SENATOR VESTS TRIBUTE

His Simple Eloquence Moves Judge and Jury to Tears and wins him a Notable Victory for his Client.

(Nashville American.)

One of the most eloquent tributes ever paid to the dog, was delivered by Senator Vest of Missouri, some years ago. He was attending court in a country town, and while waiting for the trial of the case in which he was interested, he was urged by the attornevs in a dog case to help them He was paid a fee of $250, by the plaintiff. Voluminous evidence was introduced to show the defendant had shot the dog in malice, while other evidence went to show that the dog had attacked the defendant. Vest took no part in the trial and was not disposed to speak. The attorneys however, urged him to make a speech else their client would not think he had earned his fee. Being thus urged he arose, scanned the face of each juryman for a moment and said:

"Gentlemen of the jury: The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care, may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is the dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends take wings, and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in his embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the grave side will the noble dog be found, his head betwen his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true, even in death."

Then Vest sat down. He had spoken in a low voice without a gesture. He made no reference to the evidence or merits of the case.

When he finished, judge and jury were wiping their eyes. The jury filed out, but soon returned with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $500. He had sued for $200. It is said that some of the jurors wanted to hang the defendant.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION.

For years I was troubled with constipation, which made life miserble for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by all dealers.

WED WEALTHY AMERICAN.

Engagement is Announced of Geo. E. Keith and Miss Susan E. Archibald of North Sydney.

The engagement of Miss Susan E. Archibald, of North Sydney, to Mr. George E. Keith, one of the largest shoe manufacturers of Brockton, Mass., and a very wealthy man, has been announced.

Behind the announcement of the engagement lies a pretty romance says a Boston paper. Mr. Keith met his bride-to-be while journeying around the world, a trip which he had planned to take with Mrs. Keith just before her death. When Mrs. Keith was stricken, the plans for the world tour were continued, as the illness of Mrs. Keith was not considered fatal. After her death Mr. Keith started out alone.

In far away Egypt he met Miss Archibald. They were together on their travels for many days and their friendship soon became love. Mr. Keith is fifty-seven years old, and his bride-to-be twenty-eight. She is a member of one of the prominent Cape Breton families, is wealthy and a society leader. Mr. Keith intends bringing her to live in his handsome home at Brockton, where he lived with the first wife. He has two sons the older, Eldon, now travelling in Europe, and the younger, Harold, a student at Amherst, Mass, where he is a member of the football team.

ROSY CHEEKS FOR PALE GIRLS.

Don't be debarred from strength and spirit, don't give in to illness and despair. Ferrozone supplies tone and vigor through which all functions of womanly life are maintained and fortified. From New Richmond Que., comes the following statement from Mrs. Isidore Boissoneault: "I take deep pleasure in testifying to the powerful influence of Ferrozone. For years my daughter has been pale and sickly—showed signs of advanced anaemia. Her lips get so white and her cheeks so devoid of color I feared consumption. I can certify Ferrozone made an excellent cure, and to-day my daughter's health is the best." 50c. per box at all dealers.

AVERY'S PORTAGE.

METHODIST MINISTER RECOMMENDS CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for seven years, and it has always proved to be a reliable remedy. We have found that it would do more than the manufacturers claim for it. It is especially good for croup and whooping cough.

The Influence of Books.

Books have always a secret influence on the understanding. We cannot at pleasure obliterate ideas. He that reads books of science, though without any desire fixed of improvement, will grow more knowing. He that entertains himself with moral or religious treatises will imperceptibly advance in goodness. The ideas which are often offered to the mind will at last find a lucky moment when it is disposed to receive them.

Precious Spices.

There are portions of the globe today where spices are worth more than gold or silver. "In the arctic region spices are essential to health and happiness," wrote an explorer. "A dash of pepper, a pinch of ground cinnamon, a little nutmeg or a piece of ginger root revives the jaded appetite wonderfully in the north. I have seen shipwrecked sailors fight over an ounce of spices with more fierceness than they ever did for money."

This One Especially.

From a Paris paper we take the following conversation in a police court: The President—It appears from your record that you have been thirty-seven times previously convicted. The Prisoner (sententiously)—Man is not perfect.—London Globe.

A GOOD LINIMRNT.

When you need a good reliable liniment try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It has no superior for sprains and swellings. A piece of flannel slightly dampened with Pain Balm is superior to a plaster for lame back or pains in the side or chest. It also relieves heumatic pains and makes sleep and est possible. A WAIST OF NOVEL DESIGN.

The fashion of trimming cloth or silk with lace has been reversed, and now it is lace which forms the body of the prettiest waists and the materials adorns it. Here is a waist showing the style very prettily, the waist proper being of figured net and he bolero of silk. The waist is very unique in style and wonderfully tetching. Long and short sleeves are provided for, the latter being the more attractive because of the natty little cuffbands which finishes it. Such a waist is smart in white cloth or pongee and may be developed at home without difficulty. For the medium size 3 yards of 27inch material are eeded for the waist and 1⅛ yard of 18inch goods for the bolero.

Talc Quarries.

One of the largest talc quarries in the world is in the St. Barthelemy mountain, Luzenac. The best rock is brilliantly white and has a greasy touch when powdered.

Good Advice to Follow.

Somebody gives the following antithetical advice: "Drink less, breathe more; eat less, chew more; ride less, walk more; clothe less, bathe more; worry less, work more; waste less, give more; write less, read more; preach less, practice more."

Gold Lace.

One ounce of gold will cover more than a hundred miles of silver wire used for making gold lace.

Frogs and Toads.

Frogs and toads have remarkably acute hearing. The slightest noise in the vicinity of a pond will at once attract the attention of the frogs and put them on their guard.

Birth Superstitions.

Among the Vosges peasant children born at the new moon are supposed to have tongues better hung than others while those born at the last quartet have better reasoning powers. A daughter born during the waxing moon is always precocious.

Meat and Moon Rays.

In hot countries meat exposed to the direct rays of the moon putrefies much more rapidly than if kept in the dark.

Herrings Help the Brain.

A medical authority on the virtues of various kinds of food declares that the herring gives the muscles elasticity, the body strength and the brain vigor and is not flesh forming.

Royal Titles.

The kings and queens of England were not always styled "his" or "her" majesty or after the pattern of that bestowed upon Victoria, "her most gracious majesty." Henry IV. was styled "his grace;" Henry VI., "his most excellent grace;' Edward IV., "high and mighty prince;" Henry VII., "his grace and his majesty;" Henry VIII., "his highness" and afterward "his majesty." Subsequently the English kings were styled "his sacred majesty."

THE CRAFTY WOLF.

Stories of His Man Eating Feats Said to Be Untrue.

A skeptical person calling himself St. Croix has been trying to find out whether wolves and bears are maligned by the popular stories of their man eating ways and writes his conclusions for Recreation.

First he tried running down the stories told in newspaper dispatches. Foiled in this effort, he turned to the Indians. They knew the gray wolf, having wintered and summered with him. Had they ever known of an Indian being killed by one? N-no, but Mingan was very crafty and very much to be dreaded.

Quite so. But, once for all, had he ever to their knowledge killed a man? No, but they had heard— So it went—always the same intangible, unconfirmed rumor and the same absence of proof.

"Now for a few facts as to the wolf," writes St. Croix. "He can go eight days without food and can then eat forty pounds of meat at a sitting, so the Indians say. This is pretty fair for an animal weighing but eighty pounds. Yet we do not know the length of the sitting.

"The wolf will not venture on glare ice; he never crosses a lake until there is enough snow to hide the ice. To wetting his feet he is as averse as the domestic cat. He will not kill his game in the shelter of the forest, always driving it into some open place for the kill.

"When chasing a deer, he goes at a leisurely lope, sitting down at intervals to give the most dolorous and bloodcurdling howls. This drives the poor victim into a wild gallop and soon exhausts it, and as the wolf never tires he is sure sooner or later to catch up with the quarry.

"In winter the deer often makes for some wild rapid, into which it plunges, knowing that the wolf will not follow. Too often the deer drowns, but better such a death than one by the fangs.

"In summer a couple of wolves will secure all the deer they need by very simple tactics. Having put up the quarry, one wolf drives it by easy stages to some little lake—I speak now of the Laurentian country—and on reaching the shore the deer plunges unhesitatingly in, for its instinct tells it the enemy will not dare to follow.

"So on it swims, while the pursuer sits on his haunches and howls dismally, no doubt because he sees his dinner escaping. At length the tired deer drags itself wearily from the water and shakes the drops from its coat on the sun warmed strand. Then the companion wolf, which has waylaid its coming, springs at its throat, and when the first wolf joins him they have a gorge that makes them independent of fate for a whole week."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

LINGERING COLD

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ont. "My cough was very dry and harsh.
