ENOCH ARDEN CASE.

Strange Mixture of Marriages Tangles up Massachusetts Woman-Death Notice Error Cause of All the Trouble.

Haverhill, Mass., July 30.—Friends of Mrs. Evelyn Kenniston Burr-Gerald-Hood, formerly of Amesbury and Stoneham, were in this city today seeking the authenticity of a report of the death of Edward F. Gerald, now of Pawtucket and formerly of Stoneham, which appeared in the Haverhill Gazette of Tuesday, Nov. 12, 1901, and in the Newburyport News of about the same date.

Mrs. Gerald, formerly Evelyn Kenniston of Amesbury the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Kenniston of that town, seeing the notice of her husband's death in the papers nine years ago, it is said, accepted it as a fact, and some years later married Thomas Hood, with whom she has since lived until recently, when she said to have at once left her later spouse, and now seeks some way out of the entanglement. A sister of Mrs. Burr-Gerald-Hood, said today that the Gerald went to Stoneham soon after their marriage in Amesbury in 1897, but their life was not a happy one, and in 1897 they separated. Mrs. Gerald, coming home to Amesbury to live and Gerald dropping out of sight, although it has since been learned that he went to the home of his parents in Pawtucket, R. I. to live.

Mrs. Gerald heard nothing more of her husband until November, 1901, when an item appeared in the local papers stating that "Edward F. Gerald, 40, of Amesbury and this city, died Nov. 7, at the home of his aunt in Elkhart, Ind.," and that the body would be brought to the East for burial, even the announcement that the funeral would be held at the home of his parents on the following Sunday and an invitation to friends and relatives to attend being included in the item. On seeing this Mrs. Gerald and her friends supposed her husband to have died, as he was known to have an aunt in Elkhart, Ind.

Mrs. Gerald, so her sister states, remained in this vicinity for some time, later going away and finally meeting one Thomas Hood, whom she married, supposing herself to be widowed. With him she has made a happy home until her startling meeting with her former husband in Pawtucket, R. I.

A lawyer is now trying to straighten out the tangle of Mrs. Gerald-Hood's marriages.

LABILLOIS AND REID.

Deputy Speaker of the Commons Has Good Words for Restigouche Representatives.

Dalhousie, N. B., July 27.—Bonaventure Co. is receiving considerable attention from public men at the present time. Hon. Mr. Provost, minister of colonization in the Quebec government, is visiting the Bay Chaleur section, and was presented with an address at Paspébiac. He replied at length.

John Hall Kelly, M. P. P., who is accompanying the minister, also spoke. They both predicted a great colonization movement in Bonaventure county, where the land is so fertile.

In the upper end of Bonaventure, where Charles Marcell, M. P., is spending the summer with his family there is a great stir in public matters. Mr. Marcell had already made speeches in Carleton, Nouvelle and Stoner. He spoke of the large questions that occupied the attention of the house of commons during the last session, and referring to local improvements he said that they were due to the understanding that existed between James Reid, M. P., for Restigouche, and Hon. C. H. LaBilloy, chief commissioner of New Brunswick, who were being built on the Restigouche river and Baie Des Chaleurs which would be greatly in the interests of the farmers, who find a ready market for their products in the towns of Campbellton and Dalhousie.

He spoke also of the great lumbering business that was being done at Carleton West by Wm. McKean, of St. John, N. B., and stated that a wharf would have to be built there at an early date. Mr. McKean is now the owner of three mills in Bonaventure West and in Nouvelle river alone he expects to cut 30,000 logs next winter.

The river from Paspébiac east is in progress, and a large steamer is discharging rails at Dalhousie to be shipped by I. C. R. and Bay Chaleur railway to Paspébiac. The county of Restigouche benefits largely by the progress that is being advanced on the Quebec side. That section of the country which was neglected for years is now waking up, and its public men deserve great credit.

THE QUEBEC MURDERS.

Inquest Throws Little Light on the Crime.

Quebec, July 30.—Public interest is still centred in the outcome of the recent Louise docks tragedy, with the hope that the party or parties guilty of the death of two members of the crew of the schooner M. J. Taylor may be brought to justice. The Attorney-General's Department in order to leave no stone unturned has brought the chief provincial detective from Montreal to work on the mystery. The opinion that the R. C. R. soldiers were mere spectators in the drunken brawl, instead of actors is fast gaining ground. Major Pages, commanding officer of the corps, who now believes in their innocence, is commencing to take an interest in their behalf, and was present at the coroner's investigation this morning, where several witnesses, including three sailors of the government steamer Arctic, named Edward Power, Sylvester Cohn and James Finn, the latter who jumped in and saved a stoker belonging to the Empress of Britain—were heard; also Dr. Marois who made the post-mortem examination of the bodies of Thomas Power and William Tyro, victims of the tragedy. The first three witnesses swore that they were drinking with the men of the M. J. Taylor crew in the earlier part of the evening, and returned to the ship unmolested; they all tell the same story about being challenged to fight by a crowd on the dock, accepting the challenge and rushing over the ship's side to the dock, where the fight took place; but could give no particulars nor identify any of the men who opposed them in no way do they implicate the R. C. R. soldiers, and emphatically state they did not meet them in combat.

Finn, who is a young man of good appearance, said when they emerged from the saloon he walked with one of the deceased. Tyro, who met a soldier and wanted to fight him, but the soldier gave no offence and walked away. He came on board ship, leaving Tyro, and later Tyro came on board and into the fore-castle, and said his jaw was broken. It was then the shouting came from the wharf, and seven men on board the M. J. Taylor, including the Arctic sailors and witness, rushed to the dock to fight, he thought with mariners from the Empress, who compelled them to retreat, and it was while retreating that Power, Tyro and a stoker from the Empress named Cowan fell into the river, resulting in the drowning of the two former.

Dr. Marois deposed that Thomas Power was drowned and not murdered. He swore that the knife found in his back entered between the two shoulder blades and inflicted a serious external but not fatal wound.

The inquest was adjourned this afternoon until Monday, no doubt to give Detective McCaskill an opportunity to seek material evidence.

Mark Twain had finished his speech at a recent dinner party, and, on his seating himself, a lawyer rose, shoved his hands deep into his trouser pockets, as was his habit, and laughingly inquired of those present at the society dinner:

"Doesn't it strike this company as a little unusual that a professional humorist should be funny?"

When the laughter that greeted this sally had subsided Mark Twain drawled out:

"Doesn't it strike this company as a little unusual that a lawyer should have his hands in his own pockets?"

PHYSICALLY EXHAUSTED.

Lacking in courage—out of joint with everything—scarcely on speaking terms with even fair health. Such low spirits are pitiable. Your brain is fagged, vitality so exhausted you are unable to do anything. What you need is Ferrozone, the great vitalizer and nutritive tonic. It's by making flesh and blood, by infusing iron and oxygen into the system that Ferrozone helps; it repairs weak spots, instills new blood into worn organs—makes you feel like new. Ferrozone lifts age from the old and imparts resilience and buoyancy to the depressed. He manly, ruddy complexion—cast aside weakness and enter the happy life that comes from using Ferrozone. KIPLING'S APPEAL.

His Latest Poem on the South African Problem.

London, July 27.—The poem by Rudyard Kipling on the Government haste to frame new constitutions for the South African colonies by which Boer ascendancy may again be established in the Transvaal appears in today's Standard. By the courtesy of the editor the Canadian Associated Press is permitted to quote it in full.

The shame of a Majuba Hill

Lies heavy on our line,
But there is shame complete still,
And England makes no sign.
Unchallenged in the market place
Of Freedom's chosen land,
Our rulers pass our rule and race
Into the stranger's hand.

At a great price you loosed the yoke
"Nath which our brethren lay,
(Your dead that perished ere 'twas broke

Are scarce dead today.)
Think you ye freed them at that price?
Wake, or your toil is vain;
Our rulers jugglingly devise
To sell them back again.

Back to the ancient bitterness

Ye entered once for all—
Back to oppressing none may guess
Who have not borne its trail—
Back to the slough of their despair;
Helots anew held fast
By England's "seal upon the bond"
As helots to the last.

What is the sin that they are made

Rebellion's lawful prey?
This is their sin—that, oft betrayed
They did not oft betray;
That to their hurt they kept their vows

That for their faith they died;
God help thee, children of our house
Whom England hath denied.

But we—what God shall turn our doom,

What blessing dare we claim
Who slay a nation in the womb
To crown a trickster's game?
Who come before amazed mankind
Forsworn in part, if not in
And search the forms of law to bind
Our blood to servitude?

Now, even now, before men learn
How near we broke our trust—
Now, even now, ere we return
Dominion to the dust—
Now, ere the gates of Mercy close
Er ever 'gainst the line
That sells its sons to serve its foes
Will England make no sign?

GREAT ENTRY LIST.

Applications for Space in Manufacturers' Building and Machinery Hall Far Exceed that Available—Date of Closing of Other Entries.

With the applications exceeding by a large amount the space available for exhibits in the Manufacturers' Building and Machinery Hall the success of those departments of the Dominion Exhibition at Halifax is assured. It will now be a matter for the management to do the best it can in arranging exhibits and cutting down space asked for, to make the best possible showing for exhibitors and for the great exhibition as a whole.

The date of the closing of entries in live stock, poultry and dairy departments is Wednesday, August 15th. It behooves our live stock men to leave no steps untaken to ensure a creditable display in this department, one that will reflect credit on this part of the Dominion in view of the competition that will ensue with the progressive cattlemen of the rest of Canada. A similar remark applies to the agricultural department, the entries for which close on Monday, August 27th.

On August 27th also the entries in Fine Arts and Ladies' Work close. These will be arranged on a new scale of excellence, and the latter, which is in charge of the I. C. L. Women's Council, will be a noteworthy feature of the exhibition.

The Horse Show, the nine days of racing, the vaudeville, the "Carnival of Venice," and indeed, the whole grand stand performance will be worthy of the wonderful Dominion Exhibition, which will open its gates for two weeks on September 22nd. The Halifax authorities and the Tramway Company are busily at work this summer paving the streets of the business section of the city. This work is advancing satisfactorily and when exhibition visitors come they will have the pleasure of seeing a city whose streets cannot be surpassed for excellence by any in Canada.

On the grounds they will see all the buildings vastly extended and improved, splendid new edifices for the fisheries and office purposes and a display of the resources of the Dominion from ocean to ocean.

The transportation lines all over the country are arranging for low rates to Halifax from all Canadian points. To comfortably and economically accommodate the great influx of people the exhibition commission is taking adequate steps.

"You are quite right. She has her defects—she is vain, full of pretensions and grand ideas, with a difficult character. But what will you? I adore her and feel that I absolutely cannot live without her."
"But that is not the question. Can you live with her?"

THE ARCH FIEND OF THE AGE.

No war, more deadly than ever this modern butchery—but Catarrh which leads to consumption and annually kills more than famine and war combined. The doctors now successfully fight Catarrh with a remedy that never fails—"Catarrhoxone," it's death to every type of Catarrh. It destroys every root and branch of the disease so thoroughly that a relapse need never be feared. If troubled with colds, nasal or throat catarrh, or subject to bronchitis or asthma, use Catarrhoxone and you'll be cured forever.
