FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1905.

A CHARGE OF TUNE.

It is not very often that a Liberal politician lives to see a certificate of character for himself from a Tory newspaper, but there are a few exceptions to this rule.

There is Mr. Tarte, for instance, who, when he left the government, was coddled and flattered by the Tory press until he began to think he was the whole political push in Canada, and Hon. A. G. Blair had many bouquets from the Tories when he was opposing the government's railway policy in parliament, and later when they thought he was going to mount the political stump and help the Tories in their last election campaign.

Mr. Sifton is still another former Liberal minister who has commanded Tory admiration, but not until after he had resigned from the government, the Toronto Telegram is honest enough to give Mr. Sifton credit for the manner in which he administered the immigration department, and to say something good for the people he brought to Canada. In a recent issue the Telegram says:

"The west will absorb all the Galicians and Doukhobors that Europe can send out. Time has already proven that Hon. Clifford Sifton was right and that his critics were wrong in their view of the Galician invasion. Galicians may be more noted for industry than for intellect, but the hard working Galicians fill a place in the west that could not be filled by any influx of college professors. The Doukhobors are prone to leave the track of Canadian habits, but the mosquitoes in summer and the climate in winter will soon alter the Doukhobor fancy for undress parades."

STILL SURVEYING.

Our esteemed friend, The Moncton Transcript, will discover from a published interview with Engineer Dunn of the G. T. P. that The Herald's statements as to engineering parties still being in the field trying to improve on the central route were entirely correct, and that the surveys are still incomplete.

Engineer Dunn says that there are five parties of surveyors now at work on the proposed lines in New Brunswick. Four of the fine parties are working on a line common to both the central and the St. John valley routes, while one party is working on a line which would be used only by the central route. The parties are all working on revisals of the surveys already made.

Between Chipman and Moncton two parties in charge of Engineers Weatherbee and Balcolm are at work and two more parties are at work to the west of Grand Falls.

The party engaged on a line which could be used only for the central route is now working to the east of Plaster Rock, and is in charge of Engineer Foster.

The Transcript has questioned the correctness of The Herald's statements along the line discussed by Engineer Dunn, and it now has an answer from an official source, which, we presume, it will not seek to controvert.

BLAST FROM DUNDONALD.

A great many people in Canada have forgotten all about Lord Dundonald, the mess he made in this country and the summary way in which the government found it necessary to relieve him of his office, but occasionally the noble lord resurrects himself, when anything is said respecting his career in Canada, and his manner of leaving us.

Recently Lord Dundonald wrote to The Dublin Freeman Journal protesting against the statement that he was relieved of command in Canada for making a jingo speech. He says that his determination not to allow political considerations to interfere with military appointments solely cost him his appointment. The government press of Canada, which, up to the termination of his appointment, had been eulogistic of his work, turned round and gave expression to statements which were as false as they were malicious. He enclosed a copy of his public speech in Canada, of which only the garbled versions had reached the English press.

The government of Canada had a great deal of trouble with Lord Dundonald long before he made his foolish speech at a Montreal military

THE ANGLICAN SYNOD.

Odds and Ends of Business Closed up—Adjournment Today.

Quebec, Sept. 15.—The Synod yesterday dealt with a variety of matters of much practical importance. The main contentious matter having been disposed of, quite a number of the clergy and laity left for their homes.

It was found that a number of motions of which notice was given would not be brought up, the movers having consented, in view of the lessening attendance, to allow them to stand over.

Of these may be mentioned Dr. Worrell's motion to give the church in Canada a more suitable name; the motion that the house of bishops and the lower house shall sit together; Rev. L. R. Scott's motion to allow the use of a service for anointing sick persons, and several other matters that it was thought would cause much discussion.

In the afternoon the report on temperance was considered. Some speakers opposed the condemnation by the committee of the Gothenberg system, believing that it had not been properly represented before the committee. The speakers generally deprecated the spread of the liquor habit and favored all possible practical means to prevent it, and the general consensus was that the saloon was an injury to society. On this motion the report was referred back in order that the matter might be gone into more fully. The proposition, which he made an unjustifiable attack on his superiors, but it was that deliverance which, no doubt, brought matters to a head, and relieved him of his command. Lord Dundonald had undertaken to appoint a whole Tory family to commissions in an eastern township cavalry corps to the exclusion of worthy Liberals, who had at least an equal right with Tories in the appointments, and because Liberal ministers interfered and checked his plans, he fell foul of them and delivered his illadvised Montreal speech.

Canadians will choose to remember Lord Dundonald for his gallant services in South Africa, but will find it convenient and pleasant to forget his mistakes in this country. Yesterday in the police court on the charge of having stolen and carried away one locomotive engine, in answer to which he pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried at the assizes. The man is unknown here, and states that he has no recollection of the affair. The damage to the engine was slight.

St. Andrews Beacon.—The Courier tells its readers of a "queer fish" that recently appeared in one of the river resorts. "He" was "white in color," "the shape of a barrel" and "did not show his head." We presume the reason that he kept his head out of sight was because his polished poll would have revealed his identity at once. The St. Stephen editor should choose a more secluded spot when he goes for his plunge.

(This is a pretty good one, but the humor does not all occur on the surface. The Beacon editor is as innocent of hair on his head as the St. Stephen man.)

Senator Dell Porley of Wolsley, is represented as very indignant because Governor Forget of Saskatchewan, did not call on Mr. Haultain to form a government. The senator is always indignant when his Tory friends do not get everything that is going, and his talk of the governor's "infamy" will not very deeply stir the country. What more right has the governor of Saskatchewan to call on Haultain than had the governor of Alberta, and why should either of them bother with that gentleman when they had good Liberal stuff choose from.

Mr. R. B. Bennett, who is the Tory candidate for the Alberta legislature in Calgary, has a heavy contract on his hands. His opponent is Hon. Mr. Cushing, minister of public works, and it is anticipated that the opposition leader will be out of politics after polling day.

BITS OF NEWS.

Items of Interest Culled from Our Exchanges and Other Sources.

Miss Ethel B. Cram, daughter of the late Henry A. Cram, a prominent New York lawyer, died Wednesday night at Lenox, Mass., after lying for two months in an unconscious condition with a fractured skull received on July 13 last from a kick by a pony. The skull was crushed over the left ear, and although some of the most eminent physicians in the country attempted to relieve her, she never spoke after receiving the blow. Within the past few days cerebral spinal meningitis set in, and death was expected at any time.

Leazier Babcock, a man who states that his home is in Lindsay, boarded a yard engine at the C. P. R. yards at Peterboro, Ont., Wednesday night and opening the throttle, started up the line, but had not proceeded far before an open switch derailed the engine. Babcock appeared locutor who had the report in hand consented to its withdrawal. During the debate it was alleged by one representative from Manitoba that local option had proved very unsatisfactory there.

The question of the next place of meeting came up in a message from the upper house that they had decided to accept the invitation to meet three years hence in Ottawa, and on motion the lower house concurred with the bishops in the matter.

There was some discussion over a recommendation of the bishops that the thanks offering in St. Paul's Cathedral in 1908 be devoted to the S. P. C. K. The lower house did not concur, but thought the said diocese should use its own discretion as to the beneficiary, and the upper house practically concurred in this.

A motion of Capt. Thomas that a special missionary be appointed to look after immigrants who arrive in Canada at the principal centres, was referred to the L. S. C. C. for consideration.

There was a debate on a motion by Canon Shrieve that the bishop be asked to authorize alternative lessons from the Old Testament. This was lost.

It was decided that the Synod would prorogue today at twelve o'clock.

It is thought that the front of the Roman Catholic cathedral now being built at Chatham, will have to be taken down as the foundation is already sinking, and the tower is yet to be added. It is estimated that to do so and rebuild it to its present stage will cost in the vicinity of $20,000.

Governor Jones of Halifax is ill, and was unable to open the Halifax exhibition.
