A MAYOR'S WEDDING.

His Worship of Halifax Married to a Charming Daughter of the Nova Scotia Capital.

Halifax, July 26.—(Special)—The marriage of Mr. Robert T. Mac-leith of the law firm of Macleith and Tremaine, Mayor of the City of Halifax, to Miss Gladys Reynolds Clark, daughter of Mr. H. B. Clark, took place today at St. Paul's Church in the presence of a large assemblage of the city's energetic young men, and the rarity of the instance, if there be any at all, of the occupant of the mayoralty taking himself a bride, lent to the affair unusual interest.

The ceremony was a quiet one and took place at 12.45. Rev. N. Lemoine of St. Marks, officiating. Only relatives were the invited guests, though seats were reserved for the aldermen and city officials.

James C. Lithgow acted as best man and Miss Sturmy as bridesmaid.

The bride wore a costume of white satin, molvillux with chiffon trimmings, and a veil fastened with lilies of the valley.

Miss Sturmy the bridesmaid, wore cream silk chiffon over tulle, with hat to match.

Little Miss Evelyn Holsby, daughter of Edwin Holsby, who was the flower girl, wore white silk and carried a wand of white and pink flowers.

Little Master Robert Tremaine, son of Charles W. Tremaine, the mayor's law partner, acted as page, and was attired in white silk.

After the ceremony Mayor and Mrs.
Macleith held a reception at the residence of the bride's parents and they left on the afternoon train for a trip to Cape Breton.

(The bride is a cousin of Mrs. L. C.
Macnutt of this city.)

that will Foil Grave Robbers.

New York, July 25.—(Special)— Encased in a hermetically sealed copper envelope placed in a solid mahogany coffin, the body of Russell Sage will today be placed in a chilled steel case four inches thick, rivetted with steel bolts, locked with a lock which can never be opened and lowered into a grave carpeted and lined with evergreens on which the clogs will be heaped and the mound built.
The steel case weighs three tons. It is seven feet eleven inches in length, two feet six inches in depth, and three feet six inches in width. Ten strong men find it a task to lift it.

Immediately after the steel box and the contents are lowered into the grave, electric connections will be made and will be strung so that any immediate alarm will be given if an attempt is made to tamper with the remains.

The burial will be in Oakwood cemetery, Troy, beside the grave of Mr.
Sage's first wife.

The coffin will cost $1000 and the steel case with its unpickable lock,

AN HISTORIC FIGHT.

House of Lords at Last Consents to Bill to Legalize Marriage With a Deceased Wife's Sister.

After an opposition extended through many years to the principle involved, the British House of Lords has consented to the passage of the bill legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister in the British possessions. It is not likely that the House of Commons will throw out the measure, and as a result such marriages where legal in the colonies will be valid in Great Britain. Lord Strathcona has been the chief advocate of the bill, and the arguments used in its favor were those with which he must have been familiar twenty years ago in the Dominion Parliament.

A Law of Henry VIII.

A history of the subject dates back to the reign of Henry VIII, who was regularly qualified as an authority on all subjects relating to marriage and who forbade a man to marry the sister of his deceased wife. The law then passed was later construed to mean that such a marriage might be invalidated; but in 1835 such a union was made not only voidable, but void in fact. This was Lord Lyndhurst's Act, under which previous marriages of the kind were declared legal, but later ones illegal. At the time, the understanding was that the prohibition should be removed at the next session of Parliament. Nevertheless expectations in this respect were not realized, and time after time the Commons or Lords refused to interfere.

THE PIPE CONTRACT.

No Settlement yet Made with Hyde and Webster—Bondsman May be Called on to Pay Up.

The sewerage committee of the city council held another conference last evening with Mr. A. R. Slipp, sol-licitor for Hyde & Webster, pipe contractors, and at its close were apparently as far away as ever from a settlement of the matter in dispute. The only claim which the contractors have against the city is in connection with a lot of pipe lying on the normal school wharf, which Engineer Barbour condemned several months ago. The contract price of the pipe is $828, but Mr. Slipp on behalf of the firm offered to accept $400 for it. The ground taken by the members of the committee, was that this pipe having been condemned by the engineer, cannot be used in the sewerage system and therefore is of no value to the city.

The mayor and all the members of the committee were present at the meeting, also Engineer Lee and all took a hand in the discussion.

Engineer Lee informed the committee that Contractor McManus now employed between forty and fifty men on the sewerage work, but he did not consider this a sufficiently large force to complete the work this year.

Under the terms of the contract the city has power to employ men at the expense of the contractors and on motion of Ald. Colter, Mr.
Lee was instructed to do this, provided the contractors failed to comply with a recent order from the council.

In regard to the condemned pipe on the wharf, Ald. Scott thought it would be a good plan to have Engineer Lee look it over, with a view to having the city take what could be used.

Ald. Colter said the pipe had been condemned by Engineer Barbour.

Ald. Scott thought that Mr. Bar-bour's examination had been of a superficial character.

Mr. Slipp suggested that probably Mr. Barbour may have been wrong in his estimate of the quality of the pipe.

Mr. Lee said that the reason the pipe was condemned was because it did not come up to the specification.

Ald. Colter said the city had notified Hyde & Webster that they must fulfill their contract.

Mr. Slipp said that the only information he had received about the telegram sent Hyde & Webster was through the local papers. He hardly thought the city clerk had treated him just right in the matter. Hyde & Webster would certainly go to the courts if their claim was not adjusted. They were quite willing however to abide by the decision of an independent engineer in regard to the quality of the pipe. He thought Mr. Murdoch of St. John would be acceptable to them.

The mayor did not think that Mr.
Murdoch would be acceptable to Engineer Barbour.

Ald. Boyce warned the committee against interfering with the work of Engineer Barbour. They should give him no chance to get rid of the responsibility that now rested upon his shoulders.

The mayor did not think Mr.
Slipp's scheme was feasible.

Ald. Maxwell said the pipe having been condemned, was of no use to the city.

Mr. Slipp said that he could prove by two witnesses that Mr. Lee had condemned too much pipe.

Ald. Colter wanted to know if Mr.
Lee was prepared to take the responsibility of using the pipe.

Mr. Lee said the pipe might be used all on one street.

Mr. Slipp said that the contractors were perfectly willing to put the question to arbitration. They could have three engineers or three laymen examine the pipe, if the firm did not have faith that the pipe was good they would not consent to another inspection. He thought that Mr. Barbour had acted too hastily.

Mr. Slipp contended that the pipe had actually been accepted by the city when unloaded from the scows.
Further than that the council had already released Hyde & Webster from their contract.

The mayor said that what was all poppycock. Hyde & Webster had not accepted the terms proposed by the city.

Mr. Slipp was willing to leave the matter to arbitration.

The mayor wanted to know if Hyde & Webster proposed to carry out their contract. They had up to the present not replied to the city's telegram.

Mr. Slipp said he was not prepared to discuss that phase of the question. The contractors were willing to accept $400 in settlement or abide by the decision of an independent engineer.

Ald. Colter said that even if an engineer decided that the pipe was good, he was not willing to use it without Mr. Barbour's consent.

Mr. Slipp did not think because a few pieces of pipe were bad it should all be condemned.

Ald. Boyce said that when two or three potatoes in a barrel were bad it was customary to condemn the lot.

Mr. Lee said the pipe now being delivered by Hyde and Webster was a good quality.

At this stage of the proceedings Mr.
Slipp withdrew and the committee discussed his proposals. Some members wanted to obtain Mr. Barbour's consent to pay the contractors $400 and others seemed to think that it would be better to have an engineer examine the pipe.

Mr. Lee thought that Mr. Barbour would be perfectly willing to have Engineer Murdoch compare the pipe with the specifications.

It was finally decided by the committee to notify Hyde & Webster that they must reply to the city's telegram of last week by noon of Thursday, and state whether or not they intend to carry out their contract. If they fail to do this the city clerk will be authorized to take action to recover on the guarantee bond.

Engineer Lee stated that if the contractors failed to deliver another shipment of pipe by August 15th, they would be violating their contract. He thought there was sufficient pipe on hand to keep the work going until that date.

At ten o'clock the meeting adjourned.

PREMATURE BURIAL.

Startling Figures Supplied by English Doctor on Ticklish Subject.

Some very disconcerting figures were supplied to the meeting of the London Society for the Prevention of Premature Burial at Bloomsbury town hall by Dr. Hadwen, of Gloucester, as arguments in favor of speedy legislation in burial reform. The following cases, he said, had been certified by medical men: Persons buried alive, 149.

Narrow escapes from burial alive, 219.

Dissected alive, 10.

Narrow escapes from dissection alive, 3.

Embalmed alive, 2.

Cremented alive, 1.

He urged that there should be waiting mortuaries, as in Munich and other German towns, where bodies could remain under strict sanitary conditions until the first signs of putrefaction—the only reliable sign of death.

The Ven. Archbishop Colley, who was nearly buried alive in his infancy, stated that he had prepared plans whereby part of his house at Stockton, near Rugby, was to be turned into a "parish parlor," where poor people, living in one or two rooms with a large family could bury their dead and pay them loving attention. The rooms would be pleasantly furnished and filled with flowers, and the bodies could remain there until signs of decomposition had set in.

Cost of Coal For Fleets.
Britain spends £1,844,000 annually in coal for the fleets.

Objections Raised.

The objections founded on social grounds appear to have been more formidable if less concrete. Nobody was able to arise and plainly state them, but there were many vague and mournful allusions to the deplorable social conditions that would result in families where a man's sister-in-law was domiciled and his wife living.
Difficulty was also encountered in the marriage laws of Nova Scotia which existed by an Imperial Act and which it was not in the power of the Dominion Government to amend. Finally, after great tribulation, the bill worked its way through the House and into the statutes of the country in 1882. That there has been any harm done as a result there is no evidence to show. With the passage of the law in Great Britain, the principle that marriage with a deceased wife's sister is right will be recognized in England as regards such unions effected in British possessions which have removed the prohibition.

Teacher—What are marsupials? Boy
