A Hebrew Tradition.

According to Hebrew tradition, the rod of Moses and the table of the Commandments were set in sapphires. The stone symbolizes loyalty, justice, beauty and nobility.

Perfumed Tea.

The perfumed tea is scented with the essential oils of different flowers. The most popular for this use are those of the tea olive, or the Cape Jasmine, though others are used. The flowers are generally packed with the tea while the latter is in process of curing and are afterward picked out by hand.

First City Directory.

Philadelphia was the first city to issue a directory, its first edition coming out in 1785.

The Sensitive Plant.

The sensitive plant is a good indicator of the weather. On the approach of a storm these delicate members of the vegetable kingdom will curl up their leaves as though dreading the rain.

The Olympiads.

In forty olympiads there were four different kinds of years—first, a common year of 354 days; second, the embolismic year of 384 days; third, the last year of each alternate olympiad consisted of 387 days, and, fourth, the last year of each fortieth olympiad of 357 days.

The Dime.

The ten cent silver piece was authorized by congress in 1792, and its coinage was begun in 1796.

First Woman's Patent.

Nineteen years after the patent office was established in Washington the first patent was issued to a woman, Mary Kiles, who secured it for a method of weaving silk or thread with straw. This was in 1800.

Fattening Poultry.

The English method of fattening poultry is to allow the birds liberty until large enough, when they are penned and crammed for about three weeks before killing.

Good, Buxom Girls, Probably.

Our ancestors ate much more meat than we do. In Queen Elizabeth's time her maids of honor were allowed three rump steaks for breakfast. Mutton was not so much used as beef, being looked upon as diet rather for a fastidious appetite than for a woman in good health.

Oil For Clocks.

To prepare oil for clocks put a quarter of a pint of linewater and a pint of oil in a bottle, shake it well and let it stand for five days. Then draw off the oil for use.

Rabbits.

Rabbits are born blind like kittens, but their eyes open on the fifth day. They can feed themselves when a month old, but should be kept with the mother for another two weeks.
