LONDON'S PARKS.

£228,000 Expended Annually in Looking After the Big City's Parks and Gardens—Showy Effects.

The lungs of London are controlled in part by the County Council and in part by the Office of Works. In the last official year Spring Gardens was responsible for 103 open spaces, having a total extent of nearly 5,000 acres, and a permanent outdoor staff of 900 men. Upon this department the annual expenditure has reached about £128,000, and since the County Council was formed, fifteen years ago, it has spent rather more than a million sterling upon this public service. In addition to this there is the city's contribution of £100,000 a year towards the maintenance of Epping Forest, Burnham Beeches, and elsewhere. It will thus be seen that the maintenance of London's open spaces means an aggregate expense every year of at least a quarter of a million, while employment is given to nearly three thousand men.

Some of the showiest effects are produced at a trifling cost. Thus the London County Council spends £500 on bulbs, and for this sum obtains no fewer than 320,000 spring flowers. The bulbs are delivered by the contractors at the end of September, and the task of planting them is at once proceeded with. They represent 155 varieties, of which one-half comprise hyacinths, tulips, and crocuses. The most popular sorts in the three classes respectively are King of the Blues, Keizer's Kroon, and the Large Yellow crocus. The total number of bulbs of all kinds planted in Battersea Park alone exceeds 40,000. At the end of the summer the annuals are removed from the ground, cuttings are taken from them where they admit of this treatment, and the surplus plants are distributed to schools and poor citizens for window and backyard cultivation. For both the municipal and the royal parks there are large propagating grounds, where the seedlings and cuttings are carefully tended during the winter months, in readiness for bedding out in the spring.

The days when the geranium and the cactaeola represented the extent of the imagination of the public gardeners are over, and an enormous variety of plants is now raised with the result that London's gardens may compare with any in Europe. For many a year the wonderful show seen along Park Lane and round the Serpentine has been raised to a large extent under the shadow of Kensington Palace. In the greenhouses for which the chief was planned out by Sir Christopher Wren, but Lord Windsor is now spending £12,000 upon new frame grounds near the Magazine, where the coaching clubs meet in the season.

An interesting feature of the Kensington frame-ground is the hospital. In the early winter this is crowded with bananas, plantains, palm-trees, fan palms, and other sub-tropical plants, which, in the early summer, are brought out into the open and give distinction to certain corners of Hyde Park, or to the forecourt of the National Gallery.

Another important department consists of the conveniences for boating. Since the beginning of the century the London County Council have taken over this section from the contractors, and have made an additional profit of £500 a year, although they have reduced the hourly charge to the nimble sixpence, and have put a couple of motor boats into commission, with a charge of a penny for each voyage. That much work has to be undertaken in repairs and re-painting the row-boats will be understood when it is added that in the early summer more than £200 is spent upon this service during the winter.

The care of the waterfowl also occupies the attention of special keepers told off for that duty. The breeding grounds have to be made ready, the due proportion of wildgeon and cormorants, swans, who create grobe, is maintained by a system of exchange and purchase, and the ducklings receive special attention during frosty weeks, the result being that the lake life of the parks is brought up to a pitch of perfection.

Many scores of attendants devote themselves to the task of preparing the cricket pitches, which naturally require a good deal of attention after the hard work of the football season. This is another story; suffice it to say that Spring Gardens provides more than 300 pitches, and that the London County Council upwards of £10,000 every season. The first duty of the musical director as the spring comes round is to listen to the bands, who create grobe, to emulate the work of the Council's own bands. The selected ones must submit their repertoires, to his experienced judgment, and the program for each of the 1,200 performers has to pass the scrutiny of the authorities before it is printed.

GREAT BRITAIN SPEAKS TO CANADA.

Winston Churchill Says Liberals Are Friendly.

Toronto Globe.—An emphatic assurance to Canadians that the new Liberal government of Great Britain entertains the friendliest of feelings for the colonies was read by Mr. Hamar Greenwood, M. P., at a banquet last evening, in the form of a letter from Mr. Winston Churchill, Under-Secretary for the Colonies. Mr. Greenwood, who was the guest of the directors of the exhibition at a complimentary banquet on the exhibition grounds, supplemented the letter with a speech, which by reason of its magnetism, its wit, and its sturdy Imperial sentiment gives some explanation of his rapid success in the British political field. When Mr. Greenwood concluded he was warmly complimented and acclaimed as a sturdy Canadian whose success was deserved and gave promise of a fulfillment of ambition to which he candidly owned.

MR. CHURCHILL'S ASSURANCE.

The letter from Mr. Winston Churchill read by Mr. Greenwood was dated Aug. 20 and written from Downing street, which the speaker remarked parenthetically, used to have an ominous sound. The letter was as follows:

"My Dear Greenwood,—I am very glad, indeed, that you are going to spend the autumn recess in Canada. In your double position as a Canadian blood and bone, and as the representative of a famous English city, you may find some opportunities of helping forward the measured, but irresistible march of Imperial consolidation. Your own gifts and your work at the Colonial Office will enable you to turn these opportunities to good account."

"For the last twenty years the Conservative party in England has been inseparably associated with the symbols and apparatus of Imperial administration. The British government has for so long implied the Conservative party that the terms had become almost synonymous. Canadian and Australian statesmen have been accustomed to deal only with one set of British politicians, and alike by their wise detachment from our party controversies and by their loyalty to the mother country, they have come insensibly to regard a particular political party as having an especial claim upon their confidence. In great measure, and certainly until the last few years, that confidence has been worthily rapid, and the long period of Conservative predominance has synchronized with and generously aided the growth of the Imperial idea."

LIBERALS AND THE COLONIAS.

"At the last general election a great change was wrought in the balance of British political parties and in the disposition of political power. The consequence of this change are likely to govern our affairs for a long time to come. I do now examine the advantages of that change, nor do I wish to minimize its importance. It involves a considerable alteration in political principles and in the points of view and modes of thought of public men, and in the character of domestic legislation. What you must try to do, as far as may lie in your power, is to convince your friends and kinsfolk in Canada that this change in England great and far-reaching though it has been, does not imply any weakening in the affection of the British people towards their kith and kin across the sea, or in the earnest and vigilant efforts of the Colonial Office to render the colonies every legitimate service, military, diplomatic or commercial, that may be in our power. There are new men, there are other principles there will be different methods; but in the guiding aspirations in the central impulse, in the ultimate aim, namely, a solid defensive league of free democratic communities, animated by a love of peace and justice under the leadership of the British Crown—in that there is no change, no sign of change, no expectation of change of any kind or sort whatever."

NO REASON FOR MISTRUST.

"And what, I should like to know, has the British Empire to fear from Liberal principles? It is one of the oddest things in modern history that there should be any question on this point. It is to Liberal social principles, carried in some ways to far more logical extremes than in this old country, that Canada and Australia and New Zealand ascribe no little share in their progress and prosperity. It is upon Liberal principles of tolerance and trust in racial matters, of freedom and equality in religious matters, that they build their own internal peace. It is by Liberal principles of colonial autonomy, of a lofty humanity, and, above all, of a peaceful foreign policy, that the structural cohesion of the British Empire has alone been achieved and will alone be maintained."

"I do not write this to you because I should like to see the self-governing colonies pin their faith particularly to the Liberal party. The British Empire must centre upon the British Crown. But in so far as you can make your friends in Canada realize that in a Liberal Ministry in England they will find true comradeship and faithful, unrelaxing service whenever they have need of it, you will be doing good work in a good cause."

HIS THRILLING ESCAPE.

Lucky Shot in Dark Saved Man From Bear.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 8.—A lucky shot in the dark saved Thomas Allen of Revelstoke from becoming food for a bear. Allen was staying with his brother at the latter's ranch at Eel Pass. About 3 a. m. he was awakened by the house door being opened.

Getting out of bed to see who the intruder was, he was astonished to see an enormous brown bear standing about six feet away. Reaching for his rifle, which was hanging over his bed, Allen fired at the brute, the bullet penetrating the breast and breaking its back. There were no more cartridges in the house, and the wounded bear lay in the doorway, tearing everything to pieces within reach of its paws.

At daybreak Allen crawled through the window of his bedroom and ran to William McKay's house, about a mile away, got another rifle, and killed the bear. I was fortunate the first shot in the dark was so effective. Had it not broke the bear's back and prevented its walking Allen would have been at the brute's mercy. Robert Ewel of Hardy Mountain, near Grand Forks, recently had almost as hair-raising an experience as Allen. He trapped six bears in two weeks. The last, a big black fellow, measuring more than seven feet from tip to tip, had only one foot caught in a steel trap and started a boxing match as soon as Ewel got near.

The trapper had only a pole pick with him, but decided that was weapon enough with which to secure a knockout. Every time he struck at the bear's head, the bear came back with a vicious strike with the unnumbered paw. After half an hour's sparring Ewel managed to land a blow on the head with the pick, which put the bear to his final sleep. Prospects all over the province report that bears are pretty numerous this season. The crop of bear stories has been unusually large this year as a consequence.

A New Zealander named MacAdams recently brought from Lillooet the fur of a large grizzly which he got after an exciting hunt. It now adorns the wall of the smoking room of the Elks' Club.

"The blood is the life." Science has never gone beyond that simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgment are effected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. No one can be well balanced in mind and body whose blood is impure. No one can have a wholesome and pure life unless the blood is pure. Pure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the blood is pure, body and brain are alike healthy and life becomes a daily happiness.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone and a conspicuous example of the sick and afflicted, Dr. Pierce's English full list of the ingredients, prints on the bottle wrapper in plain therefore not a "patent medicine," but a medicine of known composition.

A DRAMATIC INCIDENT.

Brother Implores Brother Not to Kill Himself.

New York, Sept. 8.—A dramatic scene occurred on the French Line pier today as the steamer La Provence left for Havre. Among the passengers was Luigi Contaninri, 34 years old, who was bound for his home in Locco, province of Lombardy, Italy, to keep a suicide pact to die on his sweetheart's grave.

Antonio Contaninri, his brother, created too some on the pier and afterwards told his brother's story. He said that Luigi became betrothed to Josephine Ballatini, a girl in his native town. His parents opposed the match, preferring a wealthier suitor, and Luigi with his sweetheart's promise to keep faith, came to America to seek his fortune. He established himself at Beaver, Oklahoma, where he secured a farm and tiller it successfully. Then he wrote for Josephine to come, but she replied sadly that she could not that her parents forbade that she intended to commit suicide, and that she expected Luigi to join her in death. News quickly came that the girl had carried out her purpose, and Luigi sold his property and started for Italy to kill himself on the girl's grave. His brother Antonio, living in Paterson, N. J., and Luigi went to him, told him the story and had him farewell. Entreaties failed to swerve the man, and on the pier today Antonio made his final appeal. He clung to his brother passionately, kissed him and implored him not to go. Luigi shook his head. Antonio then half dragged his brother to an open space on the pier, fell on his knees, raised a crucifix aloft and, with tears in his eyes, renewed his pleadings—Luigi could not be swayed, and finally, turning his back on Antonio, went on board La Provence.

When the ship sailed Luigi stood at the rail and sadly watched Antonio, who had again fallen to his knees and with outstretched arms was beckoning to his brother.

IN 'FRISCO AT TIME OF EARTHQUAKE.

Paulist Priest Says that the Stories Sent Out Were Much Exaggerated.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Five months ago the world was horror-struck at the plague of earthquake and fire which had befallen the city of the Golden Gate, San Francisco. Father Henry Stark, one of the famous Paulist Fathers stationed in that city, is passing through this city. In a short interview with a Herald representative he gave some of his experiences of those terrible days. He is associated with the mission church, St. Mary's, commonly known as the down town church. It is situated right in the centre of the business quarter which by the combined efforts of fire and earthquake was completely swept away.

As to the future structure of the buildings nothing fresh had been learned except that those with a steel framework covered with brick or tiles were the best to resist shocks. The stories published throughout the world as to the scenes in the streets were very much exaggerated. There was little or no looting, in fact people were too concerned in saving their own bodies to think of anything else. The three men shot lost their lives owing to the soldiers obeying their orders to the letter. On the whole the people showed great courage and soon set to work to restore the city. The earthquake took place on a Wednesday and on the following Monday the Paulist Father began to rebuild their church. In a month over 100 building permits had been granted.

The policy pursued at first was to build shacks of which up to now over 3,000 have been erected. This was done to get the trade back as soon as possible, while the building of the permanent structures was being carefully planned. There are now under full way and the streets of the business quarter, which were very narrow, are to be 200 feet wide. Most of the inhabitants have come back though probably the population is still short by 50,000. Trade has returned for the last month are better than those for the same month in the preceding year.

Father Stark knew Chinatown well, in fact he went to haunts unknown even to the police. He had a mission school with over 200 children and as the sister of the shipper to the church ministered to the needs of the sick and dying, he was a persona grata to the Chinese. Chinatown has always been represented to the world as a modern Sodom and Gomorrah, but Father Stark says all these accounts are exaggerated. Of course there were opium and a few gambling dens, but most of them had been stamped out. The wonderful tales of subterranean rooms and passages existed only in some reporter's imagination.

WESTERN EXHIBITS AT THE GREAT DOMINION FAIR.

The exhibit from the Province of Alberta, that is on its way to the Dominion Exhibition at Halifax, extends 30 feet by 30 feet, and will thus require a space of 900 square feet. The Saskatchewan exhibit will occupy 500 square feet. To accommodate these, so great is the crush in all departmental edifices, the commission will erect a special structure. These exhibits from the Canadian Provinces, will prove of exceeding interest. Spendid exhibits are also coming from the West Indies.
