4.00 p. m.—Sheppard's moving pictures.

Friday was another banner day at the exhibition although there was a slight falling off in the attendance in comparison with the second day two years ago. There were a good many strangers in the city yesterday and it is needless to say they were all delighted with the exhibition.

The weather conditions have thus far been all that could be desired, and the success of the exhibition is already assured beyond a doubt.

Leonida, the chasm leaper, performed yesterday for the first time and delighted everybody with his remarkable exhibition of skill and daring. He gave three exhibitions, one in the afternoon and two in the evening, in the presence of large crowds. Mounted on a bicycle specially constructed for such work, he shot down the one hundred foot incline, and leaped a thirty-five foot chasm. It was certainly a most remarkable feat, and elicited hearty applause from the spectators.

The various side shows and games all did a rushing business yesterday. The champion strong woman of the world is holding forth in a tent on the grounds, and can be seen for ten cents. She juggles heavy dumbbells and breaks a stout chain as easily as if it were made of paper.

Another unique attraction, shown in a tent is the "human snake," a contortionist of rare ability. The Parisian beauty show also attracts much attention.

A clever African dodger is holding forth on the grounds near the amusement hall. He is as black as tar, and dodges the balls thrown at him with great dexterity. A cabbage leaf cigar is the reward offered those who can strike his ebony cranium, and a box of these is likely to last for some time.

Among the horses on exhibition none are attracting more attention than the thoroughbred hackney stallion Stampede, owned by Recorder Dickey of Gagetown. This fine animal was imported by the government in 1902 and has since been owned at Gagetown. Three of his get are being shown at the exhibition and are much admired by the horsemen.

The big Clydesdale stallion, Island Lad, owned by Andrew Dunlap, of Hainesville, is also being shown along with a number of his get.

The New Williams Sewing Machine Company have a splendid exhibit in the gallery of the main building. A number of high class machines are shown and there is also a large display of fancy work done on them. Mr. George W. Adams is the local agent for the New Williams.

The moving pictures and vaudeville performances in the amusement hall continue to attract large crowds daily. No visitor to the exhibition should miss seeing these performances.

The W. C. T. U. have a booth in the main building where ice water is given away to the visitors. It is a much patronized booth and the kindness and thoughtfulness of the W. C. T. U. ladies is greatly appreciated. Miss Sampson is in charge.

The excellent piano used in the amusement hall was furnished free of charge by Mr. Harrison, who has charge of the Gourlay Company's splendid exhibit at the exhibition.

MORE LIVE STOCK.

A special freight train, with twenty-eight carloads of live stock which was shown at the Halifax exhibition, arrived here at three o'clock this morning via the I. C. R. The work of unloading the cars commenced soon afterwards and by ten o'clock all the animals were safely housed at the exhibition. The live stock exhibit is much larger than last year, all the space being taken up.

This morning's arrivals included the celebrated herds of Jerseys and Shorthorn, belonging to Mr. Charles Archibald of Truro, one of the leading breeders of Nova Scotia. Other live stock exhibits which came in this morning are those of Messrs. Walter McMonagle and M. H. Parlee of Sussex; W. W. Black and Logan Bros. of Annapolis, and Fred Thompson of Fort Lawrence, N. S. Mr. McMonagle has Guernsey and Jersey cattle, Mr. Parlee has Ayrshires; Mr. Thompson, Shorthorns; and Logan Bros., Shropshire sheep. All are prize animals and are attracting great attention. Devon, Paled Angus, and Galloways and Botted Norfolk cattle are also shown at the exhibition this year.

The New York Vaudeville Company give two performances daily in Amusement Hall, and no visitor to the exhibition should miss seeing them. The company is composed of high class artists and they are bound to interest and amuse you.

Caterer Lindsay had a busy day yesterday, and gave general satisfaction. His catering arrangements are first-class and he is prepared to serve meals to all that come along. A good dinner costs forty cents and supper is served for thirty-five cents.
