"Child, how could it have happened?" he whispered, leading her away. "Fancy my little Peggy with no one to look after her. What a beast I was to trust you to Pettingill. I might have known the chump would have been knocked out by all this color." He stopped to look down at her, and a light came into his eyes. "Little Peggy in the great world," he smiled; "you are not fit. You need—well, you need—just me."

But Mrs. Valentine had seen him as he stood revealed and came up in search of Peggy. It was almost morning, she told her, and quite time to go back to the hotel and sleep. So in Bragdon's charge they wandered off, a bit reluctantly.

It was not until Monty was summoned to rescue Reggie Vanderpool from the stern arm of the law that he discovered the identity of Punchinello. Manifestly he had not been in a condition to recognize his assailant, and a subsequent disagreement had driven the first out of his head. The poor boy was sadly bruised about the face, and his arrest had probably saved him from worse punishment.

Monty's arrival gave him a new conception of the strenuous life.

"I told you I couldn't wear a mask," he explained ruefully as Monty led him home. "But how could I know that he could hear me all the time?"

The day after the carnival Brewster drove his guests over to Monte Carlo. He meant to stay only long enough to try his luck at the tables and lose enough to make up for the days at sea when his purse was necessarily idle. Swearengen Jones was forgotten, and soon after his arrival he began to plunge. At first he lost heavily, and it was with difficulty that he concealed his joy. Peggy Gray was watching him and in whispers implored him to stop, but Mrs. Dan excitedly urged him to continue until his luck changed. To the girl's chagrin it was the more reckless advice that he followed. In so desperate a situation he felt that he could not stop. But his luck turned too soon.

"I can't afford to give up," he said miserably to himself after a time. "I'm already a winner by $5,000, and I must at least get rid of that."

Brewster became the center of interest to those who were not playing, and people marveled at his luck. They quite misinterpreted his eagerness and the flushed anxious look with which he followed each spin of the wheel. He had chosen a seat beside an English duchess whose practice it was to appropriate the winnings of the more inexperienced players, and be was aware that many of his gold pieces were being deliberately stolen. Here, he thought, was at least a helping hand, and he was on the point of moving his stack toward her side when DeMille interfered. He had watched the duchess and had called the croupier's attention to her neat little method. But that austere individual silenced him by saying in surprise, "But she's a duchess—what do you expect?"

ALBERTITE MILES WILL BE RE-OPENED.

Coal Which Was Famous For Gas Producing Qualities Will Likely be Mined Once More.

Transcript:—Mr. Geo. Robertsan, who is representing the company which now has control of the Albertite mining sites, has been in the city for a few days past, and is sanguine in his expectations of shortly seeing the mine reopened on a larger scale than ever. The mines are located in Albert County and the coal is remarkable for its gas producing qualities. The coal yields about 15,000 000 feet of gas to the ton, in striking comparison with other local coals whose yield of gas to the ton is about 6,000 feet. In fact, so rich is the gas product from the Albertite coal, City Engineer Eddington told a Transcript reporter last night, that in using the Albertite it was generally mixed with a poorer quality of coal.

The re-opening on an extended scale of the Albertite mines would prove a boon to Albert County, and would be welcomed by Moncton as well. At one time, a good many years ago, Albertite was being mined in large quantities, when 225 men, or more, were employed directly in the coal mining plant. This was some twenty-five years ago, when the mine was operated by a company of English and American capitalists, and twenty thousand tons of coal per year was mined for a number of years. The coal was pretty expensive at that time, but sold readily at an average price of $22 a ton.

The company which has been 'operating the mine up to a short time ago, does not actually awn the property, but has a mining prospective lease of 1,400 acres. They have had this for about a year, and the mine was in active operation up to a week or so ago. In the neighborhood of $4,000 or $5,000 has been spent, and at the present time there is at the mine's mouth, about seventy-five tons of coal ready for shipment.

It is understood that a number of American capitalists are prepared to invest in the mines if it can be demonstrated that a market can be secured for the out-put. Mr. Robertson anticipates no difficulty in this, and his idea in getting Moncton to take hold of it is because there is not sufficient cargo to send away to where there is a larger market for it.

This coal, it will be remembered was at one time used by the Moncton Gas, Light & Water Co., also in St. John, Halifax and Boston, for similar purposes, and gave every satisfaction. It is expected that inside of a month's time, a large number of men will be at work in the mine.

DIDA THE MYSTERIOUS.

The Creation of a Woman out of Nothing at the St. John Exhibition Sept. 1st to 8th.

Among the remarkable features at the St. John exhibition during the coming Sept. 1st to 8th, will be the performance in one of the Amusement Halls of the famous Dida, the creation of a woman out of nothing, which has created more excited interest than any other feature in Vaudiville ever represented in the big American cities. Every patron of St. John's big show should watch for Dida, the moment of stepping on the grounds. Dida is sure to be where the crowd is, consequently if one follows the crowh one will see Dida. Those who have never seen a woman out of nothing can have that experience at the St. John exhibition, Sept 1st to 8th.

A compliment is always exaggerated.

NOT ENOUGH CARS TO HANDLE WHEAT CROP.

Railroads of Canadian West Facing Serious Problem This Fall---Growth of Northwest That of a Magic Land.

Boston Herald:—Notwithstanding the fact that all haste has been made in the building of the new Grand Trunk Pacific road, and despite the fact that other railroads have made improvements sufficient to cope with a crop of greater size than their most sanguine anticipations pictured, the railroads of the Canadian West are facing a serious problem this fall in the fact that the immense wheat crop has surpassed all expectations and there will not be enough cars to carry it to the shipping points.

Mr. W. A. Brown of Winnipeg, Man. general superintendent of the Canadian Northern rgilroad, a road soon to become transcontinental, said yesterday, while in Boston, that the development of the Canadian West was becoming so rapid and so widespread that only the utmost efforts on the part of transportation companies would meet the traffic demand. Thousands of settlers are carried west every month by the railroads and thousands of bushels of grain are brought back every fall, the fruit of those settlers' labors.

WINNIPEG'S MAGIC GROWTH.

Mr. Brown has watched the growth of Manitoba from the start, and says that never in its history has the great province gone ahead as fast as it has done this year.

"When I went to Winnipeg," he said, "there were about 8000 people there, and that wasn't so very many years ago. It was then a straggling bit of a town, typically western. Now there are more than 105-000 people. With a sky-scraper-dotted business district, wide, fine streets and beautiful homes. It is even busier than Chicago. Every train that comes in from the East brings hundreds more settlers with money or brains and brawn to invest, to that Winnipeg's floating population is very great. Winnipeg is a city of great business possibilities it is only in its infancy. It is hestined to become a metropolis and yet it is and always will be a city of homes.

"The Canadian Northern railroad is essentially a product of the West. Today the road bids fair to become one of the greatest in the country. Every department is stained to the utmost, not only in looking after the traffic already at hand, but in trying to secure the traffic that so far cannot be reached. Big gangs of men are busy every day from dawn till dark away out in the unsettled portions of the country laying the dump for branch lines tapping new country, or setting the steel for lines all ready to be opened.

"GIVE US CARS," THE CRY.

"As the summer advances and the time for the harvest is drawing near, the everlasting cry from the Portage Plains to the foothills of the Rockies is: 'Give us cars.' The farms from the far north, south to the line and covering all the vast area of the western plains are yellow with a crop that will exceed all that have gone before, and the thousands of cars waiting for the grain, although they would stretch in an unbroken line for mile after mile, will not be sufficient for all. It is a serious problem. Cars cannot be made fast enough.

"The traveller who lives in the West, and who makes it his business to travel about from place year after year, lives in a sort of magic land. Hamlets become villages and villages become towns and towns become cities almost while you want.

"About a year ago I made a tour of inspection, and one one remote branch line in the heart of a fine country I was somewhat surprised to note the advanced development. It is hard to gauge the drift of civilization, and harder to foretell the most thickly settled districts. As I say, I was somewhat surprised at the development already showing along this particular branch line, and with some idea of making a report I counted the few houses and shacks. Here and there on both sides of the road pioneers had raised habitations on government grants and were beginning to build up homesteads. This year I went over that same line again. The shacks had all disappeared, first-class houses had been put in their places and not less than 30 new houses on new farms had been set up."

PARENTS' AWFUL CRUELTY.

St. Thomas, Ont., Aug. 6.—Newton R. Stonehouse is locked up in the Elgin jail, and his wife, Mrs. Cora Stonehouse, is under arrest in the detention ward of the Amassa Wood Hospital, charged with the most disgusting and heartless attempt at child murder happening in the history of this city. The couple, who were married two months ago, live with the husband's father, Edward C. Stonehouse, 26 Barnes Street.

The facts of the case are that about 7.45 a. m. E. C. Stonehouse called at the residence of Crown Attorney McCrimmon and reported that there was a dead babe in the outhouse in rear of his premises. He said that his son had discovered it and notified him. Crown Attorney McCrimmon telephoned the police station and coroner. It was not long before Police Officer Moylan, Chief Armstrong Coroner Gkstin and County Crown Attorney McCrimmon were on the scene. It was found that a plank on the platform of the outhouse had been torn up and the new born babe placed underneath. Coroner Moylan was the first to arrive, and, finding that the child was alive, pulled it out.

Dr. Stenton was sent for and attended the babe, a healthy girl of a few hours old, and placed her in charge of Miss Nolan a trained nurse. Dr. Curtis was called in connection with Dr. Stenton, and it was found that Mrs. Newton Stonehouse had recently become a mother, and she was placed under arrest by Chief Armstrong and removed to the detention ward in the Amassa Wood Hospital, her husband being arrested and taken to the police station and remanded to jail by Police Magistrate Glen till the 9th. If the babe should die the charges will be amended to that of murder. To Chief Armstrong Mrs. Newton Stonehouse said that she heard cries about 4 a. m., and her husband stated that he went out at 6 a. m. and tore up a board from the platform with a chisel and saw the child and it was crying.

Asked why she did not remove the child she gave no answer.

"DREAM" OF STOLEN MONEY HAS TRUTH.

Fall River, Aug. 6.—What the police first believed to be a dream on the part of Mrs. Bridget Cleary turned out to be not only a reality, but a good deal more of reality than she claimed. She reported that she had been robbed of $500 in gold coin, which she had kept in a bureau drawer. It develops that she was actually robbed of something like $1100 in cash, and the police have succeeded in recovering the larger part of it.

The thieves were Annie Dunn, Lena Driscoll and Rose Prevost, the three Fall River girls whose escapades in New York have already been recorded in despatches to The Herald.

Inspectors Medley and Barker learned that Annie Dunn, who lives in the same tenement block as Mrs. Cleary, had disappeared. Next they learned that Annie was in New York, and yesterday, when she came home in disgrace, the inspectors got on her trail She at first disclaimed any knowledge of the whole affair, but eventually her father handed over to the police a roll of bills amounting to $760. Then Annie turned over $115 in gold. She confessed that her companions has a part of the money.

It appears that when the girls were arrested in New York, and the two younger girls taken to the Gerry Society rooms, they saw that they were about to be searched. The Dunn girl had two rolls, and was unable to get rid of one containing $80. This was found by the searchers and was shipped to City Marshall Hilliard.

Under a pretence of fastening a shoe lace Lena Driscoll stepped over and got the money out from under a radiator. Thus they were able to keep it.
