PRAISES CANUCKS.

Toronto Cricketers Displayed Good Sportsmanship at Philadelphia.

Another thunderstorm at Manheim yesterday did its best to rob the United States of a well-earned victory over Canada, but thanks to the good sportsmanship displayed by the Canadians its purpose was frustrated and the game ended in a downpour in an overwhelming victory for the United States, by 252 runs, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Marsden and Reade resumed their innings this morning in delightful weather to the bowling of Clark and Greene. Both players were very sharp to start with and managed to bring the score up to 50, when Marsden was caught by King off Greene's bowling for 12. Mossman followed in and at once commenced to play good cricket, but soon lost the partnership of Reade, who was easily caught and bowled by Clark for a bright innings of 17.

McElroy did not last long but Hyman and Moss carried the score from 54 to 75, when Mossman was easily caught by Evans off Cregar, who had superseded Clark at the club house end. Mossman's 18 was the best display of his side, and he was deservedly applauded on retiring.

S. R. Saunders, the last man in, only made 4 and was then clean bowled by Greene, the innings terminating for 91, or 183 behind.

Lester, the home captain, decided to take another knock. The batting order was somewhat different from the first innings, C. C. Morris and W. S. Evans being sent in to face the deliveries of Reade and McElroy. Reade came fast at the outset, chiefly from the bat of Morris, who was in a very aggressive mood. Twenty was quickly sent up on the board and then Evans was clean bowled by McElroy for 5. P. H. Clark took the vacant place at the wicket and things were made lively for the fielders, and at the lunch interval both batsmen were still at the wickets.

On resuming runs came quickly, the score being raised to 84, before the next wicket fell, Clark then being well taken in the deep field by Whittever from Butt's slow for a well played 31. Cregar followed in with orders to hit, but after quickly knocking up 11 he was easily stumped by Wright. Lester joined Morris, but when the score had been argued by 29 the innings were declared. Morris carried out his bat for 64, the brightest and highest innings of the match.

When the Canadians went in a second time they faced the hopeless task of scoring 315 runs in three hours and a half in order to obtain a victory. Marsden and Beddows were the first pair of batsmen, King and Clark having charge of the bowling. The start was most sensational, with only one run on the board Beddows was clean bowled by King. Mossman, who followed in, was clean bowled by the first ball of the Belmont deman. Two wickets for one run was bad enough for a start, but worse was to follow, for Marsden succumbed to King's deadly attack with but four runs. At the same total Evans was splendidly caught by Greene at short slip off Clark's bowling, the score board showing 4-0. King, who had not bowled so well for many a long day, seemed unplayable and Butt quickly fell a victim to his wiles with but six runs on the board. Wright and Whittever managed to make five apiece, but King scattered their stumps, and seven wickets were down for 22 runs. At the same total Reade lost his wicket, also to King. With the board showing 54, Reade was out to the same bowler, nine wickets having fallen.

With Hyman and Saunders together, the thunderstorm, which had been threatening for some time, broke over the ground and the players were obliged to seek shelter. So hard and persistently did it rain that there seemed no hope of finishing the match.

The Canadians displayed the best of good sportsmanship, however, and at 6.15 insisted in going out in the rain in order that the United States should not be robbed of a victory that was deservedly theirs. The umpires took shelter under umbrellas, and the fielders turned their trousers up and donned their sweaters. Hyman and Saunders hit out with vigor and carried the score to 62 before the latter was clean bowled by Clark, the innings terminating for 62, leaving the United States victorious by 252 runs.

King's magnificent bowling was undoubtedly the means of securing the victory for the Stars and Stripes.

THE RING.

HE MAKES NO EXCUSE.

Boston, July 12.—Jack Dougherty, who was defeated by Joe Walcott on Tuesday night, left, with his manager, Frank Mulken, yesterday afternoon for their home in Milwaukee. Neither had any fault to find with the way he was treated, here and Dougherty acknowledged that Walcott had fooled him.

When he made the match he believed that Walcott was all in, but he knows now that he was mistaken. Dougherty says that he was never hit so hard in his life as by Walcott and does not believe that there is a man of his weight that can beat Joe.

The manager of Walcott received an office from Milwaukee yesterday for Dougherty and Walcott to box eight rounds in August. Dougherty's manager did not take to the proposition, so it looks as though they would not meet.

Matchmaker Murray suggested to Walcott's manager that the welter champion meet Sam Langford in Chelsea, but Walcott's manager would not accept as he believes Langford too tough game for Walcott. They would make a great contest.

BOXING NOTES.

One very good match that may be fixed for Philadelphia soon is a bout between Hoch Keys, the Australian lightweight champion, who won that hard twenty round fight from Amby McGarry at Tom O'Rourke's club, and Harry Lewis, the pride and joy of Slowtown. That should furnish a rattling six rounder.

Johnny Mack is on the warpath for Terry McGovern. The weapon Johnny is using is Mattie Baldwin, the hard hitting little New England featherweight, but it does not seem likely that Mack will get anything but advertising out of the McGovern camp, for Johnny stipulates that the weight shall be 128 pounds. McGovern has no chance of making 128.

"For a 'world's heavyweight championship' fight that Tommy Burns-Mike Schreck affair out in Seattle this month is certainly crawling along quietly. There are no daily statements from the two principals, their pictures are not smeared all over the faces of the yellows, and they are otherwise allowed to plod their lonely ways by the considerate press. Word now comes from Seattle that the head knock-out boy of the town has put the kibosh on the mill and the heavy huggers are again without a place for their embrace. Does the public grieve? Answer: the public does not.

Joe Grim, he with the iron jaw, who met his first defeat at the hands of Sailor Burke several weeks ago, is out with a deft to meet any man in the world at his weight. Grim says that he is willing to post a forfeit with any club that will match him.

Although Grim has fought some of the best heavies in the world, he always managed to stay the limit. It was not until he met Burke that he ran into his Waterloo. Many of the spectators who witnessed that it was a fluke.

THE TURF.

Fort Erie, July 11.—With seven other events on the card, the Canadian Derby, at a mile and a quarter and halved at $3,000, served as the feature event of the opening day. It was won by Peter Stirling. The weather was perfect for racing and the fast track added materially in attracting a very large attendance. There were only six starters in the Derby, the non-arrival of Gauzee causing his withdrawal. Two special trains from Toronto and adjoining places carried a large delegation to witness the day's sport. The scratches were few. Nine books are doing business here.

Canadian Derby, 1 1/4 miles, $3,000.—Peter Stirling, 125, Foley, 7 to 2, won; Jack Dolan, 122, W. Davis, 4 to 5, second; Gold Mate, 115, Kunz, 7 to 2, third. Time, 2.1. Crow Shade, Henry Watterson and Shineon also ran.

PRINCE ARTHUR'S TRIBUTE TO C. P. R.

Mr. W. R. Baker Receives Handsome Silver Jardiniere From Members of Garter Mission.

Prince Arthur of Connaught and the other members of the Garter Mission of Japan, who spent several weeks in Canada this spring after having invested the Emperor with the insignia of the most illustrious Order of Knighthood, have just forwarded to Mr. W. R. Baker, assistant to the president of the Canadian Pacific, a magnificent souvenir of their trip. It consists of a massive silver jardiniere, bearing an inscription expressive of their happy recollections of a delightful journey and of the kindnesses shown to them by the officials of the company.

Prince Arthur and other members of the mission had previously expressed in a very liberal and generous way their appreciation of the efficient service provided by the Canadian Pacific, but this remarkably handsome gift after their return home, which has attached to it in fac-simile the signatures of each member of the party, shows an abiding sense of the pleasure and comfort that they derived from the journey.
