CHARMS OF WOMEN A BAR FROM JOBS.

Chicago's Girls Deemed Too Pretty to be Welcome Assistants to City's Chief Chemist.

Chicago, Ill., June 9.—It is well right to be smart, but it is not well to be too good looking when a woman wants a job under the government of Chicago. Smartness will land a candidate high up in the civil service, and give her an intellectual mortgage on a job, but good looks, if carried to an extreme act automatically as a canceller of the mortgage.

Miss Josephine R. Korten, of No. 6,722, Union Avenue and Miss Valerie D. Ohrenstein, of No. 5,461, Cornell Avenue, are both undeniably smart. The documents to prove it are in the office of the city chemist, who needs several assistants. Of the candidates who passed the civil service examination the young women named ranked well at the top.

Miss Korten is fourth on the list, and Miss Ohrenstein is seventh. There are four vacancies to be filled, hence Miss Korten clearly is within the money. If three of the eligibles should decide they do not care to be assistant chemists Miss Ohrenstein will have a chance. Now the delicate task is up to Dr. Whalen, Health Commissioner, to decide whether Miss Korten shall have one of the four jobs.

Hugo Jone, chief chemist, has gone on record against a too fascinating woman, because she takes the minds of men from their work and impairs the efficiency of the office. If Dr. Whalen decides Miss Korten shall have one of the places the decision will carry with it the imputation that the young woman is not good enough looking to hurt. If he sends her home she will carry with her a certificate of personal charms, but she will be without a much coveted job. Neither of the young women has presented herself at the City Hall to learn her fate. Nobody from the chemist's office has mustered enough nerve to reconnoitre on the outskirts and bring in reports on the forms, faces and manners of the fair candidates. Each side is waiting for the other to make a move. Meantime there is some fine manoeuvring to find a way out of the difficulty without passing directly upon the question of looks.

"Women are all right," said Mr. Jone, "so far as efficiency and alertness are concerned, but a girl who is particularly attractive demoralizes an office if there are men around. The men find too many excuses to hang over her desk, talk to her, study her from across the room, thereby neglecting their own tasks. I am going to be gallant enough, however, to insist too strongly on this idea."

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

Owing to faulty action of the kidneys and liver, the blood becomes filled with disease germs that imperil health. The first warning is a backache, dizziness, headache and lack of vital energy. Act quickly if you would avoid the terrible ravages of chronic kidney and liver complaint for all time. No medicine relieves so promptly, nothing in the world of medicine cures more thoroughly. For good blood, clear complexion, healthy appetite, the proper treatment is Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, at all dealers.

HIGHEST SALARIED WOMAN IN NEW YORK STATE CIVIL SERVICE.

Miss Kate Holladay Claghorn, New Registrar of Tenement House Department.

The highest paid woman in the civil service in New York state is Miss Kate Holladay Claghorn, of 81 Columbia Heights, who has received the appointment as registrar of the tenement house department. The appointment was made yesterday by Commissioner Edmund J. Butler. Miss Claghorn's salary is $3,000 a year, and, while there are higher paid positions in the state and municipal service, to which women are eligible, Miss Claghorn is the highest paid woman incumbent. For four years she has occupied the position as assistant registrar of the tenement house department, and at a competitive examination there were but two persons who passed, Miss Claghorn and George Hale, a veteran employee of the department, whose percentage was a trifle lower than the 95 per cent. attained by Miss Claghorn.

Commissioner Butler said that he was obliged to appoint the applicant at the top of the civil service list, and there he found Miss Claghorn's name. Commissioner Butler said that Miss Claghorn had about twenty-five clerks in her department, under her, but the executive ability which the position required was nothing as compared with the vast amount of statistical records which she must maintain. There are about 90,000 tenement houses in the City of New York, and Miss Claghorn must preserve and file away all reports and matters in reference to those houses.

Miss Claghorn's parents have been prominent in Brooklyn. She is the daughter of Charles Claghorn, of the Bryant and Stratton Business College at Bedford avenue and Fulton street. Her mother, Mrs. Martha Holladay Claghorn, is dead. The registrar lives with her father at the handsome house on Columbia Heights. Miss Claghorn has lived in Brooklyn most of her life, and has been engaged in public service for many years. In 1900 and 1901, she was engaged in special research work on the subject of immigration. Her efforts in this line of work have also included editorial work on the United States census.

Miss Claghorn is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, where she received the degree of A. B., with the class of 1892, and the degree of Ph.D. in 1896, from Yale. She is a member of the Women's University Club. The registrar exhibited very natural modesty when approached with regard to her promotion, saying she could not understand why her friends considered her position extraordinary even though she had twenty-five clerks and an unusual responsibility with reference to the department records.

JACK SPRIT.

In commemoration of the latter event a third cross was incorporated with the other two in the design. The third cross is popularly called St. Patrick's cross, but this is incorrect. It is on the flag, however, to symbolize the presence of Ireland in the United Kingdom, and the flag as established in 1801 remains unchanged today.

Considerable speculation exists concerning the origin and significance of the term "Jack Sprit." The first word, of course, is obvious, but there has been a deal of learned disputation about the other. Some persons have held that "Jack" came from the mantical name, Jack-spirit, others from the word jacket, originally a Norman word denoting the tunic worn over the chain armor, and that eventually became identified with heraldic designs.

The weight of authority, however, derives the word from the name of the King in whose reign the first union was consummated. James in French is Jacques. The union flag of King Jacques would easily become "Jacques' Union," or "Union Jacques," and so eventually Union Jack.

Two friends who had dined well made a call on a woman friend. The generous and ruby wine induced the spirit of loquacity in one and taciturnity in the other. The loquacious one talked fluently to the point of volubility to his hostess during the evening, until the time for taking leave, when he rose gracefully and thanked his hostess for a most delightful evening.

His friend, the taciturn one, had sat during the evening, swaying slightly and smiling a sickly smile of approval at his friend's conversation. Immediately in front of him was a tigerskin rug, the large head of which, with two glittering glass eyes, faced him and riveted his glassy gaze on him with a hypnotic

ONE OF THE NEW SUITS.

There is a certain fascination about the jaunty little Eton coat which makes the wearer seem doubly attractive. A charming little suit is shown developed in the modish black and white and trimmed with straps of white. The sleeves are long—which will please the woman of Puritan descent who likes her clothes to be practical as well as fashionable, and the neck is finished without a collar. The coat can be closed so as to protect the chest and ends at the top of the high girdle. The skirt is circular with a double inverted box pleat in front and back. Flat stitched bands of white trim the bottom of the skirt and are finished in points at each side of the centre in front and back.

A suit of this kind is not difficult to make and is suitable to a great variety of materials. Any of the light woollens such as Panama, voile, serge of chiffon broad cloth might serve as well as linen, Rajah or the other summer suitings. In the medium size the suit requires 8 yards of 36-inch material.

effect. Realizing that he must follow his friend's lead, he raised himself unsteadily, and extending his hand, said: "Goo! night, goo! night. Mrs. Blank. Thanks very much for a most delightful evening." Then, stooping, he stroked the tiger's head, saying: "I must pet the dear old dog before I go."

Frequently in the south one finds among the negroes as remarkable Christian names as those bestowed upon their offspring by the Puritan fathers.

A gentleman of Virginia tells of a negro living near Richmond, who for years had been familiarly known to him as "Tim." It became necessary at one time in a law suit to know the full name of the party. The not unnatural supposition that "Tim" stood for "Timothy" met with a flat denial.

"No, sah!" exclaimed the negro, "mah name ain't Timothy. It's What-timorous-souls-we-dear-mortals be Jackson. Dey jest call me 'Tim' fo' sho't."

A house without woman and firelight is like a body without soul or spirit.

A rich rogue is like a fat hog. Who never does good till as dead as a log.

S. V. Kenkels, Philadelphia's expert on autographs and books, said at a sale, apropos of embarrassment: "That reminds me of a little girl out in Germantown."

"There was company to dinner at her house one night, and the little girl, pointing to her plate, said in a loud voice:—

"Oh, mamma, what is this?"

"The thing was a hair, but the mother, red with confusion, still had enough ready wit left to say:

"Hush, dear; that is a crack in the plate."

"The child cried in a still louder voice:

"Oh, mamma, look! I can move this crack about! Isn't it funny?"

SILENCING AND HECKLERS.

Wendell Phillips, the famous American orator and abolitionist, had an effective way of dealing with disturbances. Once when he was interrupted by an unfriendly audience, he stooped down and began talking in a low voice to the men at the reporter's table.

Some of the auditors, becoming curious, called "Louder!" Whereupon Phillips straightened himself up and exclaimed:

"Go right on with your noise, gentlemen. Through these pencils," pointing to the reporters, "I speak to forty million people."

TIPS ON GOOD CLOTHES.

A great many men have already resolved to come here for their Suits. These men are "posted," and know just what they want and where to get it. They save themselves time and they save themselves trouble and money. Others will look around, uncertain where to go. If they happen to look at our Suits, we will get their money, sure. If they buy without seeing our suits, it'll be their loss much as ours. Our styles are far away from the ordinary ideas embodied in the majority of ready to wear Suits in the swing of the crowd of suit buyers comes this way more and more. When we say $10., $12, $12.50 or $16.50 for a suits you must see the suits hitched to these prices to appreciate our offerings. We trust you will be in for a look.
