A ROYAL WEDDING.

Nephew of King Edward Secures a German Bride.

Guelsburg, Schleswig-Holstein, Oct. 11.—(Special).—This little town presents an unusual appearance in its gala decorations for the marriage today of Prince Charles Edward, Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, nephew of King Edward, and Princess Victoria Adelheid, eldest daughter of Duke Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg, and niece of Empress Augusta Victoria.

The emperor and empress arrived yesterday forenoon, and all the imperial princes are here, except Crown Prince Frederick William.

Prince Arthur of Connaught, who will represent the British Court, and princes and members of the courts from all over Germany have arrived for the ceremony.

MULOCK'S RESIGNATION.

Postmaster General Retires from Public Life on Account of Ill Health.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—(Special).—Sir William Mulock's retirement is semi-officially announced this afternoon.

Sir William leaves the cabinet and parliament solely on account of ill health.

In 1901 he was sent to Australia as representative of Canada and on the long ocean voyage he contracted neuritis, which left a rheumatic condition behind.

Lately this trouble had been dormant but of such character as to be intensified by the strain of public life. Physicians said he must seek a less exacting occupation and his resignation is the result.

Premier Laurier will tender Sir William a farewell dinner Monday night, and all the cabinet ministers then in the city will be present.

NEW GUN KILLS BOY.

Elmer Mansfield of Fitchburg Was Resting When Weapon Was Discharged.

Fitchburg, Mass., Oct. 11.—(Special).—Elmer Mansfield, 16 years old, died last evening as a result of injuries received while out hunting. The boy was up near Pound Hill with another young lad, and they sat down on a stone wall to rest. The Mansfield boy held the muzzle near his right side with the stock on the ground. In some manner it went off, tearing away the flesh on the right side, while some of the shot penetrated the lungs.

A farmer living nearby brought the boy down town, where he was attended by a physician. Later in the afternoon he was taken home and died the same night. This was almost the first time young Mansfield had used his gun which his parents had recently bought for him.

He was very popular among his comrades and all sea-faring men.

He was made a pilot out of this port in 1872, and has performed his duty ever since very successfully.

He was 60 years old and leaves a wife and four daughters.

MOVING TO ST. JOHN.

Fredericton to Lose the Transcontinental Railway Offices.

It has been decided to remove the offices of the National Transcontinental Railway from this city to St. John in the near future. The change has been under consideration for some time, and will probably go into effect some time during the present month.

The family of Mr. F. S. West, the purchasing agent of the G. T. P., will likely remain here until spring. District Engineer Dunn, Assistant Engineer Foss, Mr. West and Accountant W. P. Collins will take their departure as soon as the transfer of the office is made.

Mr. Dunn, when seen this morning, admitted that St. John was to be made the district headquarters of the G. T. P., but he had no particulars to give out as to why the change was being made. He thought that St. John, on account of its location, would be more convenient as a base for the engineers, as any section of the province to be traversed by the proposed road can be reached in one day from the city. The offices here, he added, are rather cramped, especially the drafting department.

DIDN'T NEED IT.

He walked into a local newspaper office confidently and took a seat.

"Are you the manager?" he asked briskly.

"What can I do for you?" replied the newspaper man, in a non-committal tone.

"I'm a patent medicine manufacturer. Your paper has a pretty wide circulation, hasn't it?"

"Wide!" The newspaper man swung round in his chair. "Wide!"

I should say so. We have a circulation greater by two to one than any other paper in the British Empire—a sworn circulation, sir, of one million copies daily. And it's a paid circulation, too; and we reach the families, sir. Our paper is read by two you consider that our advertising rates are—well, they're so low that we are going to advance them 50 per cent. right after the first. I don't exaggerate in the least, sir, when I say that we offer positively the best advertising medium in the British Empire. Why, you can see for yourself what the results must be from an ad. placed before three million people every week, and—Where are you going?"

"Oh, round town a little," replied the stranger, putting on his hat.

"The article I make is a nerve medicine, and I came in to sell you a bottle, but I see you don't need it."

DON'T TALK OF YOUR HEALTH.

If you are not well, don't talk about it.

To do so only exaggerates your consciousness of physical discomfort.

Also, it casts a shadow of gloom over other people. They grow hesitant about asking how you feel; it gives them cold chills to be continually told that you are "not very well," or "not so well," or "about the same."

Do you know that a good deal of this is imagination? If you brace up and told people cheerily that you felt tip-top, nine chances in ten you would feel tip-top pretty soon.

You'd forget the ailing habit.

Don't let yourself become a slave to such a miserable little absorber of health and happiness as the perpetual habit of "not feeling well."

REV. CANON ROBERTS DEAD.

Venerable and Beloved Rector of Fredericton Called to His Reward.

DEATH CLAIMED HIM AFTER AN ILLNESS OF ONLY THREE DAYS.

A Priest of the Church of England for Nearly Fifty Years.

ABLE PREACHER, A POPULAR PASTOR AND WORTHY CITIZEN LOST TO FREDERICTON.

amented death occurred at his home on George Street this morning. Rev. George Goodridge Roberts, Rector of Fredericton. He had for only three days, and the cause of his death was a sudden shock to our citizens. Roberts was one of the best and most lovable clergymen in the province, and his death will be a great loss to the community.

The reverend gentleman was about the streets on Saturday last, apparently in his usual good health. On the following day he preached at the morning service in St. Ann's church. He complained of feeling unwell at the time, and at the close of the service was driven to the Rectory in a carriage. His illness developed into pleuro pneumonia, and his condition became so alarming that yesterday his sons were summoned from New York by telegraph. Last night about twelve o'clock he lapsed into a deep sleep, and at five thirty this morning passed peacefully away. The reverend gentleman had been a sufferer from heart trouble for some time, and this, no doubt, hastened his end.

Rev. George Goodridge Roberts, LL.D., Canon of Christ Church Cathedral and Rector of Fredericton, was born in St. John on December 25th, 1832, and was, therefore, in his seventy-third year. His father was the late Dr. George Roberts, B.A., a native of Keeford, Somerset, England, and a graduate of Oxford University. When the subject of this sketch was quite young, the family removed to Fredericton, the elder Roberts having accepted the position of principal of the Collegiate School, which he filled for many years.

The son, who was afterwards to become rector of Fredericton, received his early education at the Collegiate School, and afterwards attended the University of New Brunswick, from which he graduated in 1853, with the degree of B. A.

After completing his college course and while preparing himself for the ministry, he taught school for a short time in this city, and also in Western Canada. He received the degree of M. A. from his alma mater in 1855, and the following year was ordained a deacon of the Church of England by the late Bishop Medley. He was appointed rector of the Parish of Douglas in that year, and remained there for a period of four years. In 1860 he was appointed to the rectorship of the Parish of Dorchester, Westmorland county, and remained in charge of that parish until 1873, when he received the appointment of rector of Fredericton, which position he held up to the time of his death, a period of thirty-two years. He was appointed Canon of Christ Church Cathedral in 1890, and five years ago received the honorary degree of LL. D. from the U. N. B. For a number of years he has been a degree examiner for the latter institution.

Rev. Dr. Roberts was widely known as an able and scholarly preacher, and as a pastor he was universally esteemed. He took a deep interest in all work, having for its object the promotion of the moral welfare of the community, and was ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in need. In hundreds of homes in this city and county, the death of Canon Roberts will be regarded as a personal loss.

The deceased gentlemen took a warm interest in military matters, and in 1885 when the Riel rebellion broke out, was offered and accepted the appointment of Chaplain to the regiment raised in this province for active service in the northwest. The corps went into camp at Sussex, but was not called upon to go to the northwest. Canon Roberts has filled the office of Chaplain to Islington Lodge of the Sons of England, since its organization, and was held in the highest esteem by the members of that order, who will as a mark of respect attend the funeral in a body.

Rev. Canon Roberts was married in 1857 to Miss Emma Wetmore Bliss, daughter of the late Hon. George Pileon Bliss, who with a family of three sons and one daughter survive. The children are, Prof. Charles G. D.

Roberts, and William Carman Roberts of New York, Mrs. S. A. R. McDonald and G. E. Theodore Roberts of this city. The members of the family have all achieved renown in the literary world. Prof. Roberts, the eldest son, being generally recognized as one of America's most gifted authors and poets. There are also several grand-children, one of whom Lloyd Roberts, being the assistant editor of the Outing Magazine.

The deceased was also survived by three sisters, Mrs. John Robinson and Mrs. C. S. Brannen of this city, and Mrs. Howard, who resides in California.

The sons residing in New York have been summoned home by telegraph, but cannot arrive here until tomorrow at noon.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at an hour to be announced later. Services will be conducted at Christ Church Cathedral, and interment will be made at Forest Hill.

REV. MR. STREET'S TRIBUTE.

The Rev. T. W. Street, sub-dean of the Cathedral, this morning paid the following tribute to the deceased clergyman, who has been his life-long friend.

"The words of the old prophet 'It shall come to pass that at eventide it shall be light,' were never better fulfilled than when on Tuesday evening the loving friend, the cheery companion, the faithful pastor of his flock, George Goodridge Roberts, for nearly fifty years a priest of the church, sank quietly to rest, and before the sunrise of this morning passed into the Paradise of God."

"Beloved by all who knew him, faithful to his high calling in Christ Jesus, he gave witness to the world that he was one of the 'beloved of God.' Not today, not in these hastily written words, may his friend and companion say what ought justly and rightly be said. The successor of learned and distinguished men in the rectorship of Fredericton, Canon Roberts gave abundant proof that he was not a whit behind them in his learning and scholarship. He earned for himself a distinguished place in the roll of honor among the many men who have done credit to the educational institutions of our province. And as the faithful minister of God, he was beloved, deeply beloved by the members of his flock, whose grief at his sudden taking away is only assuaged by their knowledge that he has 'finished his course in faith, and now rests from his labour.'"

"When health declined so suddenly, there was no loss of real happiness. He may have feared as he entered the cloud, but once within the vapoury veil, light beamed mysteriously around. The Lord God made his darkness to be light. We cannot explain how the special supports were reserved for that hour of his sorest need, but he, the dear friend and brother, looked calmly into the abyss from which edge we shrink, and gave us another fulfillment of the law of Christianity, a day not light nor dark, but 'at evening time it was light.'"

COMING THIS WAY.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—(Special).—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, minister of marine and fisheries, leaves Friday for the Maritime Provinces. He will visit St. John first, then Halifax and Sydney.
