CANADA'S PARLIAMENT

Sunday Bill Likely to be Submitted to Local Legislatures--Senate Discussed and Passed Usury Bill.

Ottawa, July 5.—The Commons sat all day yesterday discussing estimates for the public works department and finished the entire list of votes before rising. About five million dollars was voted.

Senate railway committee yesterday morning reported without amendment the Grand Trunk Railway branch lines bill.

The Sunday observance bill may not be taken up until Friday. Mr. Aylesworth will, it is understood, move an amendment providing that the bill will not come into force until it is adopted by the different provincial legislatures, with the exception of transportation.

In respect to transportation, the Dominion legislation will have to stand. Upon all other matters upon which the provinces can legislate, they can have such a Sunday law as the people desire. This, it is said, will be legislating in accordance with provincial rights.

Ontario can have the kind of Sunday observance that it desires and Quebec what it wants.

The railway committee of the Commons killed the Pacific and Eastern railway bill, a line from Victoria to Fort Churchill. Sir Henry Pillatt and B. F. Pearson were among the promoters.

The bill was supported by Sir Frederick Borden, Hon. Mr. Templeman and Hon. Mr. Emmerson. It was opposed by other railway enterprises and defeated by 44 to 31.

At the evening session of Commons during the hour for bills, the minister of public works proposed the granting of a charter to incorporate the Grand River & Western Power Company, as there was an arrangement with the International Waterways Commission that the Dominion or Ontario would not grant any more charters. An order in council was passed, accepting this view.

Mr. R. L. Borden asked if one of the ministers was not interested in the charter.

"I do not know," replied Sir Wilfrid. "If any member knows of any it is his duty to tell."

Hon. Mr. Emmerson opposed the bill. It was before the House when the hour for private bills expired. The cost to Canada of the visit of Prince Arthur was about $20,000. The militia display cost about $1,000. The Prince of Wales' visit cost half a million, with two hundred thousand dollars for militia. If the king accepts the invitation sent him there will doubtless be a new mark set for Canadian hospitality to royalty.

The usury bill was considered by the senate yesterday.

Sir Richard Cartwright said that he did not believe that this or any other legislation would prevent the human vampires, called money lenders from bleeding their fellows. There was no doubt the act would be evaded. However, the proposed legislation would prevent the stigma remaining against the Canadian system of compelling judges to declare legal the most outrageous transactions.

Senator McGregor said that he did not know that he was in favor of any usury act. Free trade in money lending might as well be protected as free trade in anything else. Why, however, should parliament not make some provision for the money borrowers? Why not regulate the chartered banks? They were the greatest borrowers in Canada. They borrowed about eighty-five million dollars from the poorest people. While banks were enjoying good times setting from five to six per cent they loaned money that they paid on deposits?

Senator G. J. D. Macdonald, rather than the banks were the offenders in this respect. The government fixed the rate of interest on deposits at its savings banks. The bill was given third reading.

their desire to save his life, Admiral Rojestvensky today pleaded guilty before a court-martial.

In a short speech to the court the admiral declared that he took all the blame on his own shoulders, and asked that he alone be punished to the fullest extent of the law, virtually an appeal for condemnation and death, which is the penalty for hauling down the St. Andrew's Cross to a hostile vessel. All the other defendants, including Captain De Colongue, chief of Admiral Rojestvensky's staff, and Captain Baranoff, commanding the Bedovi, pleaded not guilty.

The admiral appeared to have quite recovered from the wounds he received in the battle of the Sea of Japan. After he had entered his plea, the taking of testimony began. Members of the crew of the Bedovi will be examined to determine who ordered the surrender, the condition of the vessel and the incidents of the capture.

The taking of testimony will occupy several days.

DEAD BODY BURNED UP.
Incident of a Fire in a Quebec Village
Quebec, July 4.—Fire was responsible for an unfortunate accident. Valcartier, a small hamlet, on the line of the Lake St. John, Railway, on Sunday night. The wooden house occupied by a farmer named Wm. Lyons caught fire, and before any of the inmates could realize the fact, the flames spread rapidly and communicated from room to room until the whole dwelling that caused the Lyons family and others present to die for their lives. Every person had a narrow escape. In one of the rooms of the house were the remains of an aged member of the family, who died daily that day, awaiting interment. An effort was made to carry out the body, but the flames spread so rapidly and burned so furiously that it had to be abandoned, and in consequence was cremated in the structure that was burned with all its contents.

New York, July 4.—The Tribune says: A volume of clippings covering the recent visit to the United States of Earl Grey, governor-general of Canada, has just been completed by Walter Hyman & Co. of this city, and will be shipped tomorrow to the Earl's home at Ottawa. The volume is artistic, the cover being ornamented with a scroll symbolic of the Earl's rank, and is lined with a grade of moire silk imported expressly for this work. On the cover appears the following inscription: "Newspaper comments commemorative of the visit to the United States of his Excellency the Right Hon. Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada—1906."

CHOKED SISTER TO DEATH.
Pitiable Murder Near Nebraska City, Neb.
Nebraska City, Neb., July 4.—Miss Lucy Lloyd, aged 34 years, last night confessed that she choked her sister Della, aged 37 years, to death Saturday night at their home on a farm. Della Lloyd was losing her mind and brooding over this and the separation that would ensue, the younger sister stepped behind her sister as they were preparing for bed and choked her to death and remained beside the corpse all night. The two women lived alone.

Mr. Nuritch—What You want to marry my daughter? Why you ain't able to support yourself.
Young Nuritch—Quite so. That's the very excuse I gave to my family for wanting to marry your daughter.
