pull out all right."

You catch a cold today, by tomorrow it has reached the throat, next day the lungs are affected and you wish you could get rid of it in five minutes. The first place Catarrhazone soothes the irritated membranes and relieves congestion—that is it cuts out the phlegm and destroys the germs. It enables the blood to retain a natural supply of oxygen, lung food and vitality. In any cough, bronchitis or lung affection it is guaranteed to positively cure. Decline any substitute for Catarrhazone.

BOUESTOWN.

Sept. 14.—The people of this place are very much pleased over the present rain as it was a very dry summer and the springs and wells were getting dry and we hope that this rain will bring the water back to its former flow fresh and sparkling water we have on the Miramichi.

The sportsmen are very plentiful they are arriving early this year to take advantage of the opening season shooting large game all the guides are engaged and are looking for new ones. Letters are coming from American sportsmen making inquiries for guides and hunting grounds, it looks as if there would be a great number of sportsmen here this fall, which will be a great benefit to the people of this place for they pay high wages and give large presents to their guides and the most of them we find are real jolly good fellows.

Mr. L. Hovey of Ludlow, is hauling provision to Burnt Land Brook, for the C. P. R. railroad location and it looks like the new railroad will go down in this section of the country and the people of this place will be glad to have it as near the town as possible.

Dr. P. L. F. Heroult, technical director of the French Electro Metallurgical Society, who have immense works at La Praz, France, where aluminum and steel are produced, now at Ottawa said in an interview that in ten years Canada will become a great metallurgical country. There will be an iron industry larger than any other in the world. It will be the same with iron as with wheat. Canada will furnish to the world its iron supply. Iron can be produced cheaper here than in any other country.

While Joseph Milton, with a four-horse team and a load of plaster, was driving down one of the big hills on the Chemical Road at Hopewell Hill, Albert Co., Monday, the pole horses took to kicking and finally ran away, the driver by the breaking of the reins losing control of the team. When part way down the hill one of the horses fell and was run over two of its legs being crushed so that it had to be killed. The other horses and the driver escaped.

Conservatives of Leduc, Alberta, have nominated C. E. A. Simonds, formerly of Fredericton, for a seat in the new legislature of that province. Mrs. Burr, wife of George R. Burr, a well known lumberman of Hartland, Carleton County, died on Friday after a short illness.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from ovarian or womb trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for ovarian or womb operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Mrs. Robert Glenn of 434 Marie St., Ottawa, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so well and widely known that it does not need my recommendation, but I am pleased to add to the many which you have in its favor. I have suffered untold agonies from ovarian troubles for nearly three years, and the doctors told me that I must undergo an operation, but as I was unwilling to do this, I tried your Vegetable Compound, and

Guest: "In what way, sir?"

Stranger: "When I tripped in the dance and went sprawling on the floor, tearing my fair partner's dress, you was the only one in the room who did not laugh."

Guest: "The lady was my wife, and I paid for the dress."
