HERALD OFFICE

A BUSINESS TRANSACTION.

One day a stranger went to a horse dealer and wished to hire a horse and trap for a day's outing. Not knowing she man, the horse dealer declined to trust them in his hands. The stranger was determined, however, upon having his drive, and proposed, therefore, that he should pay the full value of the horse and trap on condition that he sold them back at the same price in the evening if he brought them back safe. To this the other could see no objection. The horse and trap were returned in good time, and after receiving back the sum paid for them in the morning the stranger turned to go. "Hold on," exclaimed the dealer, "you have forgotten to pay for the hire." "My dear sir," was the cool reply, "there is no hiring in the case. I have been driving my own horse and trap all day." And the astonished dealer was left to think the matter over.—Sketch.

"PRINCE RUPERT" IS THE NAME.

Award for Naming Grand Trunk Pacific Terminus Goes to Winnipeg Lady.

The winner of the prize of $250 offered by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company for the name of the Pacific Coast terminus, the gateway to the Orient is Miss Eleanor H. Macdonald, of Winnipeg.

The name selected out of 12,000 submitted in competition is Prince Rupert. It does not exactly comply with the conditions of the contest, inasmuch as it contains more than ten letters, and has no special or significant association with the Province of British Columbia, but it has won the approval of the executive and Miss Macdonald carries off the coveted prize.

The official announcement was made at the Grand Trunk general offices Friday as follows:

"As a result of the publication by the company throughout Canada, of its offer of a purse of $250 to the person who would suggest the name that would be selected for the city which will be established at the western terminus of the company's trans-continental railway on the Pacific Coast, upwards of twelve thousand names were received, the majority of which complied with the conditions of the contest. It was the desire of the company as explained in the notice of the competition, that the name chosen should be euphonious, and that it should be appropriately significant of Canada, and more particularly of the Northwest and British Columbia, in the future development of which the railway is to take so large a part. With this end in view, therefore, the suggestions submitted have been carefully reviewed, and the name 'Prince Rupert' has been selected as the name by which will be known the city that will be built at the terminus of the company's new railway on the Pacific Ocean, the name having been suggested by Miss Eleanor M. Macdonald, of Winnipeg."

Under the terms of the competition that the name should contain not more than 3 syllables, and not more than ten letters, the name suggested which complied with the conditions and most nearly resembled, that selected, was Port Rupert, this name having been suggested by Mrs. John Orme, of Bonaventure, Ontario, and by Mr. R. Kirkwood, of Copper Cliff, Ontario. As Rupert constitutes the full name that illustrious explorer, but it exceeds the conditions of the competition by two letters. No account of its selection, therefore, and with the desire to accord fair treatment to all, the company have awarded the full amount of the prize offered of $250 to each of the two who suggested Port Rupert, as well as to the one who suggested the name which has been adopted.

As Miss Macdonald very aptly says it was in the year 1670 that King Charles II, of England, granted a charter to Prince Rupert, and a number of others to trade with the Indians in British North America. They established trading posts throughout this immense country from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, including Alaska, which territory from that time and for more than a century afterwards, was known as "Rupert's Land." In this way, therefore, the name in its entirety which has been chosen for the new city at the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway on the Pacific Coast, which will be situated about thirty miles south of the southern extremity of Alaska, is connected with the oldest records of the history of Canada, and particularly of the Western portion thereof, and it seems especially fitting and appropriate at this time, after the centuries that have passed, that it should again be prominently identified with the march of progress which is wending its way across this Western Empire, in the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. It is Canadian in the broadest sense; it is of the vast Northwest Territories and British Columbia, and beyond this, it was the name of one of those fearless and intrepid sons of Britain who came and conquered this new land which is our proud heritage."

CONTROL IN CANADA.

Rumored Action of United States Steel Corporation.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—There is very good reason for believing that the United States Steel Corporation have secured a controlling interest in the stock of the Dominion Wire Manufacturing Company, which is the largest concern of the kind in Canada.

The rumor first gained currency in the stock market, and is generally credited owing to the fact that the death of the late James Cooper rendered available a considerable block of the stock. There is, however, no absolute confirmation here, but it is significant that Mr. McCormick, President and Manager of the Company, was unable to deny it this afternoon. All that he could say was the report had reached his ears, but that he could not confirm it until after the transfer of stock and the consequent meeting of shareholders in about two weeks' time.

It has been long believed that the directors of the great American steel combine have been watching for an opportunity to get a footing in Canada, and as a result various reports have from time to time been circulated, but apparently without foundation. Nevertheless this latest rumor is more likely, because the plant of the Dominion Wire Manufacturing Co. is an excellent one with a good location on the canal bank, and it would, therefore, afford a good opportunity for a beginning on this side of the international line. There are several other similar manufacturing companies in Canada: James Pender Company, St. John, N. B., Maritime Nail Company, Montreal Rolling Mills, Peck Manufacturing Company, Montreal, and one or two others located at Hamilton.

The story is that the steel corporations have in view the absorption of all these companies, as well as the larger steel manufacturing companies such as the Dominion, Nova Scotia and Lake Superior Consolidated Co.

Recent strong buying of Dominion Iron and Steel stock is credited to this source. This morning for instance, the common stock opened with a sale of 29½, and before the first session closed touched 31. Transactions in big blocks followed immediately upon the resumption of business in the afternoon, and the price closed at 32, after having sold at 32½. The largest single transaction was 1,250 shares at 32 and a total transactions amounted to almost 8,400 shares. Preferred stock was almost neglected, but there was a sale of $10,000 worth of bonds at 85.

While large transactions of this kind naturally gave strength to a rumor like the one now afloat, it is very difficult for an outsider, and very frequently even for the broker, to tell where buying orders originate. Big concerns like the United States Steel Corporation would not come out into the open market as buyers, but would employ agents, who would conduct the business from one to another, and in such an intricate way that until the object had been achieved it would be almost impossible to locate them.

SAW REIL EXECUTED.

Story That Another Man Was Substituted for Rebel is Shown to be Nonsense.

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 10.—"That's the first time that I ever heard such a suggestion," said Father Williams, when told that it was rumored in Kingston that Louis Reil was not hanged, that a substitute was provided, and that Reil was living under an assumed name in Rawlins, Wyoming.

"You can say that Reil was hanged all right enough on November 16, 1885, in Regina, N. W. T., jail. I was there; I was with him on the scaffold. I knew him well. I went to the same school with him in Montreal, and when he was condemned to death I went to his side and was with him for some days. I have in my possession documents he wrote only fifteen minutes before he passed from earth. It is all nonsense to suggest that he did not suffer the penalty imposed upon him, for I was on hand and saw the execution as ordered by the Canadian authorities."

Rev. Father Williams is now attached to the staff at the Archbishop's palace. He was at Raillon, Ont., at the time, and Archbishop Cleary gave him permission to go to Regina and remain with Reil's former schoolmate, and give him spiritual comfort during the weeks he had to live. On his return Father McWilliam gave the detail of the hanging.

FROST & WOOD COMPANY'S LOSS
Smith's Falls Industry Crippled by Fire—Three Shops Destroyed.

Smith's Falls, Ont., Feb. 8.—The fire which was discovered in the carpenter shop of the Frost & Wood Company's works at a quarter to three o'clock this morning developed into a disastrous conflagration.

The big machine shop with its equipment of costly machinery, the paint shop with its contents of inflammable material and the carpenter shop are totally destroyed and are now but a pile of scrap. The blacksmith shop, which is in another building, situated across a narrow street, is badly damaged but can be quickly and easily repaired.

The flames spread with incredible rapidity and gained such headway before the firemen got to work that they were seriously handicapped, and it looked for a time as if the flames would surely cross the narrow street north to the immense warehouse, stored to the roof with finished products of the factory, but so heroically and persistently did the firemen work, and there being such an excellent pressure from the pumping station, that after a battle of a couple of hours the flames were subdued and the warehouse was left unscorched. The whole plant is well insured, but as there is only one building out of several completely destroyed, the management are unable to say at present what the loss will be, and, though interfering considerably with business for the present, yet, with fully 75 per cent. of the coming season's output already finished and either stored or shipped to the different branches and agencies, the energetic management are already looking beyond the discouragement and hope to be able to handle their trade without any inconvenience to their customers. They are even now planning to rebuild bigger and better than ever. About 300 men will be out of employment for the present. The insurance companies interested are: Millers & Manufacturers', Canadian, Edinburgh, Commercial Union, London, London Assurance, Liverpool & London & Globe, Northern Assurance Co., North British & Mercantile.

POSTMASTER DISMISSED.

Because He Carried On Other Business.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Harry D. Talbot, was dismissed because he was not, formerly postmaster of Canning, carrying on a mercantile business in the village, although his salary allowance from the government were adequate for a livelihood. The complaint with respect to Mr. Talbot was made between two and three years ago, and was investigated by Sir William Mulock. He had resolved to take action, when his retirement from the government took place. His decision was, however, made known to his successor, Mr. Aylesworth, when the transfer of the post-office department took place in October last. Mr. Aylesworth also looked into the matter, and came to the same decision as Sir William Mulock, for various reasons, including the postmaster's temporary incapacity to rheumatism, no action was taken until January 12th, when Mr. Talbot was dismissed.

DUNDONALD'S CHARGER.

Splendid Horse Chloroformed at Kingston.

Kingston, Feb. 10.—Lord Dundonald's fine black charger, which carried him through the Sudan and Boer campaigns was chloroformed this afternoon at the veterinary hospital of Dr. Nicholas of this city. No one in Ottawa evidently liked the task of ending the life of the noble animal, and it was sent to Kingston. The animal has been cared for in Ottawa since Lord Dundonald left Canada. It was in perfect condition. His Lordship desired to have the head and feet mounted and the skin tanned and this is being done here.
