

BOARD OF TRADE.

Matters of Great Importance Discussed at Wednesday Night's Meeting.

THE ABERDEEN MILL SIDING.

An important meeting of the Fredericton Board of Trade was held last evening. The Aberdeen mill proposition, shortage of freight cars, inefficient train service on the Fredericton branch and other matters were discussed and action taken thereon.

President Dibble occupied the chair and the others present included Messrs. C. Fred Chestnut, George W. Hodge, J. H. Barry, K. C. F. B. Edgcombe, John J. Weddall and W. E. Farrell.

President Dibble said that he had some correspondence with the Hampton Woodenware Company in regard to establishing their industry in this city and they had promised to send a representative here to meet the council of the Board of Trade.

He next stated that the matter of car shortage was causing considerable inconvenience to mill owners and others in this city. He thought the matter should receive the attention of the railway committee.

There had been some complaints about the train service on the Fredericton branch railway. On Wednesday the noon train was an hour and a half coming from Fredericton Junction, the reason for the delay being that the train stopped to distribute sleepers. It was certainly of importance that a change should be made in this respect.

President Dibble also brought up the matter of the Aberdeen mill. He stated that the mayor and city clerk had interviewed Miss Odell, who had received them very kindly and listened attentively to what they had to say. She intimated that they were not anxious to sell the property, but did not want to stand in the way of the city's growth and progress.

Mr. Edgcombe thought that a siding might be built by way of Northumberland or Smythe streets. President Dibble said he understood from Donald Fraser Jr. that if a siding could not be procured the mill would not be rebuilt.

Warden McFarlane suggested that the city should buy the Odell property, and sell what was not needed for railway purposes for building lots. He believed that it would be a profitable investment for the city.

Mr. Farrell said that he had heard it rumored that the Messrs Fraser had secured an option on the Odell property. The price named was $32,000. He could not vouch for the truth of the statement.

President Dibble said that Miss Odell had promised the Mayor to write to her sister with a view of reconsidering the city's offer.

Mr. Barry was inclined to think that if the railway had the right to expropriate the land, they would have taken action along that line before this. If the city had the power to expropriate the land no doubt the City Clerk would have said so. The city might have the right to expropriate the land for its own purposes but it was doubtful if they had the right to do so for the benefit of a private corporation. He thought the Board should give all the support it could in any effort made to secure the rebuilding of the Aberdeen Mill. He would oppose giving a cash bonus but thought that the granting of the exemption from taxation and free water would meet with public approval. He was quite sure that a railway company could not expropriate for branch lines. He had been informed that Mr. Ryan also wanted railway connection so the question was likely to be a crucially important one in the near future.

ROCKED THE BOAT.

Three Men Drowned Result of Fool Antics.

New York, July 9.—Three members of the crew of the steam yacht Yacona, belonging to Henry Clay Pierce, of St. Louis, were drowned in the Hudson River early today when the small yawl, carrying six of the Yacona's crew and a dock man was capsized by a sailor who rocked the boat. Four of the party were picked up by a passing tug. No traces have been discovered of the three missing men, and the police are convinced that they were drowned. They are: Rudolph Johnson, Frederickson and Herman Von Borsen.

The Yacona came into port yesterday after a week's cruise in Long Island Sound and Captain McDonough gave several of the crew shore leave. Six of the Yacona's crew came down to the landing at Eighty-Sixth street early today after an all night frolic and hailed the Yacona for a launch. There was no answer from the yacht and in their anxiety to get aboard the sailors induced Gus Appleman, a dock man, to take them out to the Yacona. The dock man wanted to divide the party and make two trios, but, against his warnings all six piled into the yawl and started for the steam yacht. Several times during the trip Appleman warned his boisterous passengers to remain quiet as their movements threatened to overturn the boat. Within a dozen boat lengths of the Yacona, one of the sailors gave the yawl a violent lurch, and she capsized, throwing the seven men into the water.

Appleman succeeded in not only clinging to the keel of the overturned boat but also assisted three of the sailors. All four were finally picked up by the tug which had been attracted by the shouts of the men. The crew on board the Yacona, hearing the cries of distress, threw a powerful searchlight over the waters and lowered a boat to search for the three missing men.

No traces of them could be discovered. The police also searched the river without result.

Henry Clay Pierce, the owner of the Yacona, is chairman of the board of the Watees-Pierce Oil Company, of Missouri.

The late Thomas Nolan, a well known member of the bar of New York, was once retained as counsel for a poor widow named Mulcahy. She was suing a construction company for damages by reason of her husband's death, resulting from injuries sustained in the company's service. The case had been frequently postponed, so that it was in a very disturbed state of mind that the widow sought the lawyer just before the case came up for the eighth time.

In court the next day Nolan's rich brogue was more than usually fervid as he fought against the further adjournment of the case. "I am sorry," said the justice presiding, "but, Mr. Nolan, your opponent has shown good cause for adjournment. The case will, therefore, go over till next week." "Very well, sir," said the lawyer, sweetly, "but might I ask one personal favor of this court?" "Certainly," replied the court. "Will Your Honor shew down to my office and tell Mrs. Mulcahy that you have again adjourned the case?"

AN EXCELLENT WORK APRON.

Some new models in work aprons are exceedingly practical, and one which is especially to be commended is shown. The front is in one piece to the shoulder while the side fronts are gored to fit the figure and give the apron a very pretty shape. The front of one's dress is well protected and no more bulk is given than is necessary. Pockets at the sides in front are most convenient and may be used or not as desired. The shoulder straps cross the back and fasten at the belt, the back edges of the skirt portion meeting in the back. The apron is adapted to any of the durable materials—percale, crash, or another being suitable. For the medium size 4 1/2 yards of 36-inches wide are needed. Sizes: small, medium and large. The price of this pattern is ten cents.

Nature "makes all things beautiful in their time." Every one of life's seasons, when life moves on Nature's lines, has its own charm and beauty. Many women dread that period when they must experience change of life. They fear that face and form may suffer by the change, and that they may fail to please those whom they love. The value of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription in this crisis of woman's life lies in the fact that it assists Nature. Its use preserves the balance and buoyancy of the mind and sustains the physical powers. Many women have expressed their gratitude for the help and comfort given by "Favorite Prescription" in this trying period. Its benefits are not passing but permanent. Not a "patent medicine" because all its ingredients are printed on the bottle wrapper.

Jane, the bright new maid, always anxious to please, had been entrusted with the care of a little aquarium in which the goldfish had always thrived very well until Jane came on the scene.

The first day she arrived she gave them fresh water, as instructed, and then left them to their own devices. But, alas, one morning the little fishes were found floating lifeless on their backs.

"Jane," cried the anxious mistress, regarding her pets with anxious concern, "have you given the fish any fresh water lately?"

"No, ma'am. Bless their little hearts, they haven't drunk the water I gave them last month yet!"

"Plenty, sir, but everybody wants references from my last employer."
