MURDEROUS ZULUS.

Ambushed Party of British Officials and Killed Magistrate and a Colonial Policeman.

Premier of Natal Says Rebels Must be Exterminated

Pietermaritzburg, Natal, May 4.— (Special)—An outrage which may have serious consequences, has occurred in Zululand.

Mr. Stainbank, the British magistrate at Mahlabitini, Zululand, has been killed by Zulus, while collecting taxes.

Mr. Stainbank and party, including Mrs. Stainbank, the magistrate's wife, a lady companion, and some of the mounted police, were caught in ambush by hostile natives, who fired a volley at them.

The magistrate and one of the policemen were fatally wounded.

Stainbank and the ladies managed to reach Mahlabitini, where the magistrate died of his wounds.

Mahlabitini lies to the westward of the forest, where Bambaata, the insurgent Zulu chief, formerly regent of Greytown district, Natal, who has been in arms against the local authorities for a month, has been hiding.

It is asserted here, and there seems no doubt he has succeeded in inducing another tribe of Zulus to join in another revolt.

The disturbances in Natal have been causing considerable uneasiness in Great Britain. The movement started by the Ethiopian church according to advices from Na-tals, appears to have spread through a large part of South Africa. In brief the natives are agitating in favor of "Africa for the Africans."

Premier Smythe of Natal, about two months ago, denounced Ethio-pianism as the primary cause of the present disaffection of the natives, and said it was calculated to destroy European rule. He appealed for public support to make a clean sweep of the disaffection, though bloodshed must follow.

SHAUGHNESSY'S PLAIN TALK.

President of the C. P. R. Upbraids British Ministers for Neglect of Canada.

Montreal, May 3.—The Star's London correspondent cables: On the principle that half a loaf is better than none, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and the Canadian Pacific Railway welcomed the announcement of the colonial secretary made at the Canadian Club last night that the Canadian Pacific Express subsidy from the British treasury will be continued for two years.

Lord Elgin gave the impression that the continuance of the subsidy was only secured by himself and Lord Strathcona from the chancellor of the exchequer with great difficulty. Lord Elgin did not say what was well known, that the admiralty and the post office were both opposed to the subsidy on their special grounds.

The persistence with which Lord Strathcona insisted on the imperial claims of the Canadian Pacific route especially its importance in view of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, at length overcame the departmental obstacles. Attached to its continuance are conditions for the readjustment and material quickening a through timetable to the far east and other points, affecting the whole question of imperial defenses to be thrashed out with the Canadian ministers at the colonial conference, which is now arranged to meet in April next.

SHAUGHNESSY STRIKES OUT

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in his speech created some stir by the outspoken way in which, in the presence of the colonial secretary, he commented on the neglect of British ministers and permanent officials to visit and become acquainted with the conditions of the empire they were charged to govern. Referring especially to the permanent head of the Canadian department of the colonial office, who was present. Sir Thomas expressed astonishment that he had never been in Canada and should be the incumbent. A man holding such a position should spend at least three months in Canada every year. (General cheers.) It was recently stated in the Canadian senate that no minister, while in office, had ever visited Canada. These were conditions requiring attention. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy proceeded as follows:

"A few years ago when trade questions were discussed between Canada and the United States we were treated with something in the nature of contempt. Are we going to permit the Rockefellers, Carnegies, Hills and other men to influence the United States policy on Canadian trade relations, that may lead to most serious results in the future? Are we so supine as to let them determine Canada's future career? I do not know by what means we can prevent them from carrying their objects into practice, but whether by free trade or fair trade, or a combination of free trade and fair trade, we must attempt to do it."

Lord Strathcona in his speech was equally frank. As regards the new Canadian Atlantic service he said he was not satisfied, it would not be satisfactory until the passage from land to land was made by Canadian steamships inside of four days.

BRITAIN'S ULTIMATUM.

John Bull Demands of Sultan Evacuation of Egyptian Territory or Naval Guns Will Know Reason Why.

London, May 4.—(Special)—The British Ambassador at Constantinople, Sir Nicholas R. O'Connor, yesterday, presented a note to Turkey demanding prompt withdrawal of Turkish troops from Egyptian territory.

The note is practically an ultimatum, and constitutes Great Britain's last word on the encroachment of Turkey on the Sinai Peninsula.

The French and Russian Ambassadors at Constantinople, support the British contentions.
Should the ultimatum fail to have desired effect, the British Mediterranean fleet will take measures so often employed by powers in recent years as a result of disputes with the Sultan, to make a naval demonstration and which it is anticipated, will quickly bring about the evacuation of Tabah territory.

Lady Smugglers Caught Red Handed at Brockville.

Brockville, Ont., May 4.—(Special) —Mrs. Kate Northway of Windsor, customs inspector, on arrival of the steamer Riderside, from Ogdensburg, N. Y., yesterday afternoon, invited 63 ladies to their private apartments all of whom were thoroughly searched and many articles confiscated.
One lady had a number of small dishes in stockings and clothing.

OUR NEW CORPS.

Advance Party From No. 8 Co. R. C.
R. Arrived Today.

Sergt. Major W. J. Duncan and an advance party from No. 8 Company of the R. C. R., composed of Corp.
Levis and Privates Templey, Kroff and Nannington arrived in the city from St. John's P. Q., by the L. C.
R. express, at noon today. They marched straight to the barracks from the railway station and naturally attracted a great deal of attention while on their way up Queen street. They will take over the military stores and get things in readiness for the remainder of the company, which is to arrive here on Wednesday next.

No. 8 Company, which was only recently organized, is commanded by Lieut. Col. Chinn, with Major Fiset as adjutant. At the present time its total strength is about seventy of all ranks. Many of the rank and file have seen service in the late war, and wear South African medals. They have the reputation at St. John's of being a pretty good lot of fighters.

Major Duncan, who is no stranger to Fredericton, is accompanied by his wife and children. They are stopping at a hotel for the present, but will in a few days take possession of the sergeant major's cottage on Queen street.

The 71st Regiment band will turn out to meet the company on their arrival and play them to the barracks.

THE TOURNAMENT.

Capt. Winslow's Team Finishes 38
Behind the Leaders.

Capt. Babbitt's team is still safe in first place in the Queen Hotel bowling tournament. Capt. Winslow's team, which at one time had a good chance to win, played their last game last night, finishing 38 pins behind the leaders. Capt. Winslow's team seems quite secure in second place and it looks as if the struggle for third place would be between Capt. Staples and Capt.
McLellan, who roll their final game this evening.

The scores in last night's games were as follows:

BY HIS OWN HAND.

Coroner's Jury Says That Howard Galey Committed Suicide.—The Inquest.

An enquiry into the death of the late Howard Galey was held by Coroner Mullin at Marysville last evening. After hearing the evidence of four witnesses, the jury returned a verdict to the effect that in their opinion it was a case of suicide.

Mr. George Galey, father of the deceased, was the first witness examined. He said that he was at the house of a neighbor at 5.40 o'clock on Monday evening, when his daughter called and told him that something dreadful had happened to Howard. Witness returned home at once and proceeding to Howard's room, found him lying upon the floor at the foot of the bed. He did not speak to witness and was evidently dead. He was lying upon his back upon the floor and his left hand rested upon a revolver. A note was found in the room, addressed to witness and was put in evidence. The witness said there had never been any ill feeling between the deceased and other members of the family.

Miss Mary Alma Galey, sister of the deceased, swore that she was sitting in the dining room talking to Bessie Barker at the time the shot was fired. She at once ran out and asked her father to come home, which he did. Witness accompanied her father to Howard's room and opened the door for him. She saw Howard lying on the floor with his eyes closed and blood streaming from a wound in his neck. Deceased never told witness that he was engaged to Miss Cameron and she had no intimacy that he contemplated suicide.

Miss Bessie Barker corroborated the testimony of the last witness in every detail. She also told of a conversation she had with Galey about an hour before his death. She found him standing before a mirror in his room, and he looked as if he had been crying. She told him to go downstairs and get his supper and he told her that he did not want any.

Dr. Fisher, who was the last witness, said he was called to Mr.
Galey's house shortly before six o'clock on Monday. He went to the house and after a superficial examination of the wound he gave orders that a coroner be sent for. Dr. Mullin arrived later in the evening and acting upon his advice witness conducted a post mortem examination of the deceased.
He found that the bullet had entered just behind the left ear and had followed an upward and forward course, penetrating the brain. Death had been caused by shock and hemorrhage, produced by the bullet.
There was no evidence of temporary insanity.

The jury after deliberating a short time returned the following verdict:
"We, the jury, do upon our oath, say: that after viewing the body and hearing the evidence in the case, say that the late Howard Galey came to his death from a bullet fired from a revolver held in his own hand, and that no blame is attached to anyone."

THE RIVER TODAY.

There is no marked change today in the condition of the river, but the water seems to be on the rise. A good many logs are running into the Sugar Island boom, and some are going down to the Mitchell boom. A despatch from Grand Falls states that the river there is about at a standstill, and a few logs are running.

TERRIBLY BURNED IN DANCING DRESS.

Miss Whitney is Victim of an Exploding Alcohol Lamp.

Boston, May 4.—By the explosion of an alcohol lamp over which she was crimping her hair, Miss Isabel M. Whitney, of Watertown, was terribly burned about the body and legs last evening at her home.
The accident occurred while Miss Whitney was dressing to go to Waltham, where she was to appear in a fancy dance at a May party.
When the little lamp exploded the young woman's clothing became ignited, and in a moment she was enveloped in flames. Her screams attracted the attention of her parents and the servants, all of whom rushed to her assistance, but before the fire had been extinguished with rugs her body had been badly burned, and she is in a critical condition.

CANADIAN AUTHORS TALK.

Prof. Horning on Canadian Literary Products.

Dr. Horning's talk on Canadian literature at Toronto Tuesday night, before the Modern Language Club, was one likely to suggest a course of winter reading to many of those present, says The Toronto Globe. He went on the assumption, he said, that they did not know too much about the matter, and only hoped to blaze a way for those who might take an interest. His own division of the English Canadian writers was into three periods. The French Canadian poets alone up till 1880 numbered 175. Mr. James' Bibliography in 1899 had 300 entries of English speaking poets. The fiction writers made a catalogue of a similar number of books.

His first division he called the Provincial period, previous to 1850.
Judge Haliburton was the author who, perhaps, advertised Canada most widely. To him Mark Twain traced the present school of American humor. Dr. Horning thought Haliburton himself owed a great deal to Theodore Hook. Major John Richardson, born in 1796, the same year as Haliburton, was the author of a poem, "Tecumseh," and two novels, "Wacousta" and "The Canadian Brothers," dealing with the days of Pontiac. "Wacousta" is fully the equal of Fenimore Cooper's books, stronger if anything, and worth republishing.

The second period, from 1850 to 1880, was that of political union between Upper and Lower Canada. Dr.
Dewart's anthology was a good guide for the poetry of the time. The Literary Garland, 1838-1851, was worthy of note in this connection.
Among the prose writers were Mrs.
Moodie, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Sadler and May Agnes Fleming; William Kirby, with "Le Chien D'Or," John Lesperance with his story of the Boston Invasion, and James De Mill, who had been copied by General Lew Wallace, were notable. In poetry Charles Sangster, Charles Healy, Mac-Lachlan and Mafr were chief. Sangster's poem, "The Rapids," was one of the very best nature poems in Canadian literature.

The third was the Dominion period, Lighthall's anthology and Ranc's "Treasury of Canadian Verse," were commended for study. In the 120 singers of the latter volume five were particularly striking—William W. Campbell, Bliss Carman, C. G. D.
Roberts, Archibald Lampman and Dr.
Drummond. Carman was do melodious, so coyly sweet, the lecturer placed him near Swinburne, but he had refused to attack the serious problems of life, Campbell could write as melodiously, but did not do so. Carman and Roberts had not Campbell's deep and serious interest in life. Campbell's dramas contained lyrics of a Shakespearean quality, and Dr. Horning quoted one by the Fool in "Madrid" equal, he thought, to Browning's "Summum Bonum." Carman's Coronation ode showed him at his best. Campbell had several new dramas nearly completed.

Among the fiction writers he commended Dr. Alger, author of "Houses of Glass," "Eric Bohn," the pen-name of a Toronto physician, author of three good novels, and Miss Lily Douglas, now in Exmouth, England, whose "Earthly Purgatory" was one of the best detective stories in existence. He thought the "Right of Way" the best of Parker's stories, and believed Roberts to be the pioneer animal story writer, as he had read his tales in manuscript years ago. Of Arthur Stringer's "The Silver Poppy" he said that he did not know whether he had read a book so clever. Norman Duncan, Rev. J. S.
Gale, Alice Jones and Basil King were other authors mentioned with approval.

The vanguard of the I. C. R. soldiers, arrived today from St. John's Quebec, and they are cordially welcomed. Sergt. Major Duncan, who is in charge of the party, is a former well known, popular citizen of Fred-erickton, and all his friends will be glad to have him here again.
