MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

pense entailed should be paid out of that fund.

Coun. Fox's amendment was not seconded and the motion that Miss Jackson's salary be $100 was carried.

The secretary treasurer in reply to Coun. McFarlane said that it was the duty of the auditor to audit the accounts and make up the returns. His salary was $150.

On motion of Coun. Brooks, the salary of the auditor was made the same as last year.

On motion of Coun. Grosvenor the warden was voted the usual allowance of $20.

On motion of Coun. Grosvenor the usual allowance was voted to the warden of last year.

On motion of Coun. Cropley, seconded by Coun. Grosvenor, the sum of $4 per day was voted to each of the two reporters present.

Coun. Grosvenor moved that the constable receive $1.50 per day.

Coun. Cropley wanted to know if the constable was also janitor of the building, and if he was appointed yearly or for life.

Mr. Bliss replied that the janitor was usually the constable.

Coun. Grosvenor's motion was put and carried.

THE HOSPITAL GRANT.

Coun. Scott moved that the Victoria Hospital receive the sum of $500 the same as last year.

Coun. Masten moved in amendment seconded by Coun. Fox, that the grant be $300.

Coun. Grosvenor wanted to know of the law provided that the secretary treasurer must be the council's representative on the Board of Trustees.

Mr. Bliss replied that the secretary treasurer was a member of the board ex-officio under the law.

Coun. Masten complained that the hospital trustees furnished no statement to the council as to how the money was expended.

Coun. Murray said that the trustees issued a report annually which contained full information.

Get SCOTT'S Emulsion

When you go to a drug store and ask for Scott's Emulsion you know what you want; the man knows you ought to have it. Don't be surprised, though, if you are offered something else. Wines, cordials, extracts, etc., of cod liver oil are plentiful but don't imagine you are getting cod liver oil when you take them. Every year for thirty years we've been increasing the sales of Scott's Emulsion. Why? Because it has always been better than any substitute for it.

Coun. McFarlane did not think the hospital trustees should be appointed for life. He believed the council should have power to select their own representative instead of having the matter fixed by law. He believed that a three year term was long enough. He was in favor of a grant of $500, but thought the trustees should obtain legislation to empower the council to appoint their own trustee.

Secretary Treasurer Bliss thought it would be unfair to the hospital trustees to reduce the grant or attach any conditions to it, without giving the trustees a chance to be heard. Mr. Bliss pointed out that the hospital was doing splendid work and would be handicapped if the county's grant was reduced. All would remember the strong case made out by the trustees when they appeared before the council last year. The reason the secretary treasurer was appointed on the board instead of the warden, was that the latter did not reside in the city and it would not be convenient for him to attend the monthly meetings. He thought it would be a good plan for the council to vote $500 and request him (Bliss) to ask the trustees to have the law amended in accordance with the wishes of the council.

In reply to Coun. Fred Pond Mr. Bliss said that the hospital trustees had no money invested on mortgages except certain legacies. He could say that the income from all sources was scarcely sufficient to pay running expenses. Mr. Bliss spoke in glowing terms of the good work being done at the hospital.

Coun. Masten wanted to know what was done with the $500 voted to the hospital by the council.

Coun. Goodspeed said he had been informed by the secretary of the Hospital Board that there were sixty-seven patients from the county treated at the institution last year. He did not know how many of these were free patients.

Coun. Grosvenor said that the hospital discussion came up each year like Bancho's ghost and would not down. He thought the whole trouble was due to the fact that the council was not directly represented on the board of trustees.

Coun. Brooks was sorry that there was no information as to the number of free patients from the county of York treated at the hospital last year.

Coun. Robison thought the secretary treasurer might arrange to have a statement of the hospital accounts placed before the council at the next meeting.

Mr. Bliss promised to attend to the matter.

Coun. Fox's amendment that the hospital grant be $300 was lost by a vote of 14 to 10.

The motion to make it $500 was carried by the same vote reversed.

ASSESSMENT FOR 1906.

Coun. Robison submitted the following report from the assessment committee which was adopted:

Your committee on assessment recommended that the following amounts be assessed on the said county for the year 1906:

Paying off debentures	$ 600
Interest	360
Constables	275
Miscellaneous	2700
Coroners	400
County buildings	2000
Lunatics	350
Revisors	600
Salaries	1000
Postage and Printing	600
Sheriff	300
Witnesses	900
Board of Health	900
Total	$10285

Thos. Robison H. H. Versey

R. Thompson John Scott

F. R. Brooks Fred Pond

J. H. Carr Charles McFarlane

Henry Morgan Stanley Douglas

B. W. Fox William Fraser

E. W. Reynolds

Coun. McFarlane did not think the council should be assessed for a sum larger than was needed to carry on the business of the county. The amount which the city of Fredericton pays for administration of justice should certainly be directed. The council did not think the government had any rights to demand a financial statement from the county each year.

Coun. Scott thought no harm would result to the county from having a little money ahead. It was more business-like to have money in the bank drawing 4 1/2 per cent than to be compelled to borrow money at 6 per cent interest.

The secretary treasurer explained that the balance now on hand would be used in paying school debts that would soon come due, and also a special loan for small-pox bills. There were times during the year when the balance at the bank was very small.

Coun. McFarlane could not see the necessity of collecting more money than was needed.

Coun. Scott and Goodspeed pointed out that there would be very little money coming in between now and July, and having a surplus on hand would save the county from over-drawing at the bank.

Coun. Robison said that in making up the assessment an allowance of $1500 had been made for the city's share of the administration of justice account.

The motion to adopt the committee's report was passed without division.

A SCOTT ACT INSPECTOR.

Coun. C. W. Pond moved seconded by Coun. Grosvenor that a Scott Act inspector be appointed for the county.

Coun. Scott was opposed to the motion in a strong temperance speech. He said there was a Scott act inspector in Northumberland and had not worked very satisfactorily. He declared that whiskey was sold in Fredericton anyway, and it could be bought by people from the county.

Coun. C. W. Pond supported the motion in a strong temperance speech. He said there was a Scott act inspector in Northumberland and had not worked very satisfactorily. He declared that whiskey was sold in Fredericton anyway, and it could be bought by people from the county.

Coun. Carr said he was strongly in favor of a Scott Act Inspector. In the village of Canterbury where he resided, there were four rum shops, and the people were afraid to move against them for fear of being burned out. His firm had had a mill burned on them because of activity in favor of enforcing the Scott act. He had been told that the reason the last inspector had not done his duty was because he was mortgaged to a rum seller.

Coun. Grosvenor told of a similar motion that had been made at the council on two previous occasions, since he had the honor of a seat at the board. He had not voted for an inspector last time because he was in the warden's chair, but on this occasion he was differently situated. He was heartily in favor of an inspector and believed that one could do good work in putting down the sale of liquor. In Canterbury there was a good field for temperance work, and a Scott act inspector was needed. He was prepared to place himself on record as in favor of the appointment of an inspector.

Coun. Fox and Brooks expressed themselves as being in favor of the appointment of an inspector.

Coun. Douglas said that those acquainted with the late inspector knew that he would not allow a mortgage to prevent him from doing his duty.

Coun. McKeen said that Frederickton was under the Scott act while St. John and a license law. The fact is that in Frederickton there is five times as much drunkenness as in St. John. Maine was under prohibition, but liquor was sold in every city and town in the state. In his parish of Bright no liquor was sold except what the doctor might prescribe for medicine. He did not believe in the Scott act business, but wanted a license law.

Coun. McFarlane spoke at some length in favor of a Scott Act inspector. He believed that the sale of liquor was increasing in the county of York, and the time had arrived when something should be done to suppress it. He believed that the sale of liquor in the county meant increased expense for the administration of justice.

Coun. Cropley said that personally he was opposed to the appointment of a Scott Act inspector, but was willing to vote for one if the people wanted it. He had told his constituents if they wanted an inspector to send in a petition to that effect and he would support it. They had not sent in the petition, therefore he was not going to vote for the resolution.

Coun. F. Pond was for the appointment of an inspector. They had an inspector in Carleton county, who was doing good work. While in Woodstock a few days ago, people had informed him that it was almost impossible to get a drink there.

Coun. Simmons—They must have been strangers.

Coun. Pond said it was a fact that the sale of liquor was greatly restricted in Woodstock.

Coun. McKeen—I was in Woodstock a few days ago and got all the liquor I wanted.

Coun. Pond replied that he and Coun. McKeen kept different companies. He (Pond) took pride in being a temperance man.

Coun. McKeen said he had always taken a drink of liquor and had got along as well as most men. He was now past three score and ten, and could still hold his own.

Coun. Goodspeed made a strong speech in favor of the motion, and contended that there was plenty of work for an inspector to do. They did not expect him to stop the sale of liquor absolutely, but a competent official could accomplish a great deal towards that end.

Coun. Thompson said that it was easy to appoint an inspector but not so easy to get rid of one if he failed to do his duty.

Coun. Goodspeed said that an inspector could be dismissed by a two-thirds vote. It was not right to expect individuals in a community to enforce the law.

Coun. Brewer expressed himself as being in favor of an inspector.

Coun. Murray said he could remember years ago, when liquor was sold in six or eight places in Kingsclear. Today he did not know of one place where it could be procured. He was of opinion that a Scott Act inspector would mean considerable expense to the county.

Coun. Fox told of the efforts he and others had put forth to enforce the Scott Act in Kingsclear. The division to which he belonged had closed up a rum shop which had been opened right in front of Coun. Murray's door. He contended that the Scott Act had done good work in Kingsclear.

Coun. Carr hoped that the representatives of parishes where no liquor was sold, would help the parishes where it was sold.

Coun. Morgan said that he was in favor of the resolution.

The vote was then taken and resulted in the resolution being carried by a large majority.

Coun. Carr wanted the names recorded, but it was not done.

REV. J. J. COLTER APPOINTED.

On motion of C. W. Pond, seconded by Coun. Goodspeed, Rev. J. J. Colter was appointed Scott Act inspector at a salary of $500, he to pay his own expenses.

There was no division taken on the motion.

Coun. Pond stated that Rev. Mr. Colter had signed an agreement to resign at the end of the year on a majority vote.

A LAYMAN WANTED.

Coun. Goodspeed moved, seconded by Coun. Fred Pond, that in case a vacancy occurred on the Board of Health during the year, that the warden and secretary-treasurer request the government to appoint a layman.

The secretary-treasurer, in reply to Coun. Robison, said that under the amended law it was not necessary to have a medical man on the Board of Health.

Coun. Goodspeed's motion was unanimously adopted.

Coun. Fred Pond moved that R. W. Foster of St. Mary's, be a member of the Board of Health in place of George J. Colter.

Coun. Brewer thought it would be time enough to appoint a successor to Mr. Colter when the latter tendered his resignation.

After some further discussion, Coun. Fred Pond withdrew his resolution.

Coun. C. W. Pond thanked the new members for the courtesy extended to himself and colleagues.

Secretary-treasurer Bliss said that appointed to confer with him in regard to stationery for his office.

Recorder Colter briefly addressed the council in regard to supplies for his office and stated that he was anxious to work in unison with them. He stated that it would be necessary to provide index books for the office.

Coun. McFarlane thought that new index books seemed to be quite often needed at the record office these days. As the council had nothing to do with the record office but pay the bills, they had better let the recorder and government look after the stationery.

A motion to appoint a committee was voted down.

A POOR FARM.

Coun. John McKeen made a strong speech in favor of the establishment of a county poor farm. This is Coun. McKeen's annual offering and he invariably makes out a good case. He thinks a poor farm ought to be established in the interests of humanity and economy. He said that in counties where poor farms had been established the people would not think of going back to the old system. Coun. McKeen moved that a committee be appointed to investigate and report at the July session.

Coun. Pond said that he understood that a poor farm at St. Martin was almost self sustaining, and he saw no reason why one could not be made a success in the county of York. He thought it a good plan to appoint a committee of two to visit poor farms in other parts of the province and report at the July session. He made a motion to that effect.

Coun. McFarlane thought that some better way of caring for the poor should be devised.

A motion by Coun. Pond that a committee of two be appointed to visit other poor farms was adopted.

The warden appointed Couns. Scott, McFarlane and Grosvenor a committee to consider the advisability of abolishing the July session.

Couns. Scott and McFarlane were appointed a committee on the poor farm matter.
