WELCOME TO FREDERICTON.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, is heartily welcome to Fredericton as an admiral in the British navy, as a near relative of His Majesty and the Royal family, and as a gentleman well worthy the public admiration and confidence.

While His Serene Highness had not the good fortune to be born under the British flag, he made haste to get under its sheltering folds in his early youth, became a naturalized British citizen and entered the navy as a midshipman from which he has risen by merit to his present commanding position.

Prince Louis since coming to Canada has won golden opinions from the people, and he confesses to having received a very favorable impression of Canadians. He finds everywhere he goes a sturdy loyalty to the crown, pride in the glorious traditions of the Empire, and an evidence of strong national life and sentiment. In Fredericton these qualities are particularly marked and the descendants of the Loyalists and of the English, Irish and Scotch immigrants who have made this city and province what it is today join in the cordial welcome to His Serene Highness.

Nor would we forget the gallant young midshipman H. R. H., Prince Alexander of Battenberg, who accompanies his distinguished uncle, Prince Louis, is a direct descendant of Britain's royal house, a grandson of the Sacred Queen Victoria and a nephew of His Majesty the King. He has chosen the royal navy as the scene of his career and no doubt will achieve distinction in that profession. His father, the late Prince Henry of Battenberg, sacrificed his life in the service of the British Empire dying in Ashanti, where he went to defend Britain's interests.

A hearty unreserved welcome then to our Royal visitors, and may they be able to tell the King that nowhere in his Majesty's domains were they more cordially received than in the capital of New Brunswick.

MR. BLAIR MISQUOTED.

When Hon. A. G. Blair was in Montreal the other day he met a newspaper reporter who sought an interview and seems to have grossly misrepresented the ex-minister of railways. The interview was telegraphed all over Canada and Mr. Blair has thought it proper to correct the misrepresentations. Writing to the paper which originated the false report, Mr. Blair says:—"I must confess to a great surprise upon reading this evening a statement attributed to me in the published interview of today. I met a gentleman on the street in the city this afternoon who was, I believe, on your staff, and he was most anxious that I should make an announcement for publication of my intention as to re-entering public life.

"I told him most distinctly that I had not been thinking of the subject, that it would be premature to do so, and that I was not prepared to make any definite statement on the subject. He asked me if it was not possible that I would again be a candidate for the House of Commons, and I said, of course, the thing was possible, but I could not say whether it was probable or not. I state most emphatically that I did not say, 'Just now I was not a Conservative,' and it annoys me that my persistent refusal to commit myself to any statements as to what course I might take three or four years hence would have been expressed in such terms or given such a meaning.

"I was asked as to what I thought of the probable result in the two western Provincial elections. My answer was that I had heard some western people express their views, and the general effect of their opinion was that Alberta would surely go Liberal, and that the fight in Saskatchewan, while likely to be a stiff one, would also result favorably to the Liberal party.

"Even the last paragraph in the published interview is misleading, and must appear so to the most casual reader. I did not say that I was done with public affairs of responsibility, nor did I imply that, I simply stated, as above mentioned, that I was not now considering the subject."

We are to get what we wanted after all—another and complete survey of the St. John Valley route.

Sir Frederick Borden reiterates his denial of the report that he is retiring from the Government. Even if the Minister of Militia were tired of administrative work, which he is not, it would only be natural for him to desire to see the various plans for improvement of the militia which he has inaugurated, brought to a successful conclusion. The force are well satisfied to have Sir Frederick remain, in view of the great improvement he has brought about since he has been head of the department. The latest idea with respect to a comprehensive system of drill instruction in the schools of the several provinces is meeting with success. Provincial governments who were invited to take part in the conference on the subject have agreed to send representatives, and it is expected that the meeting will take place before the close of the present year.

It is told of the mayor of a certain Nova Scotia town that is reading an address of Prince Louis of Battenberg the official got somewhat rattled and mixed up in the phraseology and quite shocked the audience by formally addressing His Serene Highness as "Prince Battly of Louisburg." Mr. Gilmor Brown vouches for the truthfulness of the story.

Satisfaction will be felt at the fact that two of the three engineers to have charge of the survey of the St. John Valley route are New Brunswickers. Mr. David Maxwell and Mr. Balloch are the gentlemen in whom the public will have the fullest confidence.

On his speech at the St. John civic luncheon, Prince Louis gave an outline of the Admiralty's policy for the protection of Canada, explaining why the dockyards at Halifax and Esquimaux were closed. His utterance was statesmanlike and interesting.

By an inadvertence Prince Louis was mentioned in Wednesday's Herald as a brother-in-law of the King. His Serene Highness does not bear that relation to His Majesty, but his wife, a daughter of the late Princess Alice is a niece of the King.

Two things were learned about Prince Louis at St. John; that he is an excellent public speaker and a graceful and energetic dancer.

OLD FAVOURITE COMING.

Professor Anderson, the Wizard of the North, who visited this city thirty-three years ago and delighted audiences on that occasion, will open a return engagement at the opera house on Monday evening next. He is accompanied by Mlle. Blanche, the beautiful vanishing medium in the Marvellous European Sensation, Nero's Suspended Coffin, also the achievement of beheading a lady and other like wonderful performances. Gold watches and other beautiful presents will be presented free. See the adv. in this issue.—d.

RUSSIAN CONDITIONS.

The Czar's Empire Believed to be Verging on Revolution.

Paris, Oct. 27.—(Special)—Official despatches continue to arrive here interruptedly from St. Petersburg.

These show a general condition of agitation such as to lead authorities here to regard the situation as alarming.

Unofficial quarters and newspapers discuss the Russian situation as verging on revolution.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 27.—A warning to people that in case of disorders the soldiers will fire ball cartridges is posted on every street corner today.

The city outwardly is calmer under the rigorous measures adopted. General Trepoff in order to restore confidence, has directed all shopkeepers to take down the boards from their shop windows during the night and this morning the city awoke to find the shops re-opened.

Little squadrons of soldiers are scattered along the streets and in markets to preserve order. Even detachments of the Crack Guards Regiments are doing patrol duty. Nevertheless beneath the surface there is much excitement. Revolutionists have spread tidings that a revolution has begun and the city is filled with wild stories. The better classes are afraid to venture out. Many meetings were held during the night.

Walter Sharpe, employed on a working train between Bedford and Richmond, near Halifax, was killed Thursday while getting off a moving train to go to his home at Millview. The train had slowed down, but had not stopped, and he slipped and fell, the cars crushing his life out almost instantly.

"Do you stir y-your tea with your right hand?"
"Why, yes, of course."
"Well, that is y-your p-peculiar-ity; most p-people u-use a -t-teaspoon."
