HOME FROM CAPE BRETON.

Tommy Howe, at one time the premier third-sacker in the provinces passed through yesterday en route to Cape Breton, where he will play with one of the League teams. Tommy was in Moncton a couple of years ago with Ned Embree's Wakefield, Mass., team and formerly played with the Roses of St. John and the old Fredericton Tartars. To a St. John newspaper Tommy said baseball in Wakefield is a dead issue now, and there was not enough money going. Tommy also said that Ned Embree, who has been playing with the Wakefield team will return on Saturday and go to Moncton where he will join one of the teams.

It is altogether likely that other provincial men who are playing the game across the border will be induced to come back, and the Cape Breton teams are said to be after them. With the material that is going over to the mining district there should be some good ball there this year.—Moncton Transcript.

EASTERN LEAGUE DOPE.

The enthusiastic fan who can pick the winner of the Eastern League hunting is certainly a wise man. All the teams are going along at an unusually fast pace, with Toronto leading the bunch but still not wholly out of the running if you have my optimism left in your system.

The Buffalo team, having cut out the bad habits, will be strong factors for the pennant. They have apparently a strong hitting team, with a good pitching corps. Their first visit to Toronto will be next week, when they will play at Diamond Park Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

There is no getting away from the fact that Newark has a good team, who will fight every inch of the way for victory, and who are rather fast in all departments. Barring accidents, Newark should be fighting for the premier position at the close of the struggle and may land the rag. The class is there.

Jersey City will have to be reckoned with. Billy Murray has a habit of landing his team in first place or in the territory adjacent. It is said that Murray is slated for a major league berth. In the course of events it would seem as if the Skeeters are about due for a slump, and after it is all over it can be better determined where the team is liable to finish. It is a sure one, two, three aggregation.

Rochester looks like the dark horse in the race. Manager Buckenberger has been working along quietly until now he has a team that will make them all step to town.

Baltimore and Montreal are capable of winning many games, and one of those unexpected rushes for the front on the part of any of the trio may cause a deal of trouble for the teams that now appear to have the best fighting chances to attain high rank. If Jimmy Bannan will keep his men away from the umpires he will be more successful. The team can play the game.

Manager Jennings is rounding his Orioles into good form. The pitchers with the exception of Mason, have not been showing up as well as they should, but last week they took a brace, and six wins out of seven games is the record.

Mr. Barrow has practically a new team on his hands again, and it is only problematical what they will do. Everybody is hoping for the best, and pulling hard for the team, despite the handicaps.

THE TURF.

WON THE $20,000.

New York, June 21.—Alexander Shields' five year old Meddler-Indigo gelding Go Between, carrying 116 pounds and third choice in the betting at 6 to 1, won the $20,000 suburban handicap today before one of the greatest crowds that ever witnessed the event at the Sheephead Bay course of the Coney Island Jockey Club. Go Between was but a short head in front of F. R. Hitchcock's four year old Hamburg colt, Dandelion, which was equal favorite in the betting with Cairgorm at 3 to 1. Colonial Girl, backed down from 20 to 1, to 15 was third, three lengths behind the first two horses and the same distance in front of the nine others in what was conceded to be probably the worst field that ever started in the turf classic. The finish of the race was a terrific drive. Go Between, catching Dandelion at the sixteenth hole in the stretch and fighting it out head and head to the wire. Shaw, on the winner, put up a masterly ride, while Miller on Dandelion, got every punce of strength out of his mount. As the two leaders rushed to the judges stand, both jockeys lashing the ribs of their horses into great foaming volleys, the thirty thousand or more racing enthusiasts at the course, rose to their feet and wildly shouted encouragement to jockeys and horses alike.

THE KING.

GLAD HAND FOR JOHN L.

Cleveland, June 25.—John L. Sullivan made his last appearance before a Cleveland audience yesterday afternoon since 1898, when he delivered a monologue sketch at the Empire Theatre. John L. is just as popular as he ever was, and the grand old man of the ring proved conclusively before the largest house that he is the most welcomed celebrity appearing before the public at the present time.

Weighing fully 360 pounds and looking as racy as he did in his palmist days, the renowned pugilist entertained theatre goers yesterday afternoon for half an hour with a monologue sketch superior to any of his contemporaries who have ever faced the footlights on a local stage. John L. gives a brief sketch of his fighting career, besides relating a number of funny experiences, which kept the audience in an uproar the whole time he was before them. His sketch was ended by his illustrating the four blows which he claims compose the main points of the boxing game with the aid of Hummelson his 205 pound sparring partner. Sullivan gives a three-round boxing exhibition in every city where the authorities do not forbid it, and was rather disappointed in not being able to carry on his regular program here.

Sullivan is a man who has squandered nearly $2,000,000 for a good time, and says that he does not regret one cent that he spent. When speaking of his earlier life he says:

"I have had a good time, but after twenty-five years of it I had enough. During this time I tried to drink all the fire water which was being made, but now that they have found a way to produce it too fast for me I have cut it all out, and since last February not one drop of liquor has touched my lips."

Sullivan still believes in living in style and enjoying the comforts of life. He has a carriage stop at the Hollenden Hotel and take him to and from the theatre for every performance and has everything that he wants.

He can tell the history of every fighter since William Figg won the championship of England in 1701 up to the present time. He says:

"I cannot see where the fighting game has improved any since I was in active training, and do not think that there are as many real fighters as there used to be. Men train to be boxers now, rather than fighters," he said, "and although I do not wish to speak slurringly about any boxer of the present day, they have not learned anything that the old guard did not know."

Fighters of today will not back themselves for a purse and fight for that as old but they fight for a purse hung up by a club. I am not trying to throw bouquets at myself, but it must be appreciated that I was the man to boots the game and elevate it to the standard it now has reached.

"At one time fights were witnessed by such a hard class of people who would go and bet their money on either man and those who lost would cling together after the fight and hold up the contestant and try to get their money which they had lost on the mill. When I entered the game I secured police protection for the fighters, and all this hold-up business and such like was eliminated. Before I had been fighting long I opened clubs in New York, one at Philadelphia, one at Chicago and one at San Francisco, where successful bouts were held."

When I lost the championship to Jim Corbett I was not hurt by the blows struck me. Corbett was a boxer and the only reason he kicked me was the fact that nature had taken its course and my time had come. This is true of the Fitzsimmons-O'Brien fight. Fitz was about twenty years older than O'Brien and was a fighter trying to beat a boxer and again Father Time won out."

In speaking of the present fighters John L. speaks in the highest terms of Jack O'Brien and says that he thinks he is the best man in sight now. This is strange, because O'Brien is not his style of a fighter. He thinks that Marvin Hart is a good man, but says that O'Brien's shrewdness and excellent judgment will permit him to hold the title for some time.

"There is one thing I could never see the justice in," said Sullivan, "and that is why the authorities should put the lid on the boxing game and let football go unmolested. I like football; in fact there is no game too rough for me to enjoy. I have seen many a grid iron battle and understand it fully but there is more brutality in it than in prize fighting. To think that in a game where twenty-two men are playing and to have some one, two, or maybe three men laying to get another fellow out of business, it does not seem right."

"In the ring the manoeuvres are far from gentle, but a man has only one opponent there to watch, and when he is struck he knows just who struck him. A jockey takes his life in his hands every time he punts a horse, and I think that in all of the fights I have remembered only seventeen men have died as the results of a punch."

"My opinion always has been that if reputable physicians were called immediately when a fighter was injured there would be very few men killed. It generally happens that a fighter who dies from a punch, dies for the want of medical aid rather than a punch received. He says that if a man's heart and kidneys are in good condition he will not be killed fighting. Every man while training should be examined often and every club should have a doctor for such purposes."

THE ROOT OF NEURALGIC HEADACHE.

Is an irritable condition of the nerves caused by cold. Relief comes quickly from Nerviline, the great pain reliever of today. "I consider Nerviline a magical remedy for neuralgia," writes Mrs. E. G. Harris of Baltimore. "But I never worry if Nerviline is in the house. A few applications never yet failed to kill the pain. I can also recommend Nerviline for stiffness, rheumatism and muscular pains." In use nearly fifty years; try Nerviline yourself.

Handle With Care.

If you send a package marked "Handle With Care" by freight, the railway employees will take every opportunity to tumble it around and dump it on the depot platform as though it were a bale of hay. We once saw a railroad employee so sick he could scarcely hold up his head, but when his wandering eye happened to fall on a package marked "Handle With Care" he arose with an expiring effort and threw the blamed thing the length of the depot platform, danced upon it, then shrieked and died."

Sensitive Nerves.

When the points of a hairpin are passed along the cheek from a point near the eye to the edge of the upper lip they seem to separate. The reason is found in the fact that the nerves of the upper lip are more sensitive than those of the cheek and consequently differentiate the two points. Portions of the back are so little sensitive to the touch that two points three inches apart will create the impression of but one.

A Peculiar Animal.

Regarding some of the peculiar characteristics of that strange link between birds and beasts, the duck billed platy pus of Australia, a writer says: "It makes its home like an otter in a bank tunneling up from the entrance under water some thirty or forty feet which its powerful forearm muscle make nothing of, to a place where it can find a dry and well drained burrow. Its food consists chiefly of insects, crayfish or 'yabbess,' which it digs, hard shell and all. It will stay from ten to fourteen minutes at a time under water, searching the mud and stones for those delicacies with its ducklike bill. It makes a most fascinating little pet, becoming very tame and squeaking with delight when fed. Its antics are a constant source of pleasure, though if care is not taken it will overeat itself, seeming to have in captivity difficulty in digesting the hard crayfish shells. Its coat is, like the mole's, of an unusually silken and glossy texture."
