LAURIER'S SPLENDID HEALTH.

Reports Sent from Montreal Representing Him as III Entirely Baseless.

SIR WIDFRID IS ROUGHING IT AT SHAWINIGAN AND EATS LIKE A LUMBERMAN.

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—(Special).—Enquiry goes to show that there is absolutely no truth in the alarmist story from Montreal about Sir Wilfrid Laurier being again in an indifferent state of health. The fact is that he has not been as well for four years as at present. He is at the Winchester Club, near Shawinigan, tramping over portages, and is able to eat absolutely anything that is set before him. The premier surprised all his friends by the way he stood the stress of the long parliamentary session. Since then he has picked up still further, and is free from restrictions which he placed upon himself in the matter of diet after his attacks of acute indigestion in the old country. From Shawinigan he goes at the end of the week to his old home at Arthabaskaville, and will be here with several of his colleagues for a cabinet council on Tuesday next.

The deed was premeditated by the perpetrators.

DOW CAMP LITIGATION.

Injunction Granted to Mr. A. J. Gregory Restraining F. F. Dow from Selling Ravine Lodge.

In the equity court at St. John yesterday before Judge Barker, Dr. A. O. Earle moved for and was granted an injunction restraining Fred F. Dow, formerly of Fredericton, from disposing of or in any way encumbering a summer cottage and a portion of land in Kingsclear, York county. Mr. Dow, it was set out in the application, bought the property some time ago, and improved it by the erection of a camp and other buildings to the extent altogether of about $2,200; that he afterwards borrowed $100 from A. J. Gregory, Fredericton, and later he induced Mr. Gregory to go his bail, that the bail was forfeited, and Mr. Gregory was called upon to pay $30.75. Still later, it was related, he applied to Mr. Gregory from Boston for another $100, which was sent him. Mrs. Dow came from Boston to remove her furniture from Fredericton and, it was set out, she told Mr. Gregory she would call at his office before leaving and pay the amount due, but when she did come she said that she did not have enough money to both ship the furniture and settle the bill, but that she would remit him the money from Boston. Mr. Gregory was then negotiating, on behalf of Mr. Dow, so the application set forth, for a sale of the property to Mr. Poindexter, Fredericton; that he then discovered that Mr. Dow himself had already opened negotiations with the same party and had arranged for the payment to be made direct to himself. Soon after, it was stated, Mr. Gregory discovered that Dow had conveyed the land for a nominal sum to Peter Hughes, a young lawyer in the office of R. W. McLellan, and that Hughes had soon afterwards conveyed it back to Mrs. Dow for a like consideration. Extracts from letters and telegrams from Mr. Dow to J. J. McCaffrey, of the Queen Hotel, Fredericton, proving that Mr. Dow had also opened up negotiations with him for the sale of the place were shown. The bill charges that these two conveyances were fraudulent and void and intended to defeat Mr. Gregory in recovering satisfaction in a judgment he had obtained for amounts against Dow. The property in question is a popular summer resort near Springhill, and is known as Ravine Lodge.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY UNION.

Proceedings of the Annual Convention Now Being Held Here.

INTERESTING REPORTS FROM THREE PROVINCES

The first session of the Women's Baptist Missionary Convention was held this forenoon. Mrs. N. C. Scott, of St. John, conducted the devotional exercises. The president, Mrs. J. W. Manning, declared the convention open for the transaction of business and read the rules of the order.

Miss Emma Hume, of Dartmouth, N. S., presented the report of the provincial secretary for N. S. It was an admirable presentation of the year's work in that province. There are 166 Aid Societies which raised $7,608.05. New societies were organized at Harrington, Port Lorne, Sydney Mines, Halifax West, Hillsburn, South Rawden and Caledonia, Queens County. Among the 47 active members who had passed to their reward last year was Mrs. A. M. Whitman, of Canso, who was a member of the first women's missionary aid society to be founded in Canada.

Mrs. M. S. Scott, of Annapolis, provincial secretary of N. B., presented her report, which showed 72 societies, contributing $2,734.85. The organizations leading in contribution were Fredericton, Moncton, Gorman Street, St. John; while, according to membership, North River Society, with a membership of 10, leads, having contributed $49.50. New societies were formed at Harwood, Ridge, Lower Newcastle and Whiteville. The report told of a devoted sister of 82 years of age who had with her own hands prepared a quilt, the proceeds of which, when sold, are to go to missionary purposes.

Miss Weyman, of Charlottetown, read the annual report for P. E. I., which showed 22 aid societies with 380 members, contributing $702.71. The president appointed Mrs. M. A. Chubbick, of Amherst, and Mrs. David Hutchinson, of St. John, a committee on resolutions. The committee nominated as composed of: Mrs. Gunn, of Belmont; Mrs. N. C. Scott, St. John; Miss Wadman, Charlottetown; Mrs. P. R. Foster, Berwick, and Mrs. C. P. Wilson, Doaktown.

An important departure which has previously received the consideration of the executive was brought before the body, namely the launching of a new missionary paper. Hitherto four journals ministered to the works of the societies. The Link published in Toronto, gave an account of the Canadian work in general; mission hand leaflets furnished lessons for the children, a small paper called Tidings arranged aid society programmes and kept in personal touch with missionaries on the field; while the Messenger and Visitor devoted a page to women's work. The resolution which was discussed and adopted today proposes after six months to consolidate all those publications in one monthly magazine, called Tidings, which will conserve all the interests of aid societies and mission bands. The name of Mrs. M. A. Chubbick, has been named in connection with the editorship. Her literary qualities and thorough knowledge of the work admirably fit her for that office.

A full programme is being carried this afternoon. The secretary and treasurer present their reports, the president delivers her annual address; and Mrs. A. F. Randolph, president of the local society, will give the address of welcome.

At the evening service the speakers will be Mrs. David Hutchinson, Miss Laura Peck and Miss Mabel Archibald. Special music will be furnished by the choir.
