SEVEN LABORERS MET DEATH.

A Dynamite Charge was Prematurely Ignited, with Fatal Results—Four Men Injured.

KENORA, ONT., Nov. 21.—The explosion yesterday on construction work on the G.T.P. occurred at Webster's Camp, No. 6, some twenty-five miles north of Dryden.

It is regarded as one of the most appalling accidents happening in that locality for some years.

Three holes had been sprung the day before, and were regarded as perfectly cool.

Just a few minutes before the accident a satisfactory inspection had been made of the works by Division Engineer Richau.

At the time of the disaster the foreman and powder-man were lowering a hole with black powder, and the foreman had just turned to secure more powder when almost instantly the explosion followed, killing the powder-man and six others, who were at work in a rock cut near and who were crushed beyond recognition by the falling rocks and debris.

The foreman, who so narrowly escaped, is, like the victim, an Austrian, and is regarded as having considerable experience in the work.

Besides the division engineer several of the officials of the works had been visitors at the scene of the disaster just a few minutes before.

Immediately after word reached here of the disaster Drs. W. J. and J. R. Gunne and Dr. Chapman, coroner, left for the scene. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

SURROUNDED BY WOLVES.

G. Moren, a Fur-Trader, had an Eventful Trip Down.

EDMONTON, Nov. 23.—G. Moren, an independent trader from Lesser Slave Lake, has arrived in the city with a pack of furs. His trip down was an eventful one.

"I came down all alone," he said, "and made the whole journey in a wagon over the new government road. I followed the north side of the river all the way, and the second day noticed signs of wolves. On making camp that night I heard them, and immediately built a great fire to keep them away. It was only a short while till I heard their growls, and, from the restlessness of my horse, knew they were near at hand. The horse I had tied with a strong piece of rope, but it was not strong enough to hold the animal, for he snapped it as if it were a shoestring, and immediately I saw if I did not secure him I would be minus a horse, so I put a chain around his neck and chained him.

"Sitting within the firelight and gazing around in the bushes I counted nine different pairs of eyes that glowed like jewels, so there must have been nearly a dozen wolves. The scarcity of small game this summer has made them ravenous, and they are very brave."

Glasses should be washed and rinsed in cold water and wiped at once with a dry cloth, then rub dry and polish with another. Cut glass should be rubbed with a damp sponge dipped in whiting, brush this off with a clean brush and wash the vessel in cold water. Earthenware and china washed in soapsuds and rinsed in cold water are freed from grease and stains with little or no trouble. Soda is good for greasy dishes.

For housewear this winter colored stockings will be more in vogue than ever indeed the all-black stocking except to complete a black toilet is quite of favor.

These colored stockings may be worn with slippers to match or are much used with black patent leather pumps.

THE ORIGIN OF GALL STONES

They are simply dried bile, made up of crystalline constituents of the fluid. Very common is this disease among merchants, clerical men, shop girls and those of sedentary habits. Prevention consists in maintaining correct action of the liver and bowels. That is best accomplished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No person using this medicine need fear gall stones, nor will they ever be bilious. Sound digestion, a good appetite, clear color will evidence the health giving properties of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are the best and safest for general family use. Insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c. per box at all dealers.

PATHETIC END OF A WASTED LIFE

Told in Story of Former Canadian Girl's Double Tragedy in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The World gives the following account of the killing of Robert Hitchcock, a printer, by his wife, a former Halifax girl, during a fit of jealous madness, and who then shot herself.

In the fantasies of the opium smoker's dream something of the good that once guided Charlotte Hitchcock obtruded on a thing wholly bad as she planned to kill her husband in their flat in the Audrey, No. 769, East One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street.

The pungent odor of poppy filled the rooms. It was given off from the bowl of a curiously wrought pipe resting in its lacquered tray on the bed where Robert Hitchcock, unconscious of impending death was sleeping. Subsequent investigation revealed as clearly what was taking place at the time as if an eye-witness was present.

The woman moved noisily through the rooms to guard against awakening the sleeper. She was without pity for him. She believed that he loved another.

READS HER PRAYER BOOK FIRST.

She took from a bookcase filled with well-selected volumes an old English prayer book. She thumbed the pages until her eye fell on the following collect:

O Lord we beseech thee, absolve Thy people from their offences, through Thy hountiful goodness, we may all be delivered from the bands of those sins which we have committed. Grant this, O Heavenly Father, for the sake of Jesus Christ, our Saviour.

It was a prayer that she had learned as a child in the home of her father, an English army officer stationed at Halifax. Her dulled faculties told her that it was good to breathe such a prayer before she accomplished her plan. For eight days she said later, as she lay at the point of death in Lebanon hospital, she had used opium to dull her mental anguish. She said that a traitor to her husband had tried to win her love. When she spurned the man he declared that her husband was untrue to her, seeking to arouse her jealousy.

After leaving the prayer book open at the passage she took a heavy pistol, purchased the day before, she said later, with which to kill the man who had tempted her.

Hitchcock was in a slumber too deep to be natural when his wife entered the room. She drew back the coverlet to make sure of her aim. A bullet through the heart brought painless death. A second bullet she fired also into the heart of her husband. Mrs. Hitchcock returned to the parlor, as was shown by powder stains on a newspaper clipping which she had fingered. It contained a verse of a poem written about a suicide, and entitled "Bessie McCall." It read:

Oh, the price we pay for the single mistake;

Oh, the souls that men slay and the hearts that they break.

Oh, surely, somewhere, God, who will care for the soul of Bessie McCall.

She had scratched out "Bessie McCall," and inserted "Lottie and Bob"—her husband.

SHOOT'S HERSELF.

She went again to the bedroom, turned the pistol on herself, and fired four shots. One bullet entered just above her heart.

The pistol shots and the whining of a pet fex terrier attracted Mrs. Noil, the janitress. She ran to the door and entered. There was an uncanny look in Mrs. Hitchcock's eyes, Mrs. Noil says, as she whimpered:

"My dilly is dead"—employing the pet name for her husband. "He is lying dead in there."

Mrs. Noil telephoned to the police of the Morrisania station. When Policeman John P. Shea arrived Mrs. Hitchcock had not lost consciousness, although it seems she had taken a large dose of morphine before killing her husband and wounding herself.

"I had the pistol to shoot H—," she told Shea. "I took too much morphine to kill myself, and had the dose taken effect I would not have slain my husband."

She motioned to Mrs. Noil, and whispered:

"I believe I am going to die. My loved one is dead. I care for no one else." Mrs. Noil found a slip of paper bearing the following in Hitchcock's hand.

"I love no one as I do you. Can I see you? Your sweetheart, Bob."

Hitchcock was a newspaper compositor, and made good wages. He was about thirty-four, and was married three years ago.

Mrs. Hitchcock cooped, when a girl, with a man named Livingston, by whom she had two children, a son, Bert, now living in Baltimore, and Florence, who lives in Philadelphia. Mrs. Hitchcock was thirty-nine. Formerly she was on the stage. It was said late last night at Lebanon hospital that she had but a slight chance of recovery.

Gentle Laxative Needed
For the Aged and Feeble

With the advance of years the vital functions of the body slow down.

The organs of secretion grow weak, the peristaltic action of the bowels is perceptibly lessened, and dangerous constipation develops.

What is the result?

Poisonous substances over-run the system, the circulation is engorged with wastes, the brain is filled with blood, the hands and feet grow numb with cold, the whole body twitches and trembles.

A drastic cathartic is dangerous.

Nothing will cure but a gentle laxative like Dr. Hamilton's Pills; their action not only extends to the stomach, liver and kidneys, but is directed to the secretory glands, and increases their fluidity and volume.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are different from other pills. Their activity in moving the secretory apparatus is profound, but their action is so mild so free from gripe that it seems scarcely possible you have taken medicine at all. Yet they do the work efficiently, and this is why they are so widely prescribed for old folks who need a laxative and system tonic.

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Headache. Constipation. Biliousness. Sallowess. Vertigo. Dyspepsia. Dizziness. Colicky Bowels. Slow Liver. Bad breath. Bad Dreams. Poor Appetite. A Guarantee in Each Case.

For your own sake, keep Dr. Hamilton's Pills within reach. Take them whenever you feel unwell, they clean out the entire system, keep it pure and in working order. Purely vegetable in composition, safe for young or old, no system tonic compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers.

STOMACH MEDICINE IS USELESS.

Impossible to cure catarrh in the nose by dosing the stomach. Send the healing vapor of Catarrhazone after the germs and you at once accomplish good. Any case of catarrh is curable—all that's necessary is to inhale Catarrhazone—you stop hawking, noisils are cleared, throat is healed, no freed of phlegm, every vestige of the trouble is forever driven from the system. If you want permanent cure for catarrh, throat trouble or bronchitis, Catarrhazone is a stand-by. Two sizes, 25 cents and $1.00 at all dealers.

A PRETTY LITTLE DRESS FOR A SMALL GIRL.

A charming little dress in the popular French style is here sketched. The long-waisted, tucked blouse is gathered easily at the waist-line, a belt joining it to the short, full skirt. The dress, which is cut square at the neck, is equally suitable for wear with or without a guimpe; while the full-length bishop sleeves render it especially appropriate for cool weather wearing. Silk, nun's veiling or any soft wool goods may be chosen for making, lace or embroidery being used for garniture; or, if preferred, a sheer fabric may be substituted, such as dotted Swiss, batiste or mull. For the 5-year size, 2½ yards of 27-inch material will be needed.

4268—Sizes, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 years. The price of this pattern is 10c.
