THE GLASIER CASE.

It is understood that the costs of the reference in the equity suit of Arthur Glasier and Miss Blanch Glasier vs. Parker Glasier will amount to upwards of seven hundred dollars. After the ceremony the newly married couple and invited guests drove to one home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Grant, Forest Hill, where a bountiful wedding supper was served. VALUABLE ESTATE.

It is said that the late Mrs. Ida Verner left an estate of some $40,000 and $50,000, consisting chiefly of personal property. The bulk of it will likely go to relatives residing in St. John. Quartered oak, finished in what is called the early English style, is now the correct thing in dining room furniture. Lemont & Sons are showing in their large window a very handsome set in this style—round extension table, five chairs and an arm chair, china cabinet and buffet. A dinner set in Crown Derby pattern adds greatly to the attractiveness of the window display.—d.

The limit in the matter of toys appears to have been reached in a gift of Alfred G. Vanderbilt to his son, William Vanderbilt, aged 5. It is an electric automobile about the size of an ordinary goat cart. It is perfect, having batteries, levers, speed nothes, and bells. It was made for Mr. Vanderbilt.

Belated full texts of the Boni de Castellane divorce proceedings indicate that the count's demand for $30,000 a year alimony was based on the loss of "the best years of his life." The court concluded it had been "the time of his life" instead, and turned him off without a sou.
