

The Daily Herald.

VOL XII

FREDERICTON, N. B., TUESDAY, JULY 30, 1907

NO. 174

E. A. O'BRIEN & CO.

JULY 29.

We have just opened a beautiful lot of

Ladies' Ready-To-Wear Skirts

Ladies' Suits

Ladies' Coats

Silk Waists

Silk Underskirts

If you require any of these goods, we will be pleased to show them.

OUR PRICES ARE RIGHT

E. A. O'Brien & Co

Mail Orders receive prompt attention.

Wall Paper

Our new stock of Wall Paper is now all in. Newest Patterns Border same price per roll. See ours before you buy, we can save you money.

BOSTON 5 and 10
Opposite Soldiers' Barracks.

R. G. LEE & Co.

SURGICAL SUPPLIES

Absorbant Cotton,
Plain and Medicated Gauzes,
Horse Hair,
Catgut and Silk Ligatures,
Surgeons Needles and Silk.
English Drainage Tubing.
Lowest Wholesale Prices.

GEO. Y. DIBBLEE,

PEOPLES' DRUGGIST

opp. City Hall.

Chestnut says

"You are entitled to two comfortable feet. Why not resolve to have them? Scarcely any other minor trouble causes the discomfort and suffering that smarting, aching and burning feet do. These and a variety of other foot ailments are almost instantly relieved by Foot Elm. Price 25c. Mailed to any address on receipt of price."

"THE QUALITY STORE." 572 Queen Street.

Souvenir Goods

Brooches, Stick Pins, Sash Pins, Coffee and Tea Spoons, Novelties, &c., &c. With British, Dominion, Provincial or City Coat of Arms. Large assortment to be seen in up-town window.

F. E. BLACKMER

Opp Normal School

Fredericton, N.B.

MONCTON BUDGET.

Escaped Bear Terror to Citizens--Double Tracking the Intercolonial.

MONCTON, July 30.—(Special)—Residents in the north and west end of the city are somewhat alarmed through the fact that a bear which had been kept in captivity by a resident in that locality, has escaped, and is now in the woods nearby. The animal was captured when small and brought up by a city butcher, who kept it near his abattoir, feeding it on refuse meat. A few days ago, bruin now grown to full size, escaped and has not since been seen. Preliminary work in connection with doubling tracking (the Intercolonial from this city to Painswick Jct., is making good progress. The McManis construction Company, of Memramcook, have a hundred and twenty-five men, broken up into several gangs, employed on the work of excavation and filling in between this city and Humpheys Mills.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

St. John Constable Who Shot Prisoner Cook to Appear Before County Court.

ST. JOHN, July 30.—(Special)—Constable Wm. A. Beckett, who yesterday shot the prisoner John Cook, who attempted to escape from the prison gang, was brought before Judge Ritchie this morning when the charge was read over to him. The evidence of constable Collins and Joshua P. Clayton, supt. of Fernhill Cemetery, was heard and the court adjourned to the public hospital, where the prisoner Cook's evidence was taken. Constable Beckett was sent up for trial, at the next sitting of the county court, 4th. Tuesday in August. He is out on bail.

DEBT OF NOTORIETY.

Mrs. Harry K. Thaw Travelling in Canadian West Was Recognized and Passed on.

BANFF, ALTA, July 30.—(Special)—Mrs. Harry K. Thaw, and party were guests at the C. P. R. hotel here for a few days, but finding even in the west the curiosity of the public annoying, left quietly for the coast. The party were of course registered under assumed names, but Mrs. Thaw was recognized by some who had seen her in the court room in New York.

"WHEN TRIALS COME."

"They Come Not Single Files but in Battalions."

TORONTO, July 30.—(Special)—Samson Leiderman, was the centre of a number of strenuous experiences yesterday. At 3.30 last night, fire broke out in his grocery store at 73 Elizabeth street and burned $1,100 worth of provisions. A few hours before that at 11 a. m. to be precise, a horse owned by him and valued at $300 took fright on Church street and broke its neck by colliding with a telegraph pole. A few hours before that, his wife presented him with twins. Fortunately Leiderman's loss by fire is partially covered by insurance of $800.

FIREMEN'S FESTIVAL.

The festival at Scully's Grove last evening under the auspices of the fire department attracted a crowd of upwards of one thousand people and was very successful in every respect. All the usual sports and games were carried on and met with a very liberal patronage. The Fredericton Brass Band furnished a good program of music to which the light fantastic of the city council and board of trade were tripped until a late hour by fair maidens and gallant swains. The ladies' gate prize, a fruit dish was won by the holder of ticket No. 1221, and the gent's prize, on eight day clock, went to the holder of ticket No. 1356. The winners can have their prizes by calling upon Chief Rutter and producing their coupons.

SUPT. DOWNIE COMING.

Supt. Downie of the C. P. R. has notified Mr. C. Fred Chestnut that he will arrive from Woodstock at 8.30 o'clock tomorrow evening and would like a conference with a committee of the city council and board of trade after his arrival to discuss matters in connection with the train service here. Mr. Chestnut is making arrangements for the conference.

VERY SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. William Howell, a well known citizen, died very suddenly at his home on King street last evening from heart failure. He had been about the house during the day apparently in his usual good health, but along in the afternoon was taken ill and soon passed away. He was eighty-three years of age and a widower. He is survived by two sons, Parker of this city, and Wilbur in the United States. The funeral took place this afternoon with services by Rev. G. B. Payson. Interment was made in the rural cemetery, George W. Adams undertaker.

THE HORSE SALE.

Nineteen horses, imported from the old country by the Local Government will be sold at auction on the exhibition grounds tomorrow afternoon. The sale will begin at two o'clock sharp. Mr. George McEwen will officiate as auctioneer.

Prof. Charles G. D. Roberts will arrive from New York this evening to spend his vacation.

ENORMOUS POTATO CROP.

River Counties Will Produce Three Million Bushels of Tubers this Year.

The local government finished up the business of the session last evening and the members left for home by the 9 o'clock train. Another meeting will be held here on August 15th. It having been brought to the notice of the executive that an enormous potato crop is being grown this season in the counties bordering on the St. John river, and that the farmers might have difficulty in storing and shipping it, at this afternoon's session they appointed Mr. N. S. Dow of Woodstock a commissioner to enquire into the matter. He will visit the different localities and procure statistics for a report which he will submit to the government. Last year the people of the river counties raised a total of one and one half million bushels of potatoes, and this year it is said will total at least three million bushels. The government will co-operate actively with the C. P. R. authorities and take steps to provide increased shipping and storage facilities. Information now in possession of the officials of the agricultural department shows that the potato crop this year will be a record breaker. At the suggestion of St. George's Society, a resolution was passed, ordering the National flag to be hoisted on the government buildings here on fine days in future. The report of the Government Commissioner who attended the enquiry into the Crystal Stream disaster was submitted to the executive and referred to the marine department at Ottawa, which has control of all matters relating to shipping. An order in council was passed apportioning grants to provincial hospitals as follows:

St. John general public...	$3,800
St. John maternity...	250
St. John, Silver Falls...	250
Chatham...	700
St. Stephen...	600
Campbellton...	600
Tracadie...	600
St. Basil...	600
Moncton...	700
Fredericton...	700
Total...	$9,400

TRAGEDIES OF NIAGARA.

Mrs. Newton Jumps Into the Rapids While Insane

Niagara Falls, July 26.—Two more of the three hundred foot ascent tragedies of the Niagara were recorded to-day. Battered and disfigured, and recognizable only by marks on the feet, the body of Elizabeth Newton was seen this morning, floating in the Whirlpool, and soon secured. While suffering from insanity on Monday night, Mrs. Newton left her bed, walked to the edge of the Gorge, fell a distance of thirty-five feet to a roadway below, and then walked down this to the edge of the Rapids and jumped in. Blood from the wounds suffered in her fall matted her course to the brink and told her fate. Since then searchers have been working constantly trying to locate the body. Large quantities of dynamite were exploded in the eddies with the intention of dislodging the body. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen trees to the top of the three-hundred foot ascent. Coroner Wilson decided that no inquest was necessary and turned the body over to the family. William Burgess, a well-known resident of this city, was killed late this afternoon by falling over the cliff of the Gorge at the foot of Queen street. No one witnessed the accident. Burgess was seen in the vicinity after 4 o'clock, and about 5 o'clock his lifeless body was accidentally discovered at the foot of the bank. The corpse was badly cut and broken up, and Dr. McGarry says death was instantaneous. The accident occurred within sight of his home. The body had to be hoisted up the cliff with ropes. Burgess was about thirty years of age, married, and an out result. The identification of the body was made by her husband, Allan Chapman, a brother. The body could not be taken up the cliff from the place where it was secured, and had to be returned to the water and towed to the foot of a practicable path. It took hours to bring it over the rocks and fallen