24 FOXES IN 18 DAYS

Derby, Vt., March 15.—Through-out the whole Green Mountain state there is no better place to find the best species of fox than on the Canadian border and there, sportsmen say, that animal is found in great numbers. As a result hunters, and especially those in northern Vermont, are daily found in the mountainous woods with their guns over their shoulders and fox hounds by their side, or a short distance in advance, following the scent of one of those shy animals.

From December until the end of February is considered the best time to shoot fox, although for a month later their fur is in a good condition and finds a ready market. Today the average price secured for a skin is in the vicinity of $4 for a full grown fox. A silver grey fox's skin will bring considerably more, as will a glossy coat. Because of the market value for the raw skins and because, too, one fox would be good for a day's pay, hunters take advantage of the sport, combined with business, and some of them, especially those familiar with the best haunts of that cunning animal, give up almost every other business and go to the woods in quest of the game.

While his father and many of his relatives have become noted fox hunters in northern Vermont for years, J. A. Hunt, the general store and newsdealer of Derby Line, has taken up the sport only this year and he has in a few hours of recreation shot 24 excellent specimens in 18 days and has found a good market for the furs, which he will ship the first of next week. In his collection the result of an hour or two in the woods two or three times a week, he has some of the best skins found anywhere in the state this season, and among them is a handsome silver grey, which is worth more than fully a half-dozen of the others.

Of all the veteran hunters who have been out this winter, none have been more successful than the Derby Line man, considering the time devoted to sport. Mr. Hunt was induced to go out for the fun there was in it, by his father, Mitchell Hunt, the 76-year-old hunter of North Troy, who has shot more foxes during the past few years than any other two men in the state. The younger Hunt has a full-blooded prize-winning fox hound, "Max," which is recognized by sportsmen generally in northern Vermont as the best dog on the trail in the state. Time and again Mr. Hunt has taken him into the thickly wooded forests in Derby and into Rock Island and Standstead, Quebec for deer hunting and smaller game, but until this year he never chased foxes.

Mr. Hunt's ability to bring one, and sometimes two, home with him every time is a general topic of conversation among the sportsmen in this town, and at the post office, general store, or wherever they congregate at night, his name is brought in. They look upon him as one of the greatest marksmen in the state, and because of his enviable record as a trap shooter they are willing to wager almost any sum of money that he can make a better record than any other marksman in Vermont. Mr. Hunt is most unassuming, and declares that there are scores of better marksmen in the state than he.

IS ONE OF THE BEST PAYING SPORTS IN NORTHERN VERMONT.

"Yes, I will admit that I have been very successful in fox hunting this season, and, while I knew that there were many exceedingly good ones in this section, I never hunted them until this winter, when my father paid me a visit and induced me to take a trip into the woods for foxes. We went to Owl's Head mountain, on the shores of Lake Memphremagog, and brought back two. The sport became so fascinating that I have spent a few hours each day for 18 days in the woods, and I never came back without at least one. The foxes found in the vicinity of the lake are regarded as some of the best specimens in New England, if not in the United States. The fur is exceedingly good, and all the hunters in this part of the state, find a ready market for the skins. The dealers give anywhere from $4 up, and, as they can be shot any time during the year, the sport is the best paying amusement for a man in this part of the country that I know. Go into the woods any day and you will find anywhere from six to a dozen men with guns and dogs looking for foxes."

BIG ELECTRIC SYSTEM.

Montreal, March 16.—Senator Domville, President of the Canadian Central Electrical Railway Company for which he recently went to London to secure financial backing said here today that if London financiers are approached with a sound, feasible Canadian proposition, there will be no difficulty experienced in financing it to good advantage.

As to the railway, he said: "You remember that Alfred Moseley spent some months in Canada. He came here ostensibly to find out how Canada stood with regard to Mr. Chamberlain's scheme. He addressed a number of boards of trade on the tariff issue, but the real purpose he had in view was to satisfy himself as to the feasibility and probable success of this electric railway project. He was all through the country which the line is likely to traverse. It will be 670 miles in length, running first from Montreal to Ottawa, thence westward, practically cutting in two between the Canada Atlantic system and the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific lines, that run up the St. Lawrence Valley and along the north shore of Lake Ontario to Toronto. Our railway goes westward on practically a straight line to Orillia. From near there a branch will run down to Toronto, but the main line will continue westward and southward, intersecting on its way lines that are running northward, passing through London and St. Thomas, and finding water terminals at Port Stanley.

THOUGHT HE WAS ON MAIN TRUCK.

Clinging to the top of a flagpole on a tall building, 225 feet above the street, John Kline, an ex-seaman in the navy, who was dishonorably discharged from the naval prison at the Boston navy yard 12 days ago, created a sensation in Euclid Ave., Cleveland, O., Thursday, and with much difficulty was gotten down, says a despatch to the Boston Herald.

The man went up the flagpole unobserved. Clinging to the top he gazed suggestively down as though contemplating a plunge to the street. The startled people in the street gazed on with horror, expecting every moment to see the man dashed to pieces on the sidewalk. Meanwhile a policeman made his way to the roof and after much persuasion induced Kline to descend.

He was dressed in sailor's clothes and it was conjectured that he was a deserter. He gave his name as Grover Cleveland.

The police took him to a naval recruiting station, where it developed that he had served on the Iowa, the Prairie and other warships. The man's mind was evidently disordered and he could give no collected account of himself. It was gathered, however, from what he told of himself, that his name was J. Kline, and that he had recently been let out of some institution in Boston.

Inquiry by a reporter at the Charlestown Navy Yard developed the fact that he enlisted at Knoxville in 1904. He deserted from the Prairie last summer but was recaptured and sentenced to one year in the naval prison at Charlestown. By good behaviour he shortened his term by several months and was released last Friday and dishonorably discharged.

LITTLE WOMAN IN DISTRESS.

Brooklyn Eagle.—A little old woman carrying a large bundle, was a passenger on a Flatbush Avenue car recently. As the car approached the Vernon Avenue depot, which is the transfer point for Avenue B., the little woman rose with evident intention of making the change. She had reached the door with her bundle clasped tightly in both arms and was taking the step from the interior of the car to the platform, when the sudden stopping of the car caused her to lose her balance. She sat down unceremoniously, but violently, upon the floor, and, with the sudden application of the brakes rolled over backward until her head was on the floor and her feet in the air. The precious bundle shot from her arms as if propelled from a cannon, and rolled down the aisle between the rows of astonished passengers till it stopped with a bump against the front door.

Astonishment was pictured in the little woman's face, as she was assisted to her feet by the conductor, and while a passenger was recovering her bundle. But the look of astonishment vanished as realization of what had happened came to her. Then the storm broke.

"You rascal," she cried glaring at the conductor, "you pushed me over. I say you did. You needn't deny it. I saw you do it. Didn't he push me over?" And she turned to the passengers for corroboration. Needless to say every blessed one of them was so convulsed with laughter that there was no reply forthcoming. Fortunately, her wrath had now reached the point where she was literally speechless with rage. Then one of the passengers, a little old man, with a diplomacy that was the relief of the situation, came to the rescue. "There is the Avenue C car coming, madam," he said, as he politely took off his hat. "Let me help you with your bundle." And he took her by the arm, assisted her from the car, boarded the Flatbush car again and the incident was closed.

London, March 16.—The original draft in Lord Nelson's handwriting of the historical "general memorandum" to his captains at the battle of Trafalgar was sold at auction at Christie's this afternoon for $18,000. The purchaser was a book seller, who was reported to be acting on behalf of an American collector, but the book seller denied so doing and said he thought the document ought to remain in England, adding that he was ready to hand it over to the British museum for $18,000. Otherwise he intended to sell it to the highest bidder.

Th? competition was very brisk.

The first offer was $1250, after which the bidding rose $500 or $1000 on each bid.

TERRIBLE PAINS ACROSS BACK

SUFFERED EIGHT MONTHS WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE. WOULD HAVE TO STAY IN BED FOR THREE DAYS AT A TIME

Doan's Kidney Pills CURED HIM

Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald, Hazeldean, Ont., writes us as follows: "I was a great sufferer from kidney trouble for eight months. I had terrible pains across the small of my back. I would have to stay in bed for three days at a time and could not do any work. I tried several remedies but of no avail, and also plasters but they were of no use."

One day a neighbor of mine advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I was so much discouraged I told him I was tired of trying remedies, but he urged me to try one box so I purchased one, and before I was through using it, I found a change for the better so I got five boxes more, and I have had no trouble with my kidneys since. I would not be without Doan's Pills in my house."

It is really not difficult to cure kidney trouble in its first stages. All you have to do is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. They are a never-failing cure for all forms of kidney trouble. They quickly relieve the congested, overworked kidneys, and gradually bring them back to health.

Doan's Kidney Pills 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

MANAGER of the Union Mutual

of Portland, Me.

Established 1848

It is a strictly Annual Dividend Company, the surplus or profits being apportioned every year upon all plans of Insurance and a statement of same given to each individual policy holder at the expiration of the first and each subsequent year. The result is that every holder of one of these contracts knows exactly what profits have accumulated every year on his own particular policy. He can make use of such profits any time he so wishes, and in event of his death, such additions are paid, besides the full amount for which the policy is written.

If "A Bird in the Hand is Worth Two in the Bush," how much is a policy worth which guarantees annual dividends as above, compared with a policy under which no profits are apportioned until the end of twenty (20) years?

"Union Mutual" policy contracts are the most liberal issued. The guaranteed reserve value is equal to that of any Company in the world. If you require Insurance of any kind consult a "Union Mutual" agent, or write direct to
