

MAINE GUIDE SHOT.

Fatal Charge Came From Rifle of Sportsman He Was With in the Woods.

Bingham, Me., Oct. 21.—The most lamentable casualty of the Maine shooting season occurred Tuesday when Guide Daniel Durgin of The Forks was accidentally hit by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of Hiram Popp, a well known Boston newspaper artist. Durgin died in Bingham, yesterday forenoon, while undergoing amputation of his wounded leg, nearly 20 hours after the accident occurred.

Although it is apparently that Mr. Popp is not blamable for the affair, it was deemed advisable to have a court investigation of the matter, and a warrant was issued this morning charging him with criminal carelessness. Deputy Sheriff Rowell of Solon went into the woods this morning to get Mr. Popp at his camp, and it is expected will meet him on the way, as the unfortunate author of the guide's demise had announced his intention of coming out today.

Mr. Popp, with two friends, Messrs. John Butters and E. E. Bond, all of Boston, arrived in Bingham Saturday morning, and at once proceeded to The Forks, 26 miles northwest, where they intended to secure their guide and supplies and go in to camp at Ellis pond, about 10 miles beyond The Forks.

They met Game Warden Frank J. Durgin in Bingham, and through him arranged to secure the services of his cousin, Daniel Durgin, who was one of the best known guides in this section of the country. Monday the party made camp and prepared for an enjoyable vacation in the wilderness.

Tuesday Mr. Popp started Guide Durgin and his party on their way to the pond. At half past one a cartridge, the bullet struck Mr. Durgin's leg just above the right knee and tore a yawning hole through the flesh. Mr. Popp made his companion as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, but was unable to move him unaided, and started for assistance. It was necessary for him to go between seven and eight miles down stream to a logging camp before he could get help, and when the rescue party got back to the swamp it was 7 o'clock in the evening and extremely dark.

As it was the men were fortunate to locate the wounded man. Before they could get the improvised little through the dense underbrush it was necessary to cut a way for a distance of over two miles, and as a consequence it was after midnight when the party reached The Forks, where the first medical attendance could be secured.

The doctor did the only chance to save the guide's life was to get to Bingham, where the leg might be amputated, but the guide then was so weak from exposure and loss of blood consequent on the jolting of a stone boat on which he was carried over the rough tote road that the physician doubted the advisability of the journey. As it was the only hope for saving the guide's life, however, it was determined to make the trip, and early in the morning the party began its toilsome 26-mile journey over the road to Bingham.

It reached here about 9 o'clock in the forenoon, and preparations were at once begun for the operation. Guide Durgin, a splendid specimen of physical manhood, did not recover from the effects of the anaesthetics.

He was 26 years of age, and had resided at The Forks all his life. He was unmarried, and was very highly regarded both for his proficiency in woodcraft and for his high moral character.

Mr. Popp went back to The Forks with the body, and then went on to Ellis pond. His effects at the pond would be out of his outing, and of his people. The rifle was at his side was at hand. He had forced the hammer down on the cartridge, and it was thought that the issuance of a warrant would result in a more thorough and satisfactory investigation for all parties concerned, although it is not held that Mr. Popp was in any degree directly responsible for the accident.

As Mr. Popp will probably come out through The Forks, it is anticipated that Sheriff Rowell will meet him there this evening, and they are expected to return to Bingham late tonight or early in the morning.

LATEST FASHION.

BLOUSE WITH DETACHABLE YOKE.

There are many occasions when a simple blouse may be made to do duty as an evening waist were the yoke but of the detachable kind. Such a one is pictured here. The material is a white crepe de chene, cut with a fitted and well-boned variety, and the goods shirred all around the décolletage. Three graduated tucks run all around the body, the fastening being effected in the back; and the blouse dropping with soft fullness into the pointed corselet belt. The sleeve is a loose puff to the elbow, three tucks running across the forearm to match those on the body of the blouse, and a lace frill making a smart finish at the edge. The guimpe is fashioned with yoke and deep sleeve cuff of the crepe; or these may be of lace or embroidery, or of ribbons fagotted together with fancy stitches.

The Rev. Vernon J. Rose, the chief of police referred to, is now fighting a movement to oust him from office and to select some man who has no ministerial duties to take up the time for which the city would pay him. The leader in this campaign is Myron A. Waterman, a banker, brother-in-law of the Rev. Charles M. Sheldon of Topeka, who wrote "In His Steps" and undertook to run a daily newspaper for a week "as Jesus would."

Mr. Waterman will appeal to Governor Edward W. Hoch, who refused to permit his daughter to use wine in having the battleship Kansas, to help him put on the lid in Kansas City, Kan. The assistance of the Rev. Mr. Sheldon will probably be invited also.

In that case the situation would be novel, even in Kansas. Many Kansas clergymen have been active in state politics, but never before has one of them stood as a defender of the saloon interests. That a preacher should be chief of police in a city of 80,000 inhabitants is in itself unusual.

The Rev. Mr. Rose resided until a short time ago in a buffalo grass country near the Colorado line. Three years ago he was the Democratic candidate for Congress from the big Seventh district.

In his campaign he introduced methods which he had employed successfully as an evangelist, imploring Republican sinners to seek forgiveness at the mourners' bench.

But it was that year that Victor Murdock, then nominated for the first time by the Republicans, organized the red headed men of the district in his own behalf and sailed into Congress by a majority which broke all short grass records. Murdock's hair is the color of fire. The Rev. Mr. Rose boasts of no hirsute covering whatever.

The line dividing the two Kansas Cities—the one in Missouri and the other in Kansas—is a street. When Governor Folk started in to enforce the Sunday closing law in his state, bibulously inclined Missourians crossed the street and quenched their thirsts in the Kansas joints.

The mayor of Kansas City, Kan., blinded to the increased revenue going into his city, protested and sought the chief of police. He did not know that on that very day the Rev. Mr. Rose was standing in the pulpit of the Congregational Church at Greenwood, Mo., warning sinners to flee from the wrath to come. Naturally Mr. Rose was unavailable for police duties.

LIZARD IN DEAD CHILD'S BED.

Deer Park, L. I., Oct. 21.—Residents of this and adjoining sections are discussing a singular incident in connection with the death, on Sunday of little Campbell Walker, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jogn Walker, of this village, and which is believed by many to have been responsible for the child's death.

It seems that after the little fellow's decease a lizard some three and a half inches long was found in the bed. It had apparently passed the child during a convulsion which preceded his death. The child had been failing for some time and the death certificate states that he died from convulsions, and one of the physicians in the case holds to the theory that the lizard was not responsible for the child's death. Others, however, believe that the reptile fed on the child's vitality and so sapped his strength that he could

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate Nurse from the Blockley Training School, at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education, and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes:

"I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use."

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctors prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I would blast after eating and frequently become nauseated. I had an acrid discharge and pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered unprofessional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female ills, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

"Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Experience has proved this.

It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is free and confidential.

ALL WASHINGTON AWAITS

To See the Prince Who is Coming to Fredericton Next Week.

Social and Official Honors Will be Heaped Upon the Popular Admiral by the American People.

Social and administration circles in Washington are awaiting with interest the arrival of Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, says the New York Herald. In command of the finest British fleet that has ever visited America, he will reach Annapolis on November 2, his departure from Halifax having been postponed until the latter part of October. From Annapolis he will proceed with his staff, by special train to Washington, where he will be received and entertained by President Roosevelt at the White House. After a week spent in the national capital he will come to New York and be the recipient of many social and official honors until November 15, on which date the British vessels are under orders to sail for Gibraltar.

Prince Louis' visit with the second cruiser squadron of the British navy thus promises to be an event of more than ordinary importance, affording Americans an opportunity to return the generous hospitality accorded to representatives of the United States navy in English ports in recent years. The squadron is composed of the flagship Drake and the cruisers Bedford, Cornwall, Berwick, Cumberland and Essex, all vessels of high speed. They will be escorted from Annapolis to the North River by the flagship Maine, the Missouri, the Kentucky, the Kearsarge, the Alabama, the Iowa and the Massachusetts, composing the first squadron of the North Atlantic fleet, under Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans. No more formidable line of war ships than these combined fleets will present has ever been anchored in New York waters.

Prince Louis is the bearer of an autograph letter from King Edward to President Roosevelt, and the State Department is already making arrangements for a fitting reception to the distinguished British admiral and his officers. A state banquet will be given by the President, at the White House on the evening of his arrival, and Sir Mortimer Durand, the British Ambassador, will also give a dinner in his honor. The Admiral, officers and men, who are the pick of the British navy, will receive lavish hospitality and entertainment, and already many things have been planned for their amusement both in Washington and in New York.

In return the British officers will give a farewell ball on the spacious deck of the Drake. The flagship has been fitted with a ballroom in which three hundred couples can dance. In order to do this the cruiser's after bridge has been removed, together with the small quick firing guns. The upper deck has been cleared of all obstructions, and the ballroom is supported by the boat deck. This is a skeleton deck above the upper deck which extends more or less continuously between the masts.

On entering the ballroom, rendered bright and attractive by means of flowers and bunting, the visitor will imagine that he has found his way into a huge marquee, and such is indeed the case, for the striped roof and walls, where they are visible beneath the flags that decorate the interior, themselves conceal the tent-like erection of canvas which serves as a canopy to the floor. In order to hold this roof in place the hydraulic derrick by means of boats which are hoisted in and out is to be called in to requisition. The programme of Prince Louis' trip calls this ballroom into use for a dance at Annapolis, as well as at New York.

THIS MEDICINE IS BREATHED.

This is why it is sure to cure Catarrh. You see it gets direct to the source of the disease—it's healing vapor repairs the damage caused by catarrhal inflammation. "Catarrh" always cures because it goes into those tiny cells and passages that ordinary remedies can't reach, goes where the disease actually is. Impossible for "Catarrh" to fail, as the doctor will tell you. Don't be misled into thinking that there is anything as good as Catarrh—use it, and you'll soon say good-bye to catarrh.
