

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Some Recipes and Other Useful Information for the Busy Housekeeper.

STRAWBERRY JELLY.

After dipping out the juice as directed in the recipe for strawberry jam return it to the fire and boil steadily for twenty minutes, adding a teaspoonful of lemon juice for each pint of strawberry juice. To each pint of juice allow a pound of sugar and set this in pans in the open oven to warm while the juice boils. Stir the sugar occasionally so that it will not stick to the bottom of the pans. After the juice has boiled for twenty minutes turn the heated sugar into it, stir until this is dissolved, boil for just one minute, then fill heated jelly glasses with it.

CHOCOLATE PIE.

One half teacup grated chocolate, butter size of an egg, one teaspoonful vanilla, one cup of sugar, two heaped teaspoons cornstarch, two egg yolks. Cream together and stir one coffee cup boiling water, stir constantly until it thickens. When cool, pour into a nicely browned pie shell and pile over it the stiffly beaten whites, into which two tablespoonful of sugar and ten drops of vanilla have been stirred. Brown in the oven.

CORN BREAD.

One quart sour milk or cream, four tablespoonfuls flour, two tablespoonfuls salt, three tablespoonfuls lard or frying, heated, one teaspoonful baking powder, two teaspoonfuls soda dissolved in hot water, enough white meal to make a rather stiff batter. Bake in rather hot oven for forty or fifty minutes.

CHEESE AND EGGS.

This is a chafing dish recipe. Beat four eggs slightly or until a spoonful can be taken up, do not beat light as for cake. Add one half level teaspoon of salt, a few grains of pepper, two level tablespoons of grated cheese. Set the dish over boiling water or use a double boiler and cook until creamy, then turn at once over slices of hot toast.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Thick lips can be overcome to a certain extent by acquiring the habit of holding the lips close to the teeth and keeping the muscles about the mouth firm and tight. The woman who stands about with her mouth open permits the muscles to become large and relaxed, and the result is anything but conducive to fair looks.

If the scalp is inclined either to dandruff or to oil, a little lemon juice rubbed into it before washing the hair is described as beneficial.

DRANK LIQUOR FROM BROTHER'S FLASK.

Death of Nine-year-old Boy at Orillia, Ont.—The Coroner's Inquest.

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Orillia, July 16.—At the Coroner's inquest, held in the Council Chamber here this afternoon to inquire into the death of Daniel Fountain, the nine-year-old son of the late Joseph Fountain, conclusive evidence was adduced to show that the boy came to his death by drinking liquor, but a finding by the jury was not arrived at, adjournment being made until next Monday in the hope that further testimony will be forthcoming to show who is responsible for the death. When it was learned on Saturday that the boy had died that morning after an illness of thirty-six hours, during which he never fully recovered consciousness, Coroner John McLean, M. D., issued his warrant for an inquest.

BROTHER'S DREADFUL ADMISSION.

Joseph Fountain, the brother of the deceased said that the boy was taken ill about 5.30 on Thursday evening, and died at 8.30 on Saturday morning. Deceased had been with witness all day on Thursday. Witness had been drinking and during the afternoon bought two flasks of whiskey, one from the Simcoe House, but could not remember where he bought the other. He hid them under a bunch of shingles in Tail's yard. Danny was with him, and may have seen him hide the bottles. He gave the boy no drink, nor did he see him take any. The boy left him a little later and he did not see him again until he was carried into the house half an hour or so afterwards. It was possible for the boy to have gone back to the mill yard and got possession of the flask. He found the bottle empty afterwards.

DANNY AND THE FLASK.

James Purdy, a little six-year-old boy, testified that he saw Danny Fountain down by Tail's mill late on Thursday afternoon. He had a flask, and drank out of it, and then threw it away. He told witness it was liquor in the flask. Then he began to stagger and fell on the side-

Thirty grains of busulphate of quinine, one half ounce tincture of cantharides, seven ounces of listerine. This is particularly nice for blonde hair.

It is said that to dry the hair very rapidly after a shampoo nothing is better than to rub eau de cologne or pure spirits of wine into the scalp, and then brush or shake the locks about in the air.

FANCY TABLE COVERS AND TEA CLOTHS.

Small fancy table covers and tea cloths are always needed by housewives as there are so many small tables used in different rooms. Very effective ones are made of linen, combined with a simple design of lace.

Butterfly lace is now so popular for all descriptions of fancy work, is particularly desirable for this work.

Take a piece of linen and baste a four inch hem all round, draw threads out to the depth of one quarter of an inch and hemstitch both sides.

The butterflies are made separately, crocheted rings and the simplest stitches being used. After these are finished one is basted in each corner a little above the hem, they are then whipped down carefully all along the outer edge of the braid; the goods is then cut from under the butterfly, leaving enough to turn under and whip down to the inside edge of the outer row of braid; this makes it firm. Two small rings form the eyes at the top of the head, and the "whiskers" are outlined in coarse cotton floss.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

A rather wide frill of silk lace finishes the top of the short silk glove of white or pale color.

Cotton beige suiting looks very like wool, and is used for jaunty little runabout coat suits for summer.

Mohairs are occupying a prominent position among the fabrics that are in favor with foreign dressmakers.

The rage for color effects is a universal one, and jackets, hats, belts, shoes and parasols are their main outlets.

Shoulders of the smartest toilets are square rather than drooping, although there is none of the high military look.

The short-waisted effects that characterize present styles contrast strongly with the exaggerated dips of several seasons ago.

Many dressy frocks show entire sleeves, one over the top of the face sleeve like a cap.

Foulard silks are innately softer and prettier this year than they have ever been and many women are using them for dressy little lace-trimmed powns.

ALCOHOLIC POISONING.

C. S. Wainwright, M. D., testified that he was called to attend the boy about 6.30 on Thursday evening. He found him unconscious and smelt whiskey on his breath, and treated him for an overdose of whiskey; used the stomach pump but did not get much liquor. The boy had not got much deal before his arrival. He remained some hours and visited the patient again late in the evening, and was called during the night and found him still unconscious the next day. That night the boy was worse, having had several convulsions. He died next morning. In concluding his testimony Dr. Wainwright said: "It is my opinion that Daniel Fountain died from alcoholic poisoning."

The deceased is the youngest of a family of ten children, four of whom are twins, Danny being one of the last pair. The father, Joseph Fountain, died a few years ago, and his widow has made her living by washing and in other precarious ways, the children being more or less neglected. The inquest will be resumed next Monday afternoon.

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR SHIRT WAIST MODELS.

There are always a certain few designs which win for themselves widespread favor because of their practical attractiveness. Here is sketched one of the most popular models and one universally liked by those who have used it. The narrow tucks on the shoulders or gathers if preferred—are just right for a modish fullness and excellent set, while the yoke, which points down a bit in the centre of the back, extends over the shoulders far enough to suggest shoulder straps, and hence breadth of line. The sleeve is the real short sleeve with the narrow cuff fastened with linings. This is the sleeve par excellence among the new shirt blouse models. Any reasonable material may serve for the waist which is well adapted to tubing. In the medium size 34 yards of 36 inch material are needed.

to the new pastor, Rev. James Crisp was held in Zion Methodist Church school room Tuesday night, and a large number of the congregation assembled to welcome him. The church was occupied by Rev. Thomas Marshall, pastor of Carmarthen Street Church, who is chairman of the district, and who introduced Mr. Crisp. Addresses were also delivered by Rev. Dr. Robt. Wilson, Rev. Samuel Howard, the new pastor of Exmouth Street Church, and Rev. Neil J. McLaughlin, newly appointed pastor of Portland Church.

In welcoming the new pastor of Zion, Rev. Dr. Wilson referred to the large attendance as indicative of the support that would be given him. He also spoke of his long acquaintance with Mr. Crisp, and of the good qualities he had always found in him. Mr. Crisp had followed him many years ago on the circuits of Sheffield, Salisbury and Gibson, and had done excellent work. Dr. Wilson was glad to see present so many good Methodists and the number of loyal friends of Zion Church; and he adapted to the greeting by saying that if he was not happy it was no fault of theirs. He thanked Dr. Wilson for the good words he had said for him. The doctor was one of the first he had met when he arrived in this country in 1872. He well remembered the first meal he had had at the home of the venerable clergyman on the St. John river, and the hospitality shown him. He hoped to work together with the people and looked forward to a pleasant pastorate. He asked that they might be patient with him; he was a man who needed patience, it would take him a little while to know them all, and he would avail himself of every opportunity to become acquainted.

Rev. Mr. Howard then spoke briefly after which refreshments were served, and Mr. Crisp was personally welcomed by those present. Towards the close a short address was delivered by Rev. Neil J. McLaughlin.

SELL YOUR COLD FOR $1.

You surely won't stop at a dollar bill to cure that horrid, sniffeling cold? Go to any druggist and get "Catarrhazine," and your cold will be a thing of the past. There is almost nothing in the swift way Catarrhazine kills colds. But when you consider the penetrating, healing and antiseptic qualities of Catarrhazine, perhaps it's not so wonderful. Certainly there is no remedy half so prompt for colds and catarrh as Catarrhazine. Refuse a substitute and insist on having "Catarrhazine."

A great criminal lawyer in New York, Mr. B.—has a rich and lovely client, who is famous for her extremely haughty manner. This noted beauty had run down a poor old woman in her auto and was arrested.

"O, Mr. B.—do you think you will be able to get me out of this?" she asked piteously.

"Yes, indeed," said he, with a twinkle in his eye, "I will prove conclusively to the jury that from the hour of your birth you've never been able to see any one worth less than $100,000."
