FIFTY CENTS

In some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

LOVE POTION SAID TO HAVE KILLED WOMAN.

Sudden Death of Handsome Mrs. Handy of Falmouth Due to It.

Boston Herald.—The sudden death, while apparently in the best of health in Falmouth, yesterday of Mrs. Clara Handy, the handsome thirty year old wife of Rueben Handy, caused an examination by the police authorities, with the result that they are satisfied that death was caused by poison contained in a "love potion."

It is said that the police have in their possession letters supposed to have been written to the woman by Harold Hart of Falmouth, in which inquiries were made as to the result of the potion. An autopsy will be made by Medical Examiner Faunce today, and, if circumstances justify, an arrest will be made.

The investigation into the sudden death of Mrs. Handy was started yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Bourne of Falmouth, and immediately after he came into possession of the found among the effects of the dead woman, he called into the case State Police Officer Ernest S. Bradley of Hyannis, and Medical Examiner Faunce of Sandwich.

It was learned that the dead woman had been for some time taking a love potion at the instance of some person, and the letters found among her effects satisfied the police that Hart was the man.

An investigation proved that Hart, for many months, had been quite attentive to Mrs. Handy. The facts determined Deputy Sheriff Bourne that a medical examination should be made and he notified Dr. Faunce to examine the body this morning, after which an autopsy will be made, and, if necessary, chemical analysis to ascertain if poison was the cause of death. Until this is learned Hart will be closely watched by the police, and an attempt to disappear will result in his immediate arrest.

The dead woman was very popular in Falmouth. She was a strikingly handsome woman, and the mother of four small children, to whom she was devoted. Before her marriage to Rueben Handy, who is well known on Cape as a boatman, she was Miss Clara Bumpose. She lived in Falmouth Heights and was a social favorite. She was devoted to her home and husband for years, but several months ago, Hart, who is a town character, about 35 years of age, with no occupation, began to pay marked attention to her.

Her friends became aware of the fact that she taking regularly a love potion, but from whom it was received, and with what object, never was learned by even her most intimate friends. It is claimed that Mrs. Handy did not receive the attentions of Hart with the fervor with which he offered them, and a few months ago he seemingly ceased them.

Mrs. Handy was in apparently good health up to the time of her death, which came practically without a warning, and her husband, daily associates and intimate friends never suspected that there was anything in the matter with her health until notified of her death. The family was in moderate circumstances, but, still, better off than many of their associates, and the death started gossip, which resulted in the examination by Sheriff Bourne, and now that the circumstances are known the town is greatly stirred up with the different theories being offered by her friends as the cause of Mrs. Handy's death.

The investigation this morning will be by State Officer Bradford, Deputy Sheriff Bourne, Sheriff Hutchins of Falmouth, and Medical Examiner the present designation such as Dominion Methodist, Knox Presbyterian, First Baptist, or the Basilica, as the case might be in brackets below it, but in much smaller letters. Church union except in the sense of a unity and harmony of true worship of Christ and the upbuilding of character was as yet impracticable and impossible.

YOU ARE AILING.

Not quite sick,—but robbed of ambition to work,—and it hard to think clearly. Not ill enough to think of dying, but bad enough for life to be pretty dull. There is a remedy—Ferrozone—that quickly lifts that half dead feeling. Gracious, but Ferrozone makes you feel good; it sharpens the dulled appetite, makes it as keen as a razor.

BLOOD? Ferrozone makes lots of it, the rich, nourishing kind that vitalizes the whole body. You'll be wonderfully quickened, immensely strengthened, feel hearty and vigorous after using Ferrozone. Buoyant health, surplus vigor and reserve energy all come from this great restorative. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty tablets at all dealers.

CARROLL'S CROSSING.

Feb. 8.—The continued fine weather and good roads are especially valuable for the lumbermen operating in this vicinity.

We are sorry to report the death of one of our neighbors, Miss Leonia O'Donnell, at her late home on Feb. 1st. Death was due to consumption. She was a daughter of Mr. Patrick O'Donnell. Besides a sorrowing father, she leaves three sisters to mourn her loss, Mrs. Douglas Price, of McNamara, Mrs. Charles Brown of this place, and Miss Charlotte O'Donnell, residing at home. Her body was laid to rest in the Church of England burying ground. Rev. Mr. Durham conducted the funeral service.

Messrs. Alex. and George O'Donnell finished operations on Cain's river for the Miramichi Lumber Co., and they and their crew have returned home, which causes some of our young ladies to wear a pleasant smile.

James Lyons, of McNamara, passed through here one day last week, taking orders for fruit trees. Their agents are also kept busy travelling for smaller articles, such as gold eye needles.

Mrs. Thomas Parker, of Doaktown, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Donald O'Donnell.

Norman Parker left home Monday for Little Dungarvon, where he will work for Messrs. W. C. Cumming and Alex. Storey.

Our school is progressing under the skillful management of Miss Addie McLellan, out former teacher. She is well liked by all.

We are in hopes of an early spring, as the ground hog did not return to his hole. He was seen around the crossing the other night.

LINCOLN.

Jan. 5.—The mild weather and absence of snow is making business very dull especially for the local lumbermen.

Miss Effie Hayward our popular school teacher of the Wisely School, entertained a number of her friends on Saturday evening in honor of her brother Rannie who leaves for the west on Tuesday.

Mr. Hayward is engaged in the livery stable business in Alberta. While at home he sold the Hayward homestead and his mother and sister expect to join him in the summer.

Mr. Guy True, returned from Lower Kingsclear of Wednesday where he was spending a few days with relatives.

The church of England people of Oromocto and Lincoln intend holding a concert in the Orange Hall on Monday evening next, Feb. 12.

RHEUMATISM

LIVES IN THE BLOOD.

Consequently it requires an internal treatment, one that will restore the blood, and thereby relieve the cause of the pain.

After years of experiment Dr. Hamilton succeeded in producing a remedy that quickly cures rheumatism, gout and all uric acid disorders.

This marvellous cure has been given to the public as Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills; in every case they cure quickly.

By toning the kidneys and liver, Dr. Hamilton's Pills ensure a clean, healthy body. The blood is restored to a normal, healthy condition, renewed vigor is imparted to overworked organs, and thus the general health is built up, and no room is left for rheumatism to creep in.

Discouraged sufferer, relief is at hand. Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and you will soon shake hands for good with your old enemy. Here is substantial proof:

A CRIPPLED STORY OF CURE.

"This is a glad day for me," writes James E. Brownfield, from Midland, Ont., "because I can speak of my permanent cure of rheumatism. I have been all through the aching days and sleepless nights, have spent my money on worthless remedies, and consequently in recommending Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I feel sure of their merit. No remedy gave such relief or did me so much good as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. My rheumatism they cured, and ever since my health has been perfect."

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are to be had at any drug store, it's foolish to live on in misery and ill-health. You ought to get this medicine today and cure yourself. Price 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1 at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Pelson & Co., Hartford Conn., U. S.

Brother—"Yes, I like Jack well enough, Minnie," but how did you happen to marry a man a head shorter than yourself?"
Minnie—"I had to choose, Fred, between a little man with a big salary and a little man with a big salary."

NEW SOLUTION OF THE QUESTION

"SHOULD THE CHURCHES UNITE."

Union of Denominations is as Yet Impossible Says Preacher.

Ottawa Free Press Press—"Should the Churches Unite?" that vexed question which to both the clergy and the laity as yet defies solution, was the subject of a powerful sermon by Rev. Geo. F. Salton, Dominion Methodist church yesterday morning. The preacher took as the basis of his remarks the small band of apostles and disciples which gathered around Christ when he was on the earth. The individual who constituted this band while of very dissimilar dispositions and very varied likes and dislikes, were yet solidly united as regarded their service for their Master. He then drew a parallel between the conditions of service then and now. There were some who argued that because of the great variety of temperament in the human family a proportionate variety of religious denominations was needed. This they made the fundamental principle of denominationalism. Some there were who demanded an intellectual religion, more wanted the emotional, others again had esthetic tastes while many more were of the purely practical kind. Dividing the little band of followers which Christ had into these various classes, Mr. Salton said Paul might be described as the Presbyterian character caring much for dogma and doctrine and always appearing as if in search of a chair of theology in some university. John could safely be termed the Methodist apostle. He was of an emotional temperament. He fairly revelled in the ebullience of high spiritual joys. During the latter part of his life, however, he quieted down a great deal. The Episcopalian was Peters. His tastes were of the esthetic and he dearly loved to be looked upon as a bishop. His system of church government was a one-man-rule and he liked to stretch out the hand of authority over others. James was a simple minded but sternly practical man, caring nothing for doctrine, dogma or tradition. All he desired was a simple religion and an open Bible unlettered by dummery or milinery. He was the Congregationalist. Yet notwithstanding the variety of tastes in even this small first church, there was perfect harmony, and absolute unity in the service they paid to Christ. One never said to the other "you are not serving Christ in the right way." Each was a devoted homager and no attention was paid to non-essentials. Yet such was the case that it is impossible to get a complete idea of Christ except by combining all the apostles. Each saw and understood their Master in a different light, like the pure white light of the sun when projected through a prism gives clearly defined the various colors of the rainbow. Any single color, however, cannot give the pure white light of the sun, but all must be combined.

When Martin Luther rang the bell of religious freedom the sound of which reverberated throughout the civilized world, there at once sprang up what seemed to be an overweening desire for liberty. People seemed to get drunk with the freedom given them and the result was the springing up of a host of religious sects. Each sect took a sincere but only partial view of divine worship. Dealing with weakness of the various sects, Mr. Salton asked, "Has the Congregational church any weakness?" Yes, it lacks a sufficient inherent policy of church government. The Methodist church has a weakness. It does not sufficiently impress itself with the permanency of character. It thinks too much of things ephemeral. The Baptist church had a prominent weakness. It had not a sufficiently broad basis of fellowship. It unnecessarily emphasized non-essentials. The Episcopalians' weakness is an insufficiently democratic conception of the true sources of authority. The Presbyterians have not a sufficient respectability to the reception of historical revelation. The Roman Catholic church has not a sufficient regard for the liberty of man's reason, or the authority of man's mind.

All these various denominations have done a good work in the past. The Congregational church started out for a true simplicity of worship. They got it. The Baptist church set out to guard against the cheapening of the sacrament. It has won the Methodist church started out to keep alive the coals of consecration and to bring repentance to many a dark and submerged heart which none others could reach. It succeeded. The Episcopalians stood out for dignity of worship and all that is beautiful in ritual. It has gained it. The Unitarian has stood for a free inquiry into every system of dogma, creed or doctrine. It has succeeded. The Roman Catholic church found it necessary in the past to hold out a stern, strong arm of authority over man. The day for denominations is over. All these various features are now recognized by all. Is there then any reason why the churches should not now unite? Yes, at present church union, which would do away with denominations is an impossibility because it would be necessary to take away the fundamental foundation stones which would cause the whole structure to totter and fall. By three ways may union eventually take place, but only by a system of evolution. First, by comity between the churches very antagonistic. Comity stands for friendly rivalry and is the very watchword between rivals. By federation or a meeting together of certain denominations for the interchange and exchange of thought and action. By fusion, and what is to prevent it for those denominations who stand closest together.

"And what shall be the name of this new church," said Mr. Salton. "We want none of the old ones." The name church is mentioned 111 times in the New Testament and 8 times is given a specific name, but all eight are the same. It is called the "Church of God." Mr. Salton then said he would have it placed in large letters over the door of each church. "The Church of God," with
