

"THE ROLLICKING ENGINEERS."

Students of the U. N. B. Gathered in Annual Reunion
Around the Festive Board.

WHILING AWAY PLEASANT HOURS IN SPEECH MAKING AND SONGS.

(By Our Own U. N. B. Reporter.)

At nine-thirty last evening the engineering students of the University of New Brunswick, assembled at Lindsay's restaurant for their annual reunion, and a very sumptuous supper was served. The banquet hall presented a very attractive appearance, two long tables were very becomingly decorated, and seated about fifty "rollicking engineers."

While the eatables were being disposed of in a most hearty manner, a number of the more talented vocalists favored the gathering with some choice selections from the popular college airs.

THE TOASTS.

After the appetites of all had been fully gratified, and the cigars had been passed around, Mr. Trites, president of the Engineering Society, and toastmaster for the occasion, arose amid rounds of applause and began his eloquent address.

"I regret," said he "that Prof. Perrott and Dr. Scott are unable to be present on this occasion. Both these gentlemen, two attending the 'Saint Andrew's Dinner.' However, I am glad to say that there is one here whom we are all pleased to have with us again, I refer to our good old friend Dick Malloy, who has won considerable distinction in hockey and football."

Mr. Trites also expressed himself as being confident of the fact that wherever a number of U. N. B. engineers met, with or without the presence of any of the faculty, they would still be assured of a jolly good time. In concluding his remarks, he proposed the first toast "The King," and called upon Mr. Hedley Maxon.

Mr. Maxon made a very nice speech and in the course of his remarks extolled the loyal qualities of the U. N. B. students in general who display their loyalty so becomingly on all events of a national character.

The next toast was "Canada," coupled with the name of Mr. Bender who made a very creditable showing. He referred to the great west as a grand opening for our young men. "I hope," continued the enthusiastic young collegian "that in the near future the eastern tide of our emigration, which now flows into the American factories etc., will be turned towards the great west, with increasing vigour until every acre of our vast prairies will be brought under cultivation."

Mr. Bender's speech was received with great applause, after which the president proposed "Our Alma Mater" coupled with the name of Mr. McBeath.

When the boys had finished singing the good old song, the speaker began. He traced the progress which the university had made during the past few years, especially in the engineering department. He spoke of Prof. Perrott as a man worthy of the chair which Prof. Jack had filled with such remarkable success, and as being amply qualified to conduct the arduous duties connected with the position. He also lauded Prof. Geoghegan as a valuable addition to the Arts department and a worthy successor of Professors Stockley and Clawson, and thought that the Chancellor was to be congratulated on having procured two men of such marked efficiency in their profession.

The next toast was "Civil Engineering," in response to which Mr. Tweedie touched upon the pressing need for engineers, especially at the present time when Canada was making such prosperous strides in developing the "Grand Northwest." What an excellent opportunity, now that Canada is at work upon that great nationalizing project, the Transcontinental Railway, which will bind the Atlantic to the Pacific with another band of steel. Our ideal as an engineering school should be to turn out men, capable in every way to cope with the most thorough practical engineers in America.

The chairman then proposed "Electrical Engineering" and called upon Mr. C. P. Wright who spoke at some length upon the important part which electricity played in the mechanical world of today. He regretted, however, that our electrical engineering department was not as fully equipped as the other departments. However, this feature is only temporary and will improve in time, but we can proudly boast that we have the best electrician in the maritime provinces in the person of Dr. Scott.

The next toast "University Athletics" was responded to by Captain Thorne in an exceptionally creditable manner. He spoke very eulogistically of the U. N. B. football team. "The people are inclined to think that our team was a failure compared with other years because we did not win every game. They do not take into consideration the fact that we lost two of our best men, Messrs. McBeath and Dever. They do not realize the loss. But with all this misfortune, was not our trip equally as successful as in previous years? We defeated St. John, tied Acadia and held Dalhousie down to the same score as we did two years ago, when U. N. B. boasted that she had the strongest team she ever had."

He spoke highly of the basketball and hockey teams of last year, and thought their prospects for this year are equally as good.

Toasts to the various classes were responded to by H. D. Hurley '06, Dunphy '07, Gilchrist '08, and a number of freshmen, and sophs, Rutledge, Dever, Rigby, Coy, Brown, Orchard, Theriault, Bennet, Graham and Webb.

All spoke from an individual standpoint in regard to the merits of their respective classes, but all agreed that co-education was the greatest boon ever known to their institution.

The most important toast of the evening was "The Ladies," Messrs. Macdonald, Maxon and Gilchrist were very complimentary in their remarks and all agreed that the refining influence which they derived from being in their presence was remarkable.

The last toast was "The Reporters," but Ralph Sherman and Arthur Dysart were so busy reporting the speeches of the evening that they made very short ones. Then all joined hands and sang with sympathetic enthusiasm the tender strains of Auld Lang Syne.

THE SAVINGS BANK.

The balance due depositors in the Fredericton Savings Bank on November 30th was $1,092,071. Deposits for the month totalled $11,171 and withdrawals $9,751.5.

POLICE COURT FINES.

The amount collected in fines at the Fredericton police court during the month just ended was $236. This includes penalties in four Scott Act cases.

Y. M. C. A. STAR COURSE.

A. W. Hawks, the laughing philosopher, will be at the Opera House Tuesday evening, Dec. 5th as the 2nd attraction in the Star Course. From the way the seats are selling at McMurray's he is likely to have a full house. It is not yet too late to secure a course ticket. Better get one at once.

BOWLING NOTES.

The young ladies of the city are taking much interest in bowling and a number of them visit the Queen Hotel alleys every morning. The game is very popular among the young ladies of St. John and there is talk of forming a club. There is some talk of getting up a bowling tournament in which St. John and Fredericton ladies could compete.

Landlord McCaffrey of the Queen says that if the tournament materializes he will have pleasure donating a suitable trophy for competition.

The Marchioness of Donegal visited the Queen Hotel bowling alley this morning with a party of friends and took part in several games.

THE FAT STOCK SHOW.

Quite a large contingent of representative agriculturists will leave here on Monday for Amherst to attend the fat stock show. Messrs. W. S. Hooper and William McKay will go as delegates from the agricultural society. Messrs. F. P. Robinson and Charles Moore will represent the Farmers' Institute and Messrs. William Gilman, S. B. Hatheaway, T. A. Peters, J. A. McPeake and C. H. Giles will go on their own account.

LUCK AGAINST HIM.

Count T. Imecourt, of Paris, France, who has been hunting big game on the Tobique, returned to the city last evening and left for New York by the early train this morning. He was only in the woods a few days and had poor luck.

A COLD SNAP.

The mercury last night dropped to within three degrees of the zero mark. A strong wind prevailed at the time which made the weather very severe.
