SOME SUGGESTIONS IN CIVIC POLITICS.

A Correspondent Who Thinks Some Improvements May be Made.

To the Editor of the Herald,

Sir—Now that a new council is elected and a new mayor at the head we look for things to run smoothly, and it is our duty as citizens to help them all we can, as they are the choice of the majority, and I think the general feeling is that we will have some changes for the better.

I am one of those who do not believe much is accomplished by abusing people; there are none of us who always do the right thing, sometimes we err in judgment and when we are found fault with, get angry and do the very thing we know to be wrong out of pure cussedness—this trait seems to be in us.

We must, however, turn over a new leaf this year, with our new mayor, and partly new aldermen, let the past go, because "The mill will never grind with the water that is past." Many mistakes have been made in the different departments; let us do better, let us employ competent men—men who know their business.

We must never lose sight of the fact that the roads and streets belong to the people; the wharves and landings are the people's; and when there are changes to be made, any improvements contemplated, we should consult and employ a competent engineer to run the grades and levels, then that particular branch will be properly done. Why?—Because the man understands it. He has made it his study.

Whatever is not done right in the beginning, I don't care what it is, it has to be done over again. We have numerous instances of this.

By a rigid enforcement of this principle, and in fact all principles that are found correct, the city in the end will save money and have things correctly done.

To prove this line of action I would say when you employ a doctor, a lawyer, an architect or a carpenter, you expect him to know more than you do about his particular profession and you hire him for his ability, not his cheapness, because cheap men are dear at any price.

So I would say let our aldermen start off right and adhere to this principle and all will be well.

Yours faithfully,

Carleton Ward.

THE FIREMEN'S APPRECIATION.

Members of the Department Pass Resolutions of Regret and Condolence on the Death of Chief Lipsett.

The following is self explanatory: To Mr. Harry Lipsett and Miss Lipsett:

At a special meeting of the Fredericton Fire Department held Friday evening, March 10th, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the members of the Fredericton Fire Department desire to extend to you their sincere condolence in the recent bereavement you have sustained in the loss of your father.

For twenty-eight years long before any of the present corps became connected with the Department, Andrew Lipsett was Chief of the Fredericton Fire Department. Always energetic in his work, fair in his treatment of those under him, he endeared himself to every member of the Department. His kindly disposition and his deep interest in everything that affected the welfare of the corps, and the individual members, his care for their safety in times of danger, and willingness to go himself where he sent his men, were further causes for the good understanding that always existed between the Chief and members of the Department.

There are none of us who cannot recall some kindly word or sympathetic act of our Chief, whose sudden death, almost at the post of duty, we feel as deeply as the members of his immediate family circle.

THIS MAKES US BLUSH.

Compliments for the Daily Herald on its Recent Enlargement and Improvement.

(Moncton Transcript.)

The Fredericton Herald comes to hand in an enlarged form. It now appears as a six column eight page newspaper and ranks among the largest newspapers in the Maritime Provinces.

The quality of The Herald's reading matter is well known, and the quantity under the enlargement is much increased.

The Herald has the unique honor of possessing outside of Moncton and St. John, the only up-to-date newspaper plant in New Brunswick. The type is set entirely by machinery and its machine type-setting facilities now place it in a position to handle with great rapidity and even with more rapidity late news than any competitor in its field.

The history of The Herald shows what pluck backed by energy can do. The Herald like The Transcript was told that it had entered a field which was already well supplied from a newspaper standpoint.

It looks as if at Fredericton there was to be repeated the experience noticed elsewhere where the junior newspaper has obtained the greater hold upon the public.

There is no reason why the Fredericton Herald, with its new enterprise, its excellent editorial judgment and its keen business management should not dominate with its circulation, and influence the newspaper constituency of Central New Brunswick.

It has been consistently loyal to the Liberal party, never hesitating to uphold the public interests even when they might conflict with party advantage. The Herald is wished the prosperity and expansion which its enterprise justly warrants it in anticipating.

EXCELSIOR OF KUROPATKIN.

(Montreal Herald.)

The shades of night were falling fast When through Manchuria there passed A general with flashing eye, Who bore this banner proudly high: "Eatempuski."

A few days passed, again he strode With fierce demeanor up the road: Another banner now he bore, Changed some from the one before: "Waitaititski."

The weeks rolled on, again he came On which was written this design, Before his awesome battle line: "Notyetski."

More weeks elapsed, and on the track He rode, now forward and now back; A waiting world watched eagerly But this was all that they could see: "Afterawhileski."

More months elapsed, but still no sign Of battle from that dreadful line, And now before his army vast This banner nailed proudly high: "Tomorrowski."

A year had gone, no victory yet, The world came almost to forget The doughty general, but he Changed signs with regularity: "Nextweekski."

But every day before his fine And awe-inspiring battle line He rode with sabre in his hand, And valiantly gave this command: "Backupski."

At last this grim and dreadful man Grew busy and a message ran To the home folks who freely shed Their bitter tears, the while they read: "Gonebumpski."

Proved.

Mrs. Hix—I got my husband to admit that he was a fool today. Mrs. Dix—How did you manage it? Mrs. Hix—I showed him some of the letters he wrote me during our courtship.—Chicago Tribune.

There is entirely too much time taken up every day trying to help those make up their minds who don't know what they want.
