GOSSIP FOR FANS.

A farm hand of Pittsburgh, Knabe by name, has been playing second for Toledo, and has been doing good work.
Harry Pulliam is scouring New England for more umpires. He might improve on our friend Carpenter-The Brooklyn Standard Union.
Bucknerberger was asked to set price on pitcher Henley, by "Jake" Stahl of the Washington Club, and the answer was that the player was not for sale.
Manager McDermott of the Fall River Club, is busy turning down offers for Swanson, the Pontiac, R. I. boy who is pitching for his club. New York would like to try Swanson.
Detroit has secured the release of Downs and Forester, second baseman and pitcher of the Topeka Club of the western association, the club owned by Dick Cooley. Forester won 17 out of 27 games this season and Downs has batted for .311.
Outfielder Clarence Foster, last seen with Bridgeport, this week left for the New Yorks, for whom he was "covered" by Connie Mack, has jumped to go to the Lancaster club of the Tri-State league. It looks as if the big "uns" were doing the tampering with the Tri-State league players and the minor league clubs were the ones upon whom the Tri-Staters were getting even.
Roscoe Miller has been sold to Cleveland for $2,500 by the Des Moines club. Lajoie's agents beat out Connie Mack for the old twirler's services. He will join the Cleveland club Aug. 15, and will most likely be used against Detroit when Naps come here again in September. Miller has been the sensation of the western league this season. His career is an interesting one. He left Detroit and went to New York and Pittsburgh. From there he dropped out of sight. Everybody agreed he was all in and he was forgotten. It is unusual for a pitcher to hit the boggle and then climb, and as big league material again, no one ever gave him the slightest thought.

will sidestep and get the Dane in the wind, which will make him back up considerably.

While Joe can land on almost any part of the body with will, his aim to the body is accurate, and I look for one of these blows to finish Nelson. Gans will finish the Dane in much less time than Nelson disposed of me, I am sure.

Of the two I must say that Gans has it on Nelson in every particular and the only thing that can defeat Joe is that he will not be strong at 133 pounds.

Where it is a limited fight I would not hesitate in the least, but 133 pounds for Joe in a finish fight makes a big difference. However, I am still strong in my belief that Gans will knock out Nelson, and my money will go that way when the two meet at Goldfield, Nev., on September 3, of this year.

NELSON'S VIEW OF MILL.

Nelson, when asked to give his views, said:
"I am always a short ender in the betting, but it makes me feel good to know that my friends will get a good price for their money when they cash in. Why shouldn't we get 2 to 1 for our coin? Didn't Gans really win from Malcolm in 20 rounds, although the referee called it a draw? Won't he beat every middleweight that could meet him and knocked out heavyweights like Joe Choyinski in his prime. Only a month ago Gans offered to fight Jack O'Brien in Philadelphia winner to take all.
"We ought to have 2 to 1 and I won't bet unless I get it. I would scale more than 130 when we start our battle, while Gans will be at 133.

Of course I know that all the bi-sporting men pick Gans for a cinch, but somehow or other I have upset their calculations before and I think that I can do the trick again. Gans may be able to beat me in a limited round contest, but this is to be a finish, and nothing but the count of ten can name the winner. One thing is sure. I will give every man a run for his own coin and Gans will make a backward step or two. If he will agree to set the pace I will not last long.

A NOTORIOUS WOMAN FAKIR.

Remarkable Career of Mme. Diss Debar, Recently Liberated From Prison.

London, August 27.—Anna Delia Diss Debar, who has just been liberated from Aylesbury prison on a ticket-of-leave, after serving a term of penal servitude for connection with an alleged immoral cult, known as "The Theocratic Unity," of which her reputed husband, Theodore Jackson, was the head, has been known under many names in Great Britain and the United States, but her greatest notoriety was achieved as the perpetrator of a so-called spiritualistic deception by which Luther R. Marsh, of New York, was in his old age stripped of his fortune. Though claiming to be the daughter of King Louis the I. of Bavaria, and Lola Montez, she was the daughter of a Professor John C. F. Saleman, of Washington and Kentucky. After varying fortunes, she married a Dr. Nessant, in 1871. Later she married General Jos. H. Diss Debar, and by him had two children. She travelled about the country, representing herself as the personification of occult powers, and the revealer of hidden truths, and in this way, while living in New York, she met Luther R. Marsh, an aged lawyer, and so intimated him that he gave her large sums of money and decided to her house in Madison avenue. About this time General Diss Debar left the adventure and she went to live at the Marsh home, and also hired apartments, where she officiated as a priestess. Suit was brought to show her up as an impostor and she was charged with conspiring to defraud Marsh being indicted on this charge. The Gerry Society took her conviction, and she was sentenced to a term of imprisonment. On her release from prison she went to Europe, returning to America and going to New York. Under the name of Vera P. Ava, she fell into the hands of the Chicago police, who sent her to the Joliet for two years.

Continues her frauds.

Released from that institution, she married Wm. McGown in 1895, at Chicago. Mr. McGown was a man of wealth. In 1899 she was run out of New Orleans with Theodore Jackson, whose wife she then said she was. They were playing the spirit materialization game there, and it was said they were running a "fruitarian" colony in Florida. A year later they turned up in Cape Town, South Africa, where Mme. Diss Debar called herself Helena and Jackson called himself Heros. Occultism and hypnotic performances were given there, and a wealthy contractor gave him money to Mme. Diss Debar to establish a colony of "otherworldly love" in the interior of South Africa. Mme. Diss Debar was running at that time was called by them the "College of Occult Sciences."

Later the pair turned up in London, where they promoted the "Theocratic Unity" organization," scandals in connection with which led to their arrest in September, 1901. The trial developed facts of such a loathsome character that several of the London papers excluded from their columns all reports of the proceedings in court.

Mme. Diss Debar asserted that she had an income of $14,000 yearly from the estate of her former husband, General Diss Debar. While admitting that she had served six months in gaol in New York for depriving Luther Marsh she denied that she had ever been known as Vera P. Ava. At the conclusion of her evidence she addressed the jury, in a powerful peroration, declaring that she did not desire any halting, ambiguous verdict, but an unequivocal expression of justice. She and Jackson promptly were found guilty, he being sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude, and his reputed wife to seven years.

CANNON CARVED IN ROCKS.

When the island of Malta was in possession of the Templars those knights defended their forts by the use of cannon cut into the solid rock. Each was capable of containing an entire barrel of gunpowder and could throw ten thousand pounds of projectiles. As these natural cannon could not be aimed fifty were cut out of the rock guarding the various channels of approach and the vessels of that time were unable to approach within their own range before being annihilated by these huge weapons of defence. Although the fame of these cannon was spread far and wide they were not duplicated elsewhere, and they remain the only rock cannon of which there is any record.

MAY DISPLACE FILTERS.

A New Plan to Purify Water by Ozone.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Just as the city of Bangor has made its final payment on an expensive filtration plant at the water works, the announcement is made that filters may soon be displaced by a new system—purification of water by ozone. A despatch from Washington says:—

The failure of Washington's new filtration plant to check the summer epidemic of typhoid fever has drawn attention to the ozone purification of city water supplies. The Vossmer ozone system, which is in successful operation in Holland has just undergone prolonged tests at Philadelphia where the United Water Improvement Company has constructed a test plant and offered to rent a large plant to the city at a rental of $8.50 per million gallons of water purified. It is coming to be accepted as a fact that sand filtration does not remove all disease germs from polluted water, and that sand filtration, therefore, while it reduces disease, is not a complete remedy. For the ozone system it is asserted that it destroys practically all pathogenic bacteria.

To make the test as convincing as possible, the Philadelphia company has undertaken to purify the water of the Schuylkill at the point where it is taken from the river below the dam—slaughter houses and manure yards—and is little better than diluted sewage. It contains as high as 2,500,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, which is twenty drops; after a rough straining to remove the coarser particles of suspended matter, the water contains from 253,000 to 700,000 bacteria; after ozonization it contains from 5 to 55, the average being 25. The 25 bacteria which are left are of the harmless varieties, mainly the hay bacillus, which has no effect whatever on the human organism. The bacillus coli always found in sewage, always the companion of the typhoid fever germ, a sure indication of organic pollution in water and very abundant in raw Schuylkill water, is found to have been entirely destroyed by ozonization. The offensive odor of the water is also destroyed, and is discoloration removed. In brief, the tests have demonstrated that the foulest water can be rendered absolutely free from disease breeding germs, made bright and sparkling and free from color and odor and rendered as palatable as the finest spring water.

The reason of this is extremely simple. Chemical analysis of the bodies of bacteria show that they are made up of 84 per cent of water, and about 16 per cent of solids. Of these solids more than half is made up of carbon. The strong affinity of oxygen for carbon is well known. Ozone, being a concentrated form of oxygen, has even greater affinity for carbon, and the moment a bacillus comes in contact with a bubble of ozonized air the carbon of its body is consumed as completely as if it had touched a flame. Indeed the process is analogous to that of combustion. Just as though burnt up, nothing remains of the bodies of the bacteria but carbonic acid gas, which partially rises to the surface of the water and passes off into the air, and is partially taken up by the water. This gives it its brightness and pleasant taste.
