RECORDS THAT WILL STAND.

With the season eight weeks old, two baseball records have been achieved that will undoubtedly stand as the best performances in their line for the year 1905. Mathewson's no-hit, no-run victory and Hartel's clean steal of home are referred to.

At Chicago, on June 13, Mathewson, of the New York National League champions, virtually equalled last year's record of Cy Young, which stands as the top notch accomplishment of modern pitching.

For the full nine innings not a hit or a run was made off Mathewson's pitching, nor did he award a base on balls or hit a batsman. Two Chicago players reached first base, both by virtue of errors in the New York infield. In the nine innings 23 batsmen had faced Mathewson.

In this fact alone does his record suffer in comparison with Young's, though it was not the fault of Matty. In Young's red-letter game against the Athletics on May 5 last season not a single opponent reached first base. In every inning the three batters were retired in order. Had it not been for the slips of Gilbert and Dahlen the former Bucknell star would have matched Young's perfect game.

In any event the prospects are slim for any record better than that of Mathewson's being made this season. It is almost a foregone conclusion that it will go in history as the best pitched game of 1905.

When one takes into consideration that the alertness and steel arms of catchers in recent times have made base stealing almost a lost art, Hartel's daring in pilfering home plate in the first inning of the game with Washington on June 3 was nothing short of phenomenal.

It was a clean steal in every phase. No other runners were on base to disconcert pitcher or catcher, nor was he favored by a poor throw.

Hartel in the opening round doubled and was advanced to third on a sacrifice. Another was made, but the Athletics' outfielder had to hold his base. Hartel knew that it required a hit or an error to score, and, though Lave Cross was at the bat, he quickly studied the situation and devised a way to cross the rubber without depending on any assistance from the batter.

The instant the Washington pitcher's body started to twist backward Hartel bolted for the plate. A ten-second sprinter he was only a few feet from home before Townsend was able to stand up and notice things. He quickly snapped the ball to his catcher; the throw was perfect, but it never ripped the runner. Hartel had caught his stride, and by a well judged slide touched the rubber before the catcher could put the ball on him.

AVERY'S PORTAGE.

July 17.—The weather of the last two weeks has been very hot and dry here and the want of rain is making itself felt.

The crops are looking very well especially hay, buckwheat and potatoes. Hay crop promises to be more than double of last year.

The friends of Mrs. McAllister were sorry to hear of her illness, we hope she will soon be well again.

Miss Georgia Brown has returned to Fredericton where she will be joined by Miss Agnes Craig of Cardigan Corner. Thence they go to visit their aunt, Mrs. John Monteith, of Bridgewater, Maine. The friends of Mrs. Monteith here were very sorry to hear of her illness and wish her a speedy recovery.

Quite a number of persons of Avery's Postage attended the 12th of July celebration, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Hovey, Mr. Charles Palmer, Miss Lillian Palmer and their little nephew, Lloyd Currie, Mr. Moses Hanson and his daughter, Miss Lucy. All report an excellent time.

Lieut. H. Pond made a flying trip to this place one evening last week, and his friends were pleased to see him.

Strawberries are very scarce some reports say they got $1.00 for a five quart pail which is hard on Boiestown store-keepers where they always expect to get them for less than half that price.

Mr. Adrian Spencer was visiting his aunt Mrs. Geo. Palmer on Sunday.

Miss Edna Collins was calling on friends Sunday.

Miss Nellie Davis was visiting Mrs. A. Duncan one day last week.

Miss Lena Duncan was visiting friends on Taxis.

The friends and neighbours of Moses Hanson got a big scare the other evening on the alarm being cried out that his little daughter Annie 3 years old was missing. A search party was at once started which scoured the fields and all adjoining woods, when she was discovered nearly a mile from home following a cow path with a stem of strawberry in her little hand through real thick undergrowth of woods. She was soon returned to her parents by her aunt, Mrs. A. Duncan. We can try to imagine how the fond hearts of the parents and brothers and sister swelled at sight of their pet.

Three of our men have gone to the lumber woods for the new American concern under the management of Mr. George Long. They are James Palmer, Robert Palmer and Josiah Fairley. We wish them good luck and plenty of work. We hear Mr. Long, their boss, has had the misfortune to be laid up with a sore leg and had to be brought out to Boiestown from the Sisters' Stream, where he worked.

Englishman Thought to Refuse Meant a Bullet in His Heart.

Toronto, July 18.—He was direct from a section of England where the natives are of purely unsophisticated kind. He had more than likely been schooling himself up against his emigration to the Western continent by a series of studies on the methods alleged to have been employed in certain parts of the wild new world. To play for safety seemed the better game, and so it came that when

BABY'S PRATTLE PUZZLED MOTHER.

Child Mad Because Not Understood in Finnish, Picked From Nurse.

Monessen, Pa., July 18.—Little Marie Ashland, three years old, of this place, has been the cause of a great deal of worry to her mother, Mrs. Jules Ashland, and the mother has been the cause of much annoyance to little Marie.
For some time Marie has chattered all day long and got angry when no one answered her. But every sound she uttered was unintelligible to Mrs. Ashland, who would look at her pretty and otherwise bright baby and wonder if she was never going to talk like other children of her age.
Mrs. Ashland has been an invalid almost since Marie was born, and it is only in the last few weeks that she has had the child about her.
Jules Ashland, her husband, is away from home most of the time, and he has not been able to devote much attention to Marie. Thus, during the three years of her life, the child has been thrown almost entirely in the company of Mary, a Finnish nurse girl.

Recently Mrs. Ashland has been improving and has had her baby with her but her alarm, increased as the little one failed to talk. Fearing that she was afflicted with some ailment of the throat she summoned an expert on diseases of that sort. It happened that he is able to understand the Finnish language. No sooner had little Marie been presented than there followed a great tirade in Finnish from the baby mouth against the mother.
The child was mad as a hornet. She did not hesitate to tell the doctor so in the only language that she knew—Finnish. Her mamma would not talk to her and her little heart was almost broken. She has been associating so long with the Finnish nurse girl that she learned that language and no other. The nurse girl is looking for a job.

shortly after landing from the Lake Champlain on Saturday, he was enthusiastically welcome by three strangers whom he encountered upon town, he thought his best plan was to mollify them by partaking of the contents of a bottle they insisted on forcing upon him.
Writers of mining camp tales had him so plugged full of the notion that refusal to drink with every man of the American lands who extended an invitation meant immediate burial with trifling obsequies, that this fresh arrival fell readily into the toils, with the result, by his own way of telling, that later recollections were of a man on each side of him and a third rifling his pockets, in which he had $25 stowed.
By and bye a constable took him in tow for "loitering drunk," and he told Mr. Recorder Weir he had been dragged into something he had never before been up against.

The judge told him he was surely a great simpleton to get into this sort of trouble soon as he landed in a strange country, and with the object of having inquiries made sent him back to the cell.

Give a girl her choice between a fortune and a dimple in her cheek, and she will take the dimple.
