FRAUDS ON FARMERS.

Arthur Smith of Beachville, Ontario, Arrested.

Woodstock, Ont., June 5.—Last night High Constable Boyle of St. Catharines and County Constable Hill of this city arrested Arthur Smith of Hillcrest Farm, Beachville, upon the charge of obtaining money under false pretences with intent to defraud. The arrest was made at the instigation of E. G. Hull & Sons, nurserymen of St. Catharines, who claim they have sent money to Smith Bros., Beachville, for a shipment of seed potatoes which were never forwarded. Smith was taken to St. Catharines this morning. The arrest discloses a strange story. The First National Co-operative Society of Woodstock have spread advertisements broadcast, advertising everything you eat, wear or use at wholesale prices. Circulars were issued, and they led directly to Smith's arrest. The public bid, and postal notes and bank drafts have been coming to the postoffice here. There were no offices of the society here, nor was it known, and many of the letters were sent to the dead-letter office. Others, however, found their way to Smith.

The mails were used extensively, and a postoffice official was sent to investigate. The case was worked up, but for some reason the society was not prosecuted. The dupes of the society were chiefly farmers.

Among the advertisements was one of seed potatoes that sold at $7.00 a stone. No arrests were made until last night, when the county officers went to Beachville. An examination of the premises of the prisoner revealed nothing of the advertised goods except a few strawberry plants.

The Korean province of Kongsong appears to be much disturbed by insurgents, who have been reported from five places. They have issued a notice that they will kill all persons wearing their hair short. It is feared their action may cause a recrudescence of the Conservative spirit. Korean troops have been despatched to deal with the insurgents, but probably Japanese troops will eventually be compelled to undertake the task. In the engagement at Hongin with Japanese troops the insurgents had sixty-nine killed. One Japanese was killed.

MARYSVILLE NEWS.

June 4.—The funeral of the late David McDowell, took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. William Moore, at Penniac, and was largely attended. The Oddfelloes, of whom the deceased was a member, had charge of the arrangements and the members of Nashua lodge turned out well. The services were conducted by Rev. A. A. Redout of Fredericton, and interment was made in the Penniac Methodist burying ground. There were several handsome floral offerings.

Marysville Lodge K. of P. attended divine service in the Methodist church yesterday morning and heard a very able and instructive sermon from the pastor, Rev. W. B. Thompkins. The members of the lodge turned out strongly and looked well.

Mr. Fred Shaw, of Lowell, and her son, are visiting her mother, Mrs. James Gibson.

Mrs. Harry Gibson and little son, Tapley, accompanied by Mrs. Mattatol, of Lynn, leave for Woodstock tomorrow morning to visit relatives.

"I was going through Sing Sing not long ago," said Jack Hazard, the raconteur, "and told a few stories to amuse the fellows there. When I had finished one of them came up to me and congratulated me. 'I like those stories,' he said. 'I have heard four or five of them before—I had told six—but I can't help liking them.'"

"When he went away I said to the keeper: 'How long has that fellow been here?'"

"Fifteen years," he answered. —

To this the young hopeful replied:

Two ladies who lived near one another, were great friends until one managed to secure an exceptionally good cook. The other, actuated by envy and making sure of the mistress's absence, went to see this cook one morning and offered her more money than she was then getting.

But the loyal cook declined to change her place.

Several days later the two ladies met at a dinner party, and the first cut the second dead.

"Why, Mrs. Jinks," said the hostess, "you know Mrs. Blank, don't you?"

Mrs. Jinks replied: "I often hear of her. She sometimes calls on my cook, I understand."—Stray Stories.

WHEN EMPRESS EUGENIE ESCAPED FROM FRANCE.

Colonel Sir John M. Burgoyne tells in the "Century Illustrated" a thrilling story of the escape of the Empress Eugenie in his yacht from Deauville to the Isle of Wight after the revolution broke out in 1870. He says: "I was owner of the cutter yacht Gazelle, with which vessel I was elected a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron in August, 1869. The Gazelle was about the smallest yacht in the club, being forty-two tons Thames, thirty-six tons register measurement."

When Dr. Thomas W. Evans came on board on September 6th and told him that the Empress was in danger at Deauville and asked him to take her on board his yacht, Sir John at first did not believe him. "However," being convinced, he arranged for the Empress to come on board at midnight. They would sail at seven o'clock next morning. At 11 p. m. a stranger came on board "to see an English yacht, as he was going to Paris next morning. Of course, (says Sir John) I saw that he was a police agent, but I showed him over the yacht and he left quite satisfied."

Just before midnight I walked along the quay and met the Empress and Dr. Evans walking together. Her Majesty, who was dressed in black and was closely veiled, came toward me and said: "You are the English gentleman who will take me to England?" Saluting, I answered "I am Sir John Burgoyne, Your Majesty," and conducted her across the plank gangway to board the Gazelle, and presented Lady Burgoyne to her.

HER MAJESTY'S COURAGE.

Her Majesty the Empress showed an example to all by exhibiting a courage and a consideration for others which won the esteem of every one on board. When the water smoothed a bit, we beat up toward the Nab light-ship, at the entrance of the Solent, and all hands were thankful when we anchored off Ryde, at about four a. m. In the morning of 8th September, when we got into smooth water, we took the canvass covers off the skylights, cleared the main cabin and our smart steward had a good breakfast on the table, at which the Empress and Dr. Evans joined us. Her Majesty then told us how she left the Tuilleries, and her going to Dr. Evans' house. She also requested me, on her behalf, to thank the crew of the Gazelle for their exertions to take her safe to England. She landed at about seven a. m. and at her request I went with her to the hotel, and later in the day went with her to the steam pier at Ryde pier that conveyed her to Portsmouth, en route for Hastings. Shortly after arriving at Hastings the Empress wrote a most kind letter to Lady Burgoyne and sent a splendid locket, and I was thanked for my small service by His Majesty the Emperor Napoleon III. at Chislehurst, and as a further mark of the Empress' kindness toward me, when I was married for the second time in October, 1903, she gave me a magnificent silver-gilt tea and me a magnificent silver-gilt tea and coffee service.

BRACEBRIDGE SHAKEN.

Large Quantity of Dynamite in Burning Building.

Bracebridge, Ont., June 2.—A terrific explosion occurred within one hundred yards of the business portion of the town this evening about 7.30 o'clock. A shack, in which was stored, as near as can be ascertained eleven cases of dynamite, took fire and blew up. Rocks and timber flew in all directions, and the narrow escape of many people from death is miraculous in the extreme. As it was, no one was hurt, although a number only a few yards away were thrown to the ground. The loss in property, glass, etc., will reach nearly four thousand dollars; almost every business house in town suffered through broken window panes. The British Lion and Dominion Hotels had the glass in nearly every window demolished. Dr. Williams' residence in the rear of which the explosion took place, was badly damaged. The Bird woolen mills and The Gazette office are also heavy losers. The shock was felt for miles, and dishes in houses half a mile away were thrown from the shelves. The dynamite was being used for blasting in connection with the building of the road to the new wharf, which is almost completed.

"But," said the judge, "you must remember that you agreed to take him for better or worse."

"Oh, yes, I remember," all about that," the witness bitterly replied. "but I didn't promise to take him for worst."

BABY'S FIRST DRAWERS.

Garments for tiny folks are a pleasure to create and such an array of daintiness as is necessary for small lads and lassies may keep any mother busy. Here is shown a pattern for the first drawers. As may be seen they are very simple in construction consisting of one piece with a seam on the upper side. The tiny drawer leg is left open just a short distance and buttoned to the underwaist side back and front. These garments may be made as simple or elaborate as desired. Narrow tucks and lace embroidery prove a dainty finish, while nainsook, longcloth, or cotton flannel may be the material. The material required for the medium size is $\frac{3}{4}$ of a yard 27 inches wide.
