"Agnes," I said, "you know that I have no option but to go. Do not let me go over the ground that we covered last night. It would be best for both of us selves; you must see that yourself."

"You know that I love you and I know that you love me—and yet you can go away calmly. What can your love be worth?"

"You know what it is worth," I answered vehemently, roused out of myself by this accusation. "And if ever the chance occurs again of proving it you will be afforded another example. I cannot say more."

"And it is always to be like this, Gilbert," she asked, for the first time calling me by my Christian name. "Are we to be separated all our lives?"

"God knows—I fear so," I replied, though it cut me to the heart to have to say the words.

She bowed her head on her hands with a little moan, while I, feeling that I could not much longer control myself, sprang to my feet and went across to the verandah rails. For something like five minutes I stood looking into the dark garden, then I pulled myself together as well as I was able and went back to my chair.

"Agnes," I said, as I took possession of her little hand, "you cannot guess how much it costs me to tell you how impossible it is for me ever to link my lot with yours. The reason why I cannot tell you. My secret is the bitterest one that a man can have to keep, and it must remain locked in my own breast for all time."

"I met you earlier it might have been very different—but now our ways must be separate forever. Don't you think more hardly of me than you can help, dear. Remember only that as long as I live I shall call no other woman wife. Henceforth I will try to be worthy of the interest that you have felt in me. No one shall ever have the right to say anything against me, and if, by chance, you hear good of me in the dark days to come, you will know that it is for love of you that I role my life. May God bless and keep you always."

She held her sweet face up to me, and I kissed her on the lips; then Maybourne returned to the verandah, and half an hour afterwards, thinking that father and daughter would like a little time alone together before they retired to rest, I begged them to excuse me, and, on a pretence of feeling tired, went to my room.

Next morning, I was not ungrateful, then he was back to the platform and calmly finished his speech amid respectful silence.

Seddon soon became recognized as one of the strongest men of the Radical party. When Premier Ballance died, in 1893, everybody said there was no one who could succeed him and hold the party together as he had done. But Mr. Seddon stepped into the vacant place and soon led the Radicals to triumph they had never dreamed of under Ballance.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST SOCIALIST.
His policy from the start has been to tax the big land owners and capitalists out of existence by the graduated taxation of lands and incomes, and to divide the lands in small lots among the people. His opponents in the House of Representatives said such a course was opposed to English principles.

"I know that," retorted Seddon, "in England half the people who reach the age of 65 also reach the poorhouse, and in London one person out of five dies in the workhouse, the hospital, or the lunatic asylum."

"Well may we question the economic and social system of which this is the product! We want to establish our civilization in this new land on a broader basis, in a deeper sympathy for humanity."

Thus it is that New Zealand, under Seddon's rule, has become the pet State of Socialists all over the world.

A STAUNCH IMPERIALIST.
Mr. Seddon boasted that if he was a Socialist he was also one of the staunchest of Imperialists. It is said that when the Boer war broke out he was dissuaded with difficulty from giving himself a commission, and going to the front. He had to be content with sending 6,000 other New Zealanders to South Africa. He wanted to send the Maroies to fight the Boers and advocated sterner measures towards the Boers.

"Thi Maoris," he said, in a speech, "know how to conduct war and know how to treat their enemies. They don't trouble about making prisoners."

Mr. Seddon was not content with having New Zealand a prosperous and practically independent nation. He wanted to make it an empire, with tributary states. With this object in view, he annexed several islands in the Eastern Pacific to New Zealand, not to Great Britain; and wanted to annex others until he built up his empire without the empire.

The achievement of which he was proudest was the enforcement of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, which has done away with strikes and lock ups in New Zealand.

CHIVALROUS TOWARD WOMEN.
"I remember away back in 1863," said an old colonist, "hearing a man in Seddon's saloon make a foul remark about a woman in the settlement. 'Digger Dick' vaulted across the bar, took him by the throat, threw him to the ground and nearly shook the life out of him. Three of the man's friends, who were drinking at the bar, caught hold of him, but Dick shook them off as a terrier shakes off rats and held the man down until he had taken back his words."

Dick was always chivalrous towards women. They were safe from insult even in the roughest mining camp if he happened to be there.

"But though he was a great fighter, he was always on the side of law and order. They say he prevented many in England, I argued, it was unlikely that it ever would do so; and in the joy of this thought I began dreams of happiness that might possibly be mine for the future. Was it to be wondered, therefore, that my work was pleasant to me and that the wording of Mr. Maybourne's letters of praise seemed sweeter in my ears than the strains of the loveliest music could ever have been? It was evident that my star was in the ascendant, but, though I could not guess it then, my troubles were by no means over; and, as I was soon to find out, I was on the edge of the bitterest period in all my life.

Almost on the say that celebrated my seventeenth month in Mr. Maybourne's employ, I received a letter from him announcing his intention to leave for Rhodesia in a week's time, and stating that while in our neighborhood he would embrace the opportunity of visiting "The Pride of the South." In his postscript he informed me that his daughter had decided to accompany him, and that he would be glad if I would do my best to make quarters as comfortable as possible for her. He, himself, he continued, was far too old a traveller to be worth considering.

SEDDON REMINISCENCES.

Late Premier of New Zealand was a Many Sided Man—"Digger Dick" and his Remarkable Career.

New Zealanders are fond of telling how the late Premier Seddon descended from the platform at one of his political meetings, walked through the yelling crowd up to a couple of the ring-leaders, seized one with each hand, dragged them from their seats, kicking and fighting, and threw them down without anybody's help. Then he was back to the platform and calmly finished his speech amid respectful silence.

Seddon soon became recognized as one of the strongest men of the Radical party. When Premier Ballance died, in 1893, everybody said there was no one who could succeed him and hold the party together as he had done. HOW HE KEPT HIS PROMISE.

The story goes that a certain Non-conformist divine noted for his smoking powers was sent for by the Board of Examiners just before his ordination.

"Mr. F." said one of the Board, "your papers are excellent, but there is one thing we object to."

Mr. F. asked what it was.

"You are addicted to the evil habit of smoking."

Mr. F. explained that he saw no evil in it, but, taking a large plug from his pocket, said:

"In deference to your opinion, gentlemen, I promise you this: As soon as I have smoked the plug I hold in my hand I will cease smoking forever."

They were satisfied, and he was ordained the next day.

Now, as he refills his pipe he chuckles and tells you:

"I've kept my word. I've got that very plug yet."—London Tit Bits.

Thomas J. Hackett, accused of having murdered Edith May Ahern, a little girl five years of age, whom he enticed to follow him on meeting her on her way home from school, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in the court of King's Bench at Montreal, Monday evening. The indefiniteness of the medical testimony as to the exact cause of death saved Hackett from the gallows.

WOMEN WHO CHARM

HEALTH IS THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

It Helps Women to Win and Hold Men's Admiration, Respect and Love.

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. At the first indication of ill-health, painful or irregular periods, headache, or backache, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

Mrs. T. E. Gillis, Windsor, N. S., describes her illness, and cures, in the following letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"When I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was suffering with weakness and womb trouble, headaches, backaches, and that worn-out, tired feeling. I have only taken the Vegetable Compound a few short weeks, and it has made me well, strong and robust. I believe that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is without equal for female troubles."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating, (or flatulence), inflammation or ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, or nervous prostration may be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

without seeming to assume it. This is precisely what the King of England has done. He is not an ornamental monarch; he is a working statesman.

Young Man—In the bright lexicon of youth there is no such word as fail.

Old Man—I suppose not, but as your education advances you get a different sort of lexicon.—Bohemian.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

Thousands of women suffer untold misery every day with aching backs that really have no business to ache. A woman's back wasn't made to ache. Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to help her bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Hours of misery at leisure or at work. If women only knew the cause. Backache comes from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause in the world.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it's not to be wondered that they get out of order. Backache is simply their cry for help.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

will help you. They're helping sick, over-worked kidneys—all over the world—making them strong, healthy and vigorous. Mrs. P. Ryan, Douglas, Ont., writes: "For over five months I was troubled with lame back and was unable to move without help. I tried all kinds of plasters and liniments but they were no use. At last I heard tell of Doan's Kidney Pills and after I had used three-quarters of the box my back was as strong and well as ever."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE WORLD OVER
Thousands of Mothers are using
Dr. CODERRE'S
INFANTS' SYRUP
